MORE SECRET PAPERS FOUND PARTLY BURNED

LONDON (AFP) — Secret British documents were found partly burned today in a public park in Chislehurst, Kent. Similar documents, also charred by fire, were found near the park Wednesday. They concerned American missiles and bases in Europe.

Defence Minister Denis Healey ordered an inquiry after the first discovery, though he told the House of Commons that the documents referred to the period before 1958 and did not constitute a security danger.

Fulton Throws Hat in Ring For Leadership of Tories

—Times Photos by Bill Halkett

UP A NOT very lazy river this morning goes Saanich municipal employee Armando Zambrano, one of corps of shovel-wielding, rubber-booted workers trying to contain rivers where roads ought to be. Mr. Zambrano was posted on Gordon Head Road, where flooding was not known to have occurred in any extent in past years. Conjecture was that recent work on nearby University Gordon Head campus may have abetted flooding hazard on road. Five Saanich roads, including Gordon Head, were closed to traffic.

Other Contenders Silent

Davie Fulton, Progressive Conservative MP for Kamloops, said today he expects to be a candidate for the party leadership when the convention is called to decide it.

The former cabinet minister said that when the party's national executive sets the time and place he will make a "campaign statement."

Mr. Fulton talked to reporters in Ottawa after Conservative Leader Diefenbaker's television statement Wednesday night calling for an early leadership convention.

Mr. Fulton, long regarded as a potential candidate, said Mr. Diefenbaker's statement did not alter the over-all situation.

ACCEPTANCE

"What it does is to indicate his acceptance of the majority decision of the last annual meeting that there should be a leadership convention," he said.

"That is a welcome development."

Mr. Fulton insisted there is "nothing new in my position."

"That is, when a leadership convention is called I expect to be a candidate."

Mr. Fulton, justice minister and then works minister in the Conservative government between 1957 and 1963, finished third in voting at the 1956 Conservative convention that elected Mr. Diefenbaker party leader. Donald Fleming of Toronto, now retired from politics, was second.

Michael Starr, 56, Conservative leader in the Commons and former labor minister, said he would run only if Mr. Diefenbaker didn't.

Richard A. Bell, 53-year-old MP for Carleton and one-tme immigration minister, said he had no comment on his plans.

LEADING CONTENDER

Of the three former cabinet ministers, Mr. Fulton is regarded as the leading contender.

Ontario Premier John Robarts, 50, said bluntly: "I will not be a candidate." Another Conservative premier mooted frequently for the federal post, 52-year-old Robert Stanfield of Nova Scotia, said he had no comment on Mr. Diefenbaker's speech.

There was no immediate word from Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba. At one time, he was generally considered Mr. Diefenbaker's personal choice to

Dief Asks Early Decision

OTTAWA (CP) — John George Diefenbaker went to the Conservative people on Wednesday, asking for a decision as soon as possible on the man they want to lead their party.

He left open the question of whether or not he would be a candidate when convention time comes.

But he asked for attendance at the convention of those Conservatives to whom he has always appealed most.

And he added that his speech on a national CBC telecast was "no swan song. Those who will interpret it that way do not know me."

Throughout his recent leadership troubles, Mr. Diefenbaker has held a hard core of support from many local riding associations, particularly rural ones, and from the candidates they picked who now sit as MPs.

In calling for a leadership convention at "the earliest possible date," the 71 - year - old party chief said he wants "delegates democratically chosen by the constituency organization, not delegates at large named by provincial organizations," to attend it.

DESERVE HEARING

The "average Conservative" should have an opportunity to be heard. Mr. Diefenbaker called them "often silent hosts" who had given of their best and deserved a hearing.

And he said he wants the party to remain what it has been during his 10 years of leadership—"a people's party. It shall not become the plaything or the puppet of a powerful few."

Mr. Diefenbaker promised a "fight to the limit against any group or interest attempting to make of this party something other than what it has become —a people's party, standing for what is best in Canada, and never losing sight of the needs of the average, humble Canadian, whether young or old."

He was hissed and booed at that meeting as he tried to head off a move for an assessment of his leadership spearheaded by Dalton C. Camp, the national president. Mr. Camp

POWER, TELEPHONE SERVICES INTERRUPTED

Homes, Streets Flooded

By GLEN ALLEN

Electric power was out in Port Renfrew, Sidney streets were under water and near-pandemonium prevailed at points in between as the rains came overnight in extra abundance.

Well over one and one-half inches of rain had fallen on Greater Victoria homes, gardens and roads since Wednesday, flooding basements, swamping flower beds and making rivers of streets.

The normal quota of rainfall for the entire month of January is only two and one-half inches.

Municipal engineers, their staffs, all public works departments and police forces were out on the roads all morning checking the more serious of individual complaints and blockading roads where necessary.

"Boats are recommended," said a Saanich police officer this morning. "We just don't have the storm drains to handle this sort of thing."

Calls were coming into Saanich municipal hall at the rate of two a minute. About 300 had been taken by noon.

ROADS CLOSED

At press time several roads in Saanich, the hardest-hit of Victoria area municipalities, had been or were about to be blockaded. They were:

Gordon Head at Ruby; portions of Tyndall; Interurban at Marigold and Quayle; Blenkinsop between Mount Douglas Cross Road and Simon; Hastings at Granville and Holland and Shelbourne near Cedar Hill.

The city reports receiving "a constant stream" of calls reporting flooded basements. City engineer James Garnett, two inspectors and two assistants were outside on the job all morning.

No streets are closed off in the city.

ESQUIMALT HIT

Esquimalt public works department reported troubles "of all kinds" and "all over." Hampered by a cut in telephone service at about 10:30 a.m., all Esquimalt works crews were said to be out on the roads.

City police were relaying telephone calls through the police radio system.

Oak Bay Municipal Hall reported "basement and drain" difficulties, but no roads flooded.

All outlying police departments reported flooding complaints but no real emergencies.

Moving water was wheel-high on some Saanich Roads. Several automobiles stalled where water was deepest, on Gordon Head Road just below the University.

The University campus itself

28 CREWMEN MISSING

N. Koreans Sink South Navy Ship

SEOUL (UPI) — A South Korean navy patrol craft was sunk by North Korean shore batteries today when it darted into Communist coastal waters to intercept 70 southern fishing vessels which had strayed while chasing schools of fish. Twenty-eight of the patrol craft's 79 crewmen were listed as missing.

It was the most serious naval incident since the Korean armistice and the first time a South Korean navy ship was sunk by the Communists.

COUNTER-MEASURES

South Korean President Park Chung Hee called an urgent cabinet meeting for Friday to discuss "strong counter-measures" but reliable government sources discounted the possibility of any renewed large-scale clashes.

U.S. Maj.-Gen. Richard G. Ciccollela, chief of the United Nations command in Korea, denounced the attack and asked for a meeting of the Korean Military Armistice Commission Saturday to discuss the incident.

The UN command said the patrol craft had entered the coastal waters about 2:30 p.m. today (12:30 a.m. EST) to retrieve the 70 southern fishing boats that had strayed while chasing schools of pollack.

200 ROUNDS

The 560-ton patrol craft, identified only as Number 56, sank within 20 minutes after the Communist shore batteries near Kosunb opened a 200-round shelling without warning. South Korean patrol ships are 180-foot-long former U.S. Navy patrol and escort vessels of Second World War vintage.

The South Korean defence ministry said the 51 rescued crewmen were pulled from the waters of the Sea of Japan under air cover from Korean Air Force jet fighters.

"The innocent and non-hostile action of our patrol craft cannot justify this unconscionable and gruesome act of violence," Ciccollela said in a letter to the North Korean member of the armistice commission.

WIRE BRIEFS

Accused of Spying

PEKING (CP) — A purged Communist party official, Yang Shang-Kun, was accused today of installing microphones in the residence of Mao Tse-tung, conferring repeatedly in secret with the Soviet ambassador and conveying secret vital documents to Moscow. The espionage charge is the first on public record against a high official in the history of Communist China.

Damaging Earthquake

WASHINGTON (AP)—A potentially damaging earthquake on or near the New Hebrides islands in the South Pacific was reported today by the U.S. coast and geodetic survey.

Agreement Reached

PARIS (AP) — France and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization have reached agreement on the terms of co-operation between French and NATO forces in West Germany in the event of war, reliable sources say. No details were disclosed.

Mine Blast Kills 19 In N. Zealand

The blast flung bodies in all directions as it ripped through the Strongman mine midway through the morning shift.

First word of the tragedy was brought to the surface by a miner who emerged covered in black grime, shocked and stumbling but otherwise unhurt.

Another miner working near the blast scene said:

"It was like the suction from a giant vacuum cleaner. I was as close as anyone to the edge of the blast and was thrown off my feet. . . . My knees are still shaking."

Rescue teams which raced to the mine nine miles north of here found part of the roof caved in, blocking access to the section where the 19 victims had been working.

Ironically, they were scheduled to work there only for the one day.

INDUSTRIAL CITIES IN NORTH VIET HIT

Most Violent Raids of War

HANOI (AFP)—This week's U.S. bombing raids, especially those against the industrial cities of Viet Tri and Thai Nguyen, were among the biggest and most violent of the Vietnam war.

Some 250 American planes took part Monday in attacks running from the 17th parallel all the way up to Vinh Phuc, northwest of the capital. The heaviest blows came Saturday, Sunday and Wednesday against Viet Tri, and Tuesday against Thai Nguyen.

An official protest to the International Control Commission said civilians suffered heavily in both cities. The commission is composed of India, Canada and Poland.

Viet Tri and Thai Nguyen are both communications hubs.

Almost the entire work force in the factories of Viet Tri was evacuated from the city after the November bombings, which caused extensive damage. The principal industry there is paper.

Thai Nguyen is considered the industrial pillar of North Vietnam. The country's first complete steel mill was built there, producing the first cast iron made in Indochina in early 1965.

Three blast furnaces and an open hearth furnace to produce high-quality steels were to be ready at the end of 1966. It was not known whether the plant was hit during the raids.

SAIGON—U.S. forces in Vietnam suffered nearly 1,200 casualties last week, their highest weekly total of the Vietnam war. The U.S. command said 144 men were killed and six were missing.

'Rain of Fire Death' Awes Even Americans

SAIGON (UPI) — Giant U.S. Air Force B52s burned out 18 square miles of a major Communist hideaway jungle Wednesday with saturation firebombing of the type that terrorized German cities in the Second World War.

The bombers swept in waves 20,000 feet over the 200-foot-high trees of the southeast corner of War Zone D and dumped tons of Second World War-type incendiary bombs that broke up into smaller magnesium bomblets before striking earth, spokesmen said.

The rain of fire awed even the airmen. "It looks like the Fourth of July," said an airman watching the blue-white magnesium blaze incinerate the jungle 32 miles northeast of Saigon and adjacent to the iron triangle where American troops have killed more than 500 Communists in an 11-day sweep, Operation Cedar Falls.

'HOMES, SCHOOLS BOMBED'

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — An American newspaper editor says American bombs have destroyed schools, homes and churches in North Vietnam.

Bill Baggs, editor of the Miami News, said some of the destroyed buildings he saw during an eight-day visit to North Vietnam were nowhere near military targets.

"The most frequent complaint a visiting American in Hanoi hears, and he hears it from intellectuals and government persons and peasants and soldiers, is:

"Why does the American government say its bombers only strke at steel and concrete in the air war against North Vietnam.

"No answer is going to convince these people. You tell them that mistakes are made in war. . . .

Baggs went to North Vietnam earlier this month accompanied by Harry S. Ashmore, chairman of the executive committee of the Centre for the Study of Democratic Institutions. Baggs is a director of the centre.

He wrote a series of copyrighted news articles that was made available to The Associated Press.

FIGHT SHIFTS TO COUNTRY

Peasants Bribed By Foes of Mao

TOKYO (CP) — Followers of Mao Tse-tung disclosed today that his opponents have extended their "counter-offensive" from the cities to the countryside in a bid to win over China's 500,000,000 peasants.

It was a direct challenge to Mao who, in the past, has managed to hold the support of the peasants who make up two-thirds of the mainland population.

Supporters of Mao's chief foe, President Liu Shao-chi, were reported trying to influence the peasants the same way they did workers in the industrial centres—through economic benefits.

Meanwhile, a Japanese correspondent in Peking reports bloody clashes took place between followers of Mao and Liu in Shenyang, Harbin and Dairen in Manchuria and Chengchow in central China. He says wall posters report 58 persons were injured Dec. 21 when about 3,000 Red Guards who had swung over to Liu's side clashed with 600 Maoists in Dairen, major port and gateway to Manchuria.

The correspondent says anti-Mao textile workers and their supporters clashed with pro-Mao Red Guards Jan. 7-8 in Chengchow. One person was reported killed and 23 seriously injured.

Six persons were reported seriously injured and scores slightly hurt Jan. 6 in similar clashes in Shenyang, the report adds.

BURNED EFFIGY

A Chinese woman arriving in Hong Kong from Canton said about 100 Chinese burned Mao in effigy in that southern city Wednesday. Hundreds of bystanders cheered and applauded, the woman said.

In another development, China's Communist party newspaper calls on forces backing Mao to recapture control of the Chinese press from reactionary elements.

"To seize control of the press is the militant task of the proletarian revolutionaries," the Peking People's Daily says.

The Communist party organ stresses the vital role the press plays in influencing the public.

. . . STREETS FLOODED

was reported having only "minor" problems with water.

B.C. Hydro lines were knocked down by falling trees and branches on the West Coast Road and in Port Renfrew.

Two Sooke outages were remedied by crews but Port Renfrew at press time was without electricity.

A "lake" of water had collected at Fifth and Ocean Streets near the ferry slip in Sidney.

Air service has not as yet been interrupted by runway flooding, but Sidney RCMP reports over a foot of water in parts of the airport parking lot.

Victoria Parks Department said city parks were not flooding badly, although all games on turf playing fields have been cancelled.

A check with the Greater Victoria Water district revealed reservoirs were in places "dirtying" and "clay banks are flying here and there" but there is no overflow problem as yet.

Several Saanich householders have complained to Saanich health officers that water flooding into their basements, specifically in the Gordon Head and Majestic Park areas, is not only six inches deep but contains septic tank overflow.

An emergency control centre was set up in Saanich municipal hall to handle telephone and despatching duties.

At least one man interviewed this morning had taken the day off work to build a dike around his back yard.

WORST IS OVER

Weatherman Alan MacQuarrie said "the worst is over".

He expects this morning's lashing rain to change to showers late this afternoon then to light showers Friday.

"While this is not a record for rainfall," said Mr. MacQuarrie, "it is a lot of rain.

"We have had 5.48 inches of it already this month and the normal figure for the whole month is two and one-half inches."

He said flooding occurred because the ground had already soaked what it could before the heavy rain overnight.

Slip Hurts Workman

The North Surrey man was working on a new radio beacon next to the Island's lighthouse when he apparently slipped.

The West Coast lifeboat was called out when it was feared Mr. Forbes had broken a bone.

But X-rays at Tofino hospital proved negative.

He was treated and returned to the job.

. . . LEADERSHIP

succeed him in the federal leadership. He is 49.

Alvin Hamilton, 54, MP for Qu'Appelle, another mooted candidate, shied away from direct comment. He said: "My stand has always been the same. I like to be loyal to my leader."

Mr. Hamilton, former agriculture minister, added: "We have a call for a leadership convention and that I support."

Still to be heard from was George Hees, 56, Conservative MP for Northumberland, who also has leadership ambitions.

The only other avowed candidate is John MacLean, 40-year-old businessman in Brockville, Ont., who said he will run. He was the unsuccessful Conservative candidate in Leeds in the 1965 federal general election.

Dalton Camp, national president of the Progressive Conservative Association, was among the first to welcome Mr. Diefenbaker's call for a convention.

SHARES CONCERN

Mr. Camp was in Montreal Wednesday night to address a party riding meeting and said he shares Mr. Diefenbaker's concern "that the party shall not fall into the hands of a small group."

The president said he is prepared to call a meeting of the executive committee of the party's national executive Feb. 3-4. He had previouly arranged for a meeting of this group Feb. 10-11.

He said there were at least two major problems to consider about an early convention.

"I think in the spring there is a definite possibility of provincial elections, and this has to be considered. Further, we have to look for a city to hold the convention."

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

A deep extensive low pressure area is moving slowly north eastward across the Gulf of Alaska. Surges of moist Pacific air moving around the low centre have given extensive rainfall to coastal areas of B.C. during the past 24 hours with snow along the coastal mountains and over the balance of the province east of the coast range. Friday the main thrust of moisture will be across the Washington, Oregon coast with only showers along the B.C. coast.

Direct Appeal To Johnson

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI) — Israeli Premier Levi Eshkol today cabled President Johnson that Arab actions on the Syrian border had become "unsupportable." He warned "there is a legitimate limit even to self-restraint."

High government sources said Eshkol also cabled a similar assessment of continuing Arab border harassments to French President de Gaulle.

They said Eshkol told both leaders that "Syria and the world must try to understand that any extension of aggresion must be met with active defence."

It was believed to be the firt time Eshkol had appealed directly to Johnson for help in getting Syria to halt the almost daily skirmishes that have flared up along the tense 48-mile Israeli-Syrian frontier since the year began.

The cables were sent less than a day after the arrival of the first U.S. arms shipments to Jordan to bolster the government of moderate King Hussein. Five minutes of sudden gunfire Wednesday broke recent calm on the Israel-Jordan armistice line.

Window-Kicker Held in Jail For Sentence

A youth who admitted kicking out a plate glass display window at a downtown department store will wait in jail until he is sentenced Jan. 24.

Daniel Gibson, 17, of 627 Manchester, pleaded guilty to wilful damage when he appeared in central court today.

Damage was $420, court was told.

Gibson's case was transferred from juvenile court. He has been in custody since he was arrested Jan. 3.

He will be sentenced Tuesday after Magistrate Ostler has studied a probation officer's report.

Chamber Slate In Esquimalt

Esquimalt Chamber of Commerce Wednesday marked its first anniversary with election of a new panel of officers.

71 PLEDGE DSUPPORT

But after the convention, 71 of his 95 followers in the Commons presented him with a pledge of their sworn support. And Mr. Diefenbaker delighted in showing visitors to his office bundles of letters and telegrams he said he had received in support of his leadership.

He referred to these in his TV speech, thanking "the many hundreds and thousands" who had written offering counsel and advice "and, above all, that encouragement which makes it possible for those of us who serve in public life to be able to withstand the slings and arrows of fortune."

Mr. Diefenbaker offered reminiscences about the election success he worked in leading his party to power in 1957, the year after he was picked as leader.

Last September a poll indicated there was the narrowest margin ever between the Liberals and Conservatives, narrower than 1957, he said.

However, that was also the time when "critical speeches, condemnatory speeches," were starting to be heard about the party. They brought division that was not good for Canada or Conservatives.

Mr. Diefenbaker recalled that many Conservatives were opposed to him at the 1956 convention. They were still in the ranks of "those who are against me now."

LULL FOLLOWED

Then came the annual Conservative party convention, Mr. Diefenbaker said. When it ended, "a lull followed."

But once again "an undercurrent of stern and unrelenting criticism" was flowing and the only benefactors were the Liberals and New Democrats.

"Therefore . . . I have come to the conclusion, after consultation with Canadians in all parts of the nation, that any delay in calling a national convention will add to confusion, generate uneasiness and harm the interests of the nation."

Mr. Diefenbaker spent the last few minutes of his speech on party policy, which he said must be based on principles of the past but kept up to date to meet changing conditions.

The time was overdue for removal of "the noose of tight money that is throttling Canada," for action on unreasonable interest rates and the rising cost of living.

Policies were needed in education, where costs were running higher than ever before.

Union Men Charged

CHICAGO (AP) — Five members of two maritime unions were charged Tuesday of waging a campaign of terror in a bitter labor dispute involving Canadian Great Lakes seamen. A federal grand jury charged the five with a series of violent acts, including the bombing of a Canadian freighter in Chicago and the bombing of railway facilities.

DEMONSTRATORS URGED TO GIVE HIM 'FAIR GO'

Ky Wins Sympathy in Australia

CANBERRA (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam encountered anti-war demonstrators again today but he also heard friendly shouts from the crowds on the second day of his five-day visit to Australia.

Although labor unions continued to organize opposition to the visit, the premier and his wife were greeted almost everywhere in the capital with the traditional Australian call on demonstrators to give Ky "a fair go, mate."

As Ky placed a wreath on a monument to Australia's war dead, one of the demonstrators present shouted: "What do we call it now? The butcher's block?"

Several hundred persons, including a few pro-Ky demonstrators, booed in disapproval, then applauded when Ky bowed his head in prayer.

Several hundred anti - war pickets were on hand when Ky arrived at a hotel to appear before the Australian National Press Club. There was prolonged and enthusiastic applause from more than 250 luncheon guests after his speech.

Ky questioned why there has been such criticism of the "accidental and regrettable deaths" from U.S. bombing of North Vietnam and comparatively little public notice of Viet Cong terrorism.

"Doctors, priests, monks, welfare workers and nurses are slaughtered in cold blood," Ky said. "Busloads of small children going to school and housewives going to market are blown up.

"Village elders are mutilated. Farmers knifed to death. . . .

Vote Defeat On Rail Bill Embarrassing

By DAVID DAVIDSON

OTTAWA (CP)—The minority Liberal government was defeated in the Commons for the first time in more than two years Wednesday as the Opposition carried by one vote an amendment to the bill to establish a national transportation policy.

The loss during Commons committee study of a contentious section of the 94-clause bill did not qualify as a non-confidence vote but was an embarrassment to the government.

Approved was an amendment by Gordon Churchill (PC—Winnipeg South Centre) that removes from the bill a proposed review after three years of the freight rates on grain.

The Liberals drew no support from minor parties on the Conservative motion, which carried 59 to 58.

The government last was defeated in the fall of 1964 during committee consideration of legislation setting up the Canada Labor Code. Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) had proposed an additional statutory holiday under the act and it was approved.

Transport Minister Pickersgill was disturbed by Wednesday's defeat and said he would have to consult departmental lawyers on whether another section can be drafted.

He said approval of Mr. Churchill's amendment had removed the definition of grain from the bill. He wanted time to determine whether the vote may have "destroyed the Crowsnest rates."

Pickersgill Says He Was Humiliated

Outside the Commons, Mr. Pickersgill said he was humiliated by loss of the vote.

An aide said the minister had worked more than three years on the bill "and with the goal line in sight, suddenly was cut down."

He said it was "sloppy management" that there weren't sufficient Liberals in the Commons to carry the vote. Several Liberal MPs returned to the Commons chamber minutes after the voting.

The aide said several Liberal MPs would get a dressing down for not being at the committee session.

Western members in opposition vigorously debated the section that would have required a review of the Crowsnest Pass rates which were set down by statute in 1897.

The section would give the 17-man commission set up by the bill the job of inquiring into revenue and costs to the railways "that are attributable to the carriage of grain and grain products."

The findings of a review would be presented to the government. If there were losses to the railways recommendations would be made for compensation.

Mr. Pickersgill said submissions of the railways to the commission reviewing grain freight rates would be scrutinized.

"No government, with so many other ways of spending the taxpayers' money, will want to pay a nickel in subsidies to the railways unless those are thoroughly justified," he said.

Edward Nasserden (PC—Rosthern) asked whether there had been a deal with the railways.

No Deals Made With Railways

"I do not know how many times I need to say that I made no deal with the railways or anybody else," Mr. Pickersgill said.

"I made a statement to Parliament that we intended to introduce legislation to enable the railways to compete, to allow them to charge freight rates within a certain maximum and minimum.

"They would set those rates as other businessmen do. That was not a deal. That was a statement of public policy."

The railways have said the Crowsnest rates are inadequate and a royal commission on transportation agreed with them.

But the commission made its report in 1958. Mr. Pickersgill said the government wants the review to assess present conditions, particularly in view of large wheat sales in recent years.

David Lewis (NDP — York South) said the commission already would be empowered under another section of the act to conduct studies on transportation. The minister said the section wasn't sufficiently broad.

The committee also approved a government amendment that would require 30 days notice rather than 10 before putting rate changes into effect.

Mr. Pickersgill said rates in the Atlantic provinces under the Maritime Freight Rates Act would be frozen for another two years.

MARTIN DEFENDS U.S. POLICY

Criticism 'Unjustified'

VANCOUVER (CP) — External Affairs Minister Martin parried student sniping at United States Vietnam policy Wednesday by putting aside a prepared speech and defending American action.

Questioned about what some Simon Fraser University students called U.S. brutality and blundering in the Vietnam war, Mr. Martin asked the students to think again.

"The U.S. is a country whose friendship I greatly value.

"There is far too much unjustified attacking of a great and free nation.

"I don't agree with everything the U.S. has done in Vietnam. But I do ask that those of you who use the situation . . . as a bridge on which to attack the U.S. think again about what you are doing."

Mr. Martin said the U.S. is providing an example of sacrifice and freedom in action and "I challenge you to give me one instance of a nation at war in which there has been so much freedom of speech and opinion of members of government, on campuses, and in forums of every kind."

Mr. Martin was first sidetracked from his prepared speech when he was handed copies of an open letter signed "Some fellow Liberals" that accused the federal government of lacking principle by violating Vietnam war neutrality in "underhanded support . . . for American war policy."

Mr. Martin said there is no truth to such accusations. Canada has lived up to her role in the International Control Commission in Vietnam and has given aid only to Vietnamese civilians.

He said Canada is a noncombatant in the war and has for the last 11 months been trying to bring about peace talks.

He wished he could give more details on peace moves but "no one would seriously suggest that in a matter as serious as this, when world peace may hang in the balance, anyone would threaten to wreck the program by premature disclosure of facts."

FIRE HITS CATHEDRAL

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Authorities today faced the difficult task of trying to restore as much as possible of Mexico City's treasured cathedral, a 300-year-old monument to Spanish colonial art that was severely damaged by a fire Wednesday.

Water and smoke ruined priceless religious paintings, Italian and Spanish organs dating back three centuries, a gold-leafed altar and wall frescoes.

Hanoi Raids May Bring China in War

VANCOUVER (CP) — Continued United States bombing of North Vietnam could force the country into the arms of the Chinese instead of to the negotiating table, Chester Ronning said Wednesday night.

Mr. Ronning, a Far East expert from Camrose, Alta., said nuclear war with China would be almost inevitable if North Vietnam was forced to turn to the Chinese for help against the U.S.

He told the Vancouver branch of the United Nations Association and the Canadian Institute of International Affairs that nuclear warfare would be the only kind any nation could hope to pursue with any hope of success against China.

HAS MANPOWER

Mr. Ronning, a 71-year-old Canadian diplomat born in China, said "if the Chinese go into Vietnam and the war continues along conventional lines, there is not the slightest possibility of any other power winning because the Communists have the greatest manpower resource ever.

"I have no doubt that if the Chinese are asked for help they will go into Vietnam. They may even go in if they are not asked—just as readily as they did when they crossed the Yalu River in Korea."

Mr. Ronning has made two peace missions to Hanoi on behalf of the Canadian government.

GROW 'EM TOUGHER

Life Expectancy Highest in West

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—As westerners have long known they grow them tougher in the West.

Men born in the prairie provinces show the highest life expectancy at birth under new figures released Wednesday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

The life expectancy at birth for Canadian males rose from 60 years in 1930-32 to 68.35 years in 1960-62, a gain of 8.35 years.

The correspoinding female gain was 12.07 years from 62.10 in 1930-32 to 74.17 in 1960-62 according to the DBS report.

The changing pattern of mortality by leading causes of death and its effect on life expectancy are summarized in the report. During the period under study, reduction in death rates and hence improvement in life expectancy have been greatest at the younger age and have tended to diminish with advancing age. Many diseases have been eliminated as leading causes of death in all or some age groups and the death toll of most other major diseases has been reduced.

ADEN BIRTHDAY MARKED

ADEN (Reuters)—Violent demonstrations and a paralysing strike hit Aden today, the 128th anniversary of British occupation of South Arabia.

Eleven Arab policemen and one Arab civilian were injured in one of 11 grenade explosions in several parts of Aden.

Four vehicles of the South Arabian federal government were set ablaze, and an Aden broadcasting service van was hit by gunfire. No one was hurt.

Workers in Aden defied their unions and struck for 24 hours against British occupation, in response to a call by the banned National Front for the Liberation of occupied South Yemen.

The strike was described as being almost 100 per cent effective.

How's that for openers?

Why do people drink five million glasses of Guinness daily? Well, it could be Guinness' delightful touch of bitterness. Or that rich, creamy texture. Or perhaps its deep ruby colour. This old Irish brew is unique. Constantly unique. Now in British Columbia, Guinness is available where beer is sold and enjoyed. So why don't you discover the brew that tastes like no other on earth. Just for a change.

The 'Bargain'

THE ANNOUNCEMENT FROM Washington last weekend that the power-generating capacity of Grand Coulee Dam is to be expanded almost five-fold, making it the world's largest electricity producer, has inevitably raised anew the question of how far-sighted the British Columbia government was when it negotiated the Columbia River Treaty and then made Ottawa swallow the deal against the advice of some of its foremost experts.

Provincial Resources Minister Williston greeted the Grand Coulee announcement with the comment that it was proof the Columbia Treaty was a good deal for everyone. Mr. David Barret NDP member for Coquitlam and Mr. W. H. Herridge, NDP MP for Kootenay West, said that on the contrary the increased power plan by the United States demonstrates that the Columbia deal was a sell-out of Canadian interests. Undoubtedly a great deal more is going to be heard on both sides of this argument when the provincial Legislature opens, but in the meantime it is interesting to recall that the latest development is one which was foreseen by the late General A. G. L. McNaughton and was one of the reasons he was strongly opposed to the treaty as it was signed.

The nub of the matter is that the cash settlement paid by the United States for downstream benefits under the treaty was based on the estimated power generation which would be obtained, and at that time the American negotiators said this would be a maximum of 3.672 million kilowatts. This was accepted by Canada and formed the basis on which the cash return for the treaty was calculated. Now the United States says the ultimate capacity will be 9.2 million kilowatts, and not only does Canada receive nothing further in the way of cash return from this highly valuable increment, but under the terms of the treaty the extra power is not shareable with Canada either.

Writing in the spring, 1963, issue of International Journal, Gen. McNaughton tried to warn against just this sort of development. He stated: ". . . when thermal generation becomes dominant in the United States, it will be used primarily for base load. The hydro plants will by then be much more intensively developed toward meeting diurnal upswings in demand to the limit of the flows available . . . the use of the very valuable service of storage regulation for peaking, which increases, is not reflected by the treaty formula in the benefits which are shareable with Canada."

Now that it is becoming painfully likely that the heavy obligations incurred by British Columbia to build storage dams under the treaty are not going to be paid for by the cash returns, and that the United States is going to gain benefits vastly greater than were envisaged during negotiations, it becomes apparent that a great resource has been exploited for a relatively small return.

Nor is that all. A comment by Senator Henry M. Jackson of Washington indicates that Canada has undertaken to export much more than water under the Columbia Treaty. The increased Grand Coulee capacity, Sen. Jackson said, will keep the United States Northwest area competitive industrially for years to come while domestic consumers can also look forward to low electricity rates. The United States is importing, with Columbia River water, both jobs and low-price electricity, neither of which seem assured for British Columbia by the Columbia deal.

The Pressure To Learn

THE APPEAL OF DR. MACdonald, president of the University of British Columbia, for greatly increased funds for higher education in the coming year has been echoed by the University of Victoria's President Taylor. Beyond any doubt the unexpectedly rapid increase in university enrolments continues to create an emergency situation on this province's campuses.

The University of Victoria already has the student population of about 3,500 which it was not estimated to receive until the session of 1971-72. The opening of two new classroom buildings this term has relieved some of the critical nature of the problem for the time being, but many makeshift arrangements are still necessary in the use of these buildings and the wooden shacks which were left over from army training in the last world war.

Still needed is an administration building from which to run this major institution; pressure is increasing for more space for the sciences; and next year — as each year—there will be 400 new students needing classrooms. With growth of the student body, extra library accommodation will be required; additional residences, cafeterias, meeting rooms become necessary; and the operating costs of the institution increase in proportion.

The University of Victoria, with its Victoria College tradition, has an excellent record of scholarship and achievement. With such a background it would be a tragic loss for students, by reason of overcrowding or lack of staff, to be deprived of this traditional quality.

In this age education must be a top priority item in the financing program of any level of government. During this unprecedented, rapid expansion of student needs an attempted policy of hold-the-line would be folly. By every criterion, the provincial government should recognize the urgency of today's requirements and provide adequate public funds for this vital public service.

To Involve Indians in School

LAST MONTH MR. WILF PECK, a retiring trustee, suggested to the Cowichan community that it seek some means of giving Indians a voice in school board deliberations.

The trustee made the point that Indians on reservations were not in a position to qualify as school board candidates, but they nevertheless represented a substantial element in the local population and deserved to be heard in educational affairs directly affecting their children.

Last week in Ottawa Mr. Laing's explanation of the law concerning Indians and school boards emphasized the point made by the Cowichan trustee. He said that "although section 113 of the Indian Act authorizes the minister to enter into agreements with the provinces for the establishment of school boards on reserves, there is only one example of such action being taken, at Moose Factory in northern Ontario."

This exception, made possible by Ontario enabling legislation, permits Indian representation on the body organized to administer funds approved by the department. But it does not give the board on the reserve power to raise money for education through local taxation.

Furthermore, Mr. Laing pointed out, almost 50 per cent of Indian children in schools are now in provincial systems "with excellent arrangements for local liaison and administration." And, the minister stated, "local participation in administration of federal Indian schools will be expanded as quickly as applicable legislation and local circumstances permit."

"An Indian voice in education would encourage Indians to take a deeper interest in schooling for their young people. That is desirable in order to persuade more of the children from the bands to progress further up the educational ladder and so improve their chances in present-day competitive society.

Supervision for a Super-Commission

HOW is Parliament to supervise the super-commission which will have authority in all fields of national transportation? The importance of this question is obvious and there is little disagreement among members as to the objective sought. But it is proving very difficult to resolve differences as to means. Mr. Gildas Molgat, in his appearance before the standing committee last November, placed great stress on the importance of strengthening and augmenting the committee so that it might sit and work continuously throughout the year.

Western

He urged that it be provided with a small but permanent staff of experts, suggested many fields of study and activity in which it might engage and even visualized it as a "board of appeal" available to aggrieved shippers or groups.

As Mr. Molgat said, the bill is an "experiment" in the sense that it represents a quite new approach to the transportation problem. It will undoubtedly have far-reaching effects but no one (the railways included) can measure the probable consequences because it is a venture into the unknown.

Thus it is accepted by all members that Parliament must maintain a close watch on the progress of the experiment. In practice Parliament checks on the agencies and corporations to whom it has delegated important powers through its special or standing committees. But the results are often far from satisfactory and few committees, if any, develop the expertise which would seem essential in the case of transportation.

Perennial Grievance

Standing committees are appointed, not for a Parliament, but on a sessional basis. There may be long delays before they are constituted and given terms of reference; this, in fact, is a perennial grievance. Normally, they do not have expert staff and this is perhaps the more serious because of the constantly changing membership.

Moreover, the standing committee on transportation will always have before it a great deal of relatively routine but nonetheless important work, such as the estimates of the department of transport and the reports of the various Crown corporations.

The most radical proposal for change was one put forward before Christmas by Mr. Baldwin of Peace River. This is very similar to Mr. Molgat's suggestion; indeed, Mr. Pickersgill found them "almost identical," although this appears an over-simplification.

Mr. Baldwin wants a statutory committee; something quite new in Canada although there is precedent for it in Australia. His amendment would require a small nine-member National Transport Act committee to be appointed for the duration of a Parliament within 15 days after the commencement of the first session.

Opposition Chairman

Like the committee on the public accounts, it would have an opposition chairman; it would deal particularly with the annual report of the commission to the government and could take evidence either in open session or, at its discretion, evidence of a confidential character in private.

This amendment has encountered various objections. Mr. Lambert, although supporting it, indicated that his preference would be for a joint House-Senate committee. On the other hand, Mr. Pickersgill has opposed it on the ground that it would involve a rule change to be approved by the Senate, with the implication that any future change would also have to be approved by that body.

In theory, this is a strong objection which led, not surprisingly, to some rather high-flying speeches. But is it realistic? The Senate in recent years has been very reticent about pressing amendments on the House of Commons and the notion that it would presume to interfere in so touchy a matter as Commons rules is difficult to take seriously.

Mr. Pickersgill's counter-proposal is that the House should rely on the standing committee which would have the assistance of experts. He would also, apparently, favor a change in the rules to make the committee permanent.

This would be acceptable to Mr. Baldwin if it could be shown to be feasible. The idea of permanent House committees was canvassed by the speaker's committee which studied reform of the rules in the last Parliament. No way was found by which the House could bridge the gaps between sessions. It was for this reason, among others, that the committee came up with its curious, and abortive, plan for sandwiching committee work into regular periods during which the House would stand adjourned.

While Parliament searches for an answer to this problem, Mr. Pickersgill has usefully clarified one point. There have been a number of rather vague suggestions that the committee, however, established, might serve virtually as an appeal board. The fact is, however, that the commission like its predecessor, the board of transport commissioners, will act as a court and it would be dangerous to make its decisions subject to political review.

But this does not relieve Parliament of a most important responsibility; that of placing the committee in a position to throw light on the results of decisions and the actual impact of the new legislation. With this sort of continuing surveillance it would be easier for Parliament to implement whatever changes appear desirable when the bill has been fairly tested by experience.

Letters

Appreciation

This will express my interest in Mr. Ritchie's splendid articles on Pollution and gratitude that a voice in the press is prepared to speak out in alarm over our current environmental disintegration. My only advice might be: keep it up and do not allow the subject to falter by lack of attention. The message may lose some of its "newsworthy qualities" by repetition, but this is the only way citizen action can be generated.—W. C. Yeomans, Landscape Architect.

Flat Wheel

I took my family to see the Centennial Train in Victoria. This train, for all the tremendous ballyhoo it has obtained, is like the worst parts of the late Seattle World's Fair. For any adult with a minimum of Grade 8 education it is hopelessly boring and certainly not worth the long waiting in line.

In fact the Centennial Train is as big a flop as the Centennial Play at Ottawa. — J. L. Rimmington, 3372 Henderson Rd.

Money Is Power

I read with great interest the account of the revolt of Charles Davis against the Roman Catholic Church.

He does not seem to have been impressed with the fact that it is one of the most wealthy companies in the world. In Italy it owns banks and controls a lot of companies there and in all parts of the world.

Its possession of treasures — paintings, sculptures, gold, silver and diamonds is fantastic. And money is power! — Mrs. K. Balser, 2420 San Carlos.

Centennial Project

The so-called comic strip, "Nancy", the product of one Ernie Bushmiller, is an insult to the sense of humour of a four-year-old. Any kindergarten graduate who has the misfortune of being able to read this trash is subjected daily to this unhealthy influence on his mental and spiritual development. We declare, therefore, our Centennial project to be the abolition (peaceful or otherwise) of Mr. Bushmiller's aforementioned vacuous attempt at humour. This letter is only the beginning — we have just begun to fight! Long live Snoopy! Curse the Red Baron! Obliterate Bushmiller!—H. H. R. Foster, K. J. Gillett, Apt. 3, 3861 Cadboro Bay Rd.

(Editor's Note: Readership surveys of Times comics over the years have consistently placed "Nancy" near or at the top of the popularity list.)

FROM LONDON

By JIM TRAYNOR

An Attempt to Clarify Britain's ECM Bid

PRIME Minister Harold Wilson has begun this week to try to clarify Britain's chances of entering the European Common Market. His trip to Rome, in company with Foreign Secretary George Brown, is the first of a series he will make to the continent for exploratory talks with leaders of the Six. The key round in these discussions will take place in Paris on January 24 and 25, when the English team will confer with President de Gaulle.

Traynor

The approach of the talks has brought a number of developments that put the British initiative into a new perspective. It is too soon to say whether the chances of getting into Europe have improved. But it is no longer so clear that the matter boils down to a clear-cut question of overcoming Gen de Gaulle's hostility by fulfilling his tough conditions or facing another French veto.

Much of the activity has taken place among the Six themselves. The first move was a proposal by the Italian foreign minister, Amintore Fanfani, that there should be a meeting of the heads of the Common Market countries in Rome near the end of March. Officially, this would be to commemorate the tenth anniversary of the organization but it would also provide an opportunity for a summit meeting on the question of British entry.

When Gen. de Gaulle agreed to attend, there were immediate charges in Rome that the summit had been arranged to give him an opportunity to pressure the five other leaders into backing his conditions for Britain's entry into ECM. There were demands from leaders of the Italian Republican and Socialist parties — both members of the Italian coalition government — that the five firmly resist any such move on the part of the general.

In France, meanwhile, political factors were coming increasingly into play. The Communists, who have joined with other left-wing parties in an electoral agreement that is now expected strongly to challenge the Gaullist UNR in the March legislative elections, came out in support of the British bid. This insured that the matter would become an issue, however minor, in the impending campaign.

Division on Reform

For their part the Gaullists said little directly and a great deal indirectly. In an extensive interview in the Paris daily, Le Monde, Michel Debre, the finance minister, issued a strong restatement of the French position on international monetary reform which strikingly illuminated how far apart Britain and France currently stand on the subject.

He also expressed views directly contrary to those of James Callaghan, the British chancellor of the exchequer, about what should be discussed when the members of the International Monetary Fund "club" meet under Mr. Callaghan's chairmanship in London at the end of January.

As the Gaullists talked of gold in Paris, there were persistent reports from Bonn and elsewhere that President de Gaulle had decided to block British entry once again and would try to win the West Germans over to his view. The visit of Chancellor Kiesinger and Willy Brandt his foreign minister to Paris has encouraged speculation that the German coalition, which has a strong Gaullist bias, would fall into line.

A short-run restriction on the General is seen in the fact that France is now moving into an important election campaign.

A second and less ephemeral factor, however, seems to have narrowed the French president's room for manoeuvre. Since 1963, the other five members of the market stood up to the general over agriculture and forced a compromise. They are currently strongly resisting a French attempt to bar Prof. Walter Hallstein, the powerful head of the ECM commission, from the key job that will open up when the commission merges with the executives of the European Coal and Steel Community and Euratom. Consequently, it is considered unlikely that the five could now be overridden with near impunity as they were in 1963.

Wooing Germany

If the situation is read this way, it becomes clear why the general may be seeking German support. With the Germans on his side, he would be able to avoid unilateral action should he feel it necessary to slam the door on the British again. The rest of the community would be powerless in face of a French-German front.

What is of most immediate importance to Britain, however, is the possibility of movement that seems to have opened up in Paris. In the prevailing mood of pessimism, it had been assumed that Gen. de Gaulle would dictate a rigid set of terms that Mr. Wilson would have to meet on pain of veto. But if the General is in fact seeking to avoid having to use the veto, it is no longer so clear that there is no room for negotiations on the French side.

This has led some commentators here to suggest that Mr. Wilson's non-committal approach may, after all, be the right one—provided he is sincere in wanting to lead Britain into Europe.

It is becoming increasingly obvious that Britain might well move a good distance toward meeting the General's key conditions. In its most recent edition, the Economist magazine says Britain should consider going along with the Rueff plan to increase liquidity by raising the price of gold if that would get her into Europe.

And Lord Gladwyn, the highly respected former British ambassador in Paris, wrote in a recent Times article: "Whatever some people may say, Britain is in effect gradually abandoning her post-war pretensions to be a world power with special responsibilities in the outside world, and notably east of Suez, a special relationship with the United States and even a special role for the pound sterling. The old empire has vanished. The myth of the Commonwealth as an additional source of power has been dissipated."

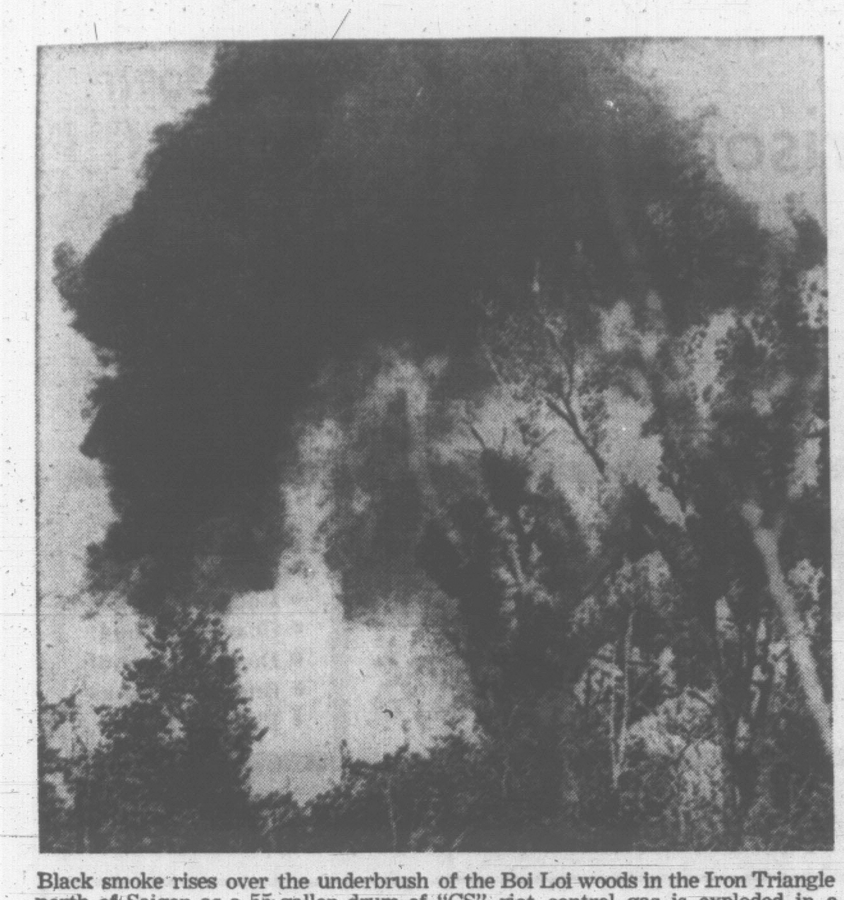
Looking Back

From The Times of Jan. 19, 1907:

OTTAWA — In the House today W. Sloan (Comox) continued the debate on fisheries treaties between the United States and this country. He said the existing treaties should be maintained, and the modus vivendi withdrawn. The present system built up the State of Washington fisheries instead of British Columbia. American fishermen were accorded privileges in Canadian waters, while Canadians were denied similar privileges in American waters.



Black smoke rises over the underbrush of the Boi Loi woods in the Iron Triangle north of Saigon as a 55-gallon drum of "CS" riot control gas is exploded in a Viet Cong bunker complex. The nauseating gas fumes are expected to remain in the area for at least two weeks, preventing Viet Cong guerrillas from returning to the evacuated bunkers.

Fathers of Confederation Holiday Poses Problems

By GERALD WARING

OTTAWA—Whether we want an extra statutory holiday or not—and who doesn't?—we may be getting one this year courtesy of Judy LaMarsh and Associates.

So far the idea is only in the kite-flying stage, with Secretary of State LaMarsh holding onto the string. That's a long way from a cabinet decision, but chances look good.

Where the idea started was in the government's rejection of the proposal that Jan. 11, birthday of Sir John A. Macdonald, be declared a national holiday in acknowledgement of the fact that it was mainly Sir John's political genius that made Confederation possible.

Miss LaMarsh explains that Jan. 11 is too close to the Christmas-New Year's holidays. People have hardly recovered from those festivities. Children are just nicely back into their schoolbooks. It's not desirable, she says, to have another interruption so soon.

* * *

I have a suspicion that the Pearson government isn't unhappy about the ill-chosen date of Sir John's birth. It's not that Sir John was a Tory. Even narrow-minded Grits can concede that a Conservative 76 years dead is a good Conservative. Rather, the temporal beautification of an English-Canadian (Scot though he was) as the Father of His County might not sit well with the French-Canadians in Quebec. Now, if Sir Georges Etienne Cartier also had been born on Jan. 11 instead of Sept. 6, that week and a half from New Year's might look a lot longer . . .

So instead of a Macdonald Day, we may get something like a Confederation Fathers Day in February or June — the only months, aside from August, in which we don't have a statutory holiday. Considering the historical significance of the holiday it should be during the school term when it could be appropriately dwelt upon in class rooms.

This speculation goes considerably beyond what Miss LaMarsh will admit. She says only that "it might very well be that there will be another holiday some time during the centennial year which would be announced." She says she doesn't know when it might be or what it might be — except that the motivation would be the nation's centenary.

* * *

A real difficulty would be in making it mean something that Dominion Day doesn't already adequately cover as the anniversary of the effective date of the 1867 British North America Act, and consequently the anniversary of Canada's birth.

But if the holiday were to honor the memory of the men who created Confederation, rather than the result of their work, this problem should dissolve. The Americans have their Independence Day, July 4, but they also mark Washington's Birthday on Feb. 22.

Ironically, Canada too has an independence day, but nobody celebrates it, and not one person in 100 knows when it is.

It is the day on which the Statute of Westminster became effective. This is the act passed by the British Parliament in 1931 that gave the dominions their final and absolute independence and laid the foundation for a Commonwealth of free and equal nations.

But who wants to celebrate 36 years of independence when we can celebrate our centennial of Confederation?

Lizard Family Adaptable To Many Varied Habitats

By DR. CLIFFORD CARL
Director, Provincial Museum

Reptiles occupy a unique position in the animal kingdom being the only air-breathing group with a scaly body covering and fluctuating body temperature. They are also unusual in displaying great diversity in body plan, so much so that it is often difficult to remember that they are all closely related. The snake, the lizard, the turtle and the alligator, representing the four major groups living in today's world, are so different in outward appearance that it doesn't seem possible that they can all be members of the same class of animals.

Carl

The basic reptilian body plan is found in the lizards. These creatures each have a trunk to which are attached a head, a tail and two pairs of legs a well-tested design which has proved so efficient that it is repeated in other groups such as amphibians and mammals. The four legs provide support coupled with considerable mobility; the head and tail balance one another to produce a structure that is mechanically sound.

This arrangement of body parts has permitted lizards to occupy many diverse habitats throughout the world wherever temperature conditions are favorable. Thus we find ground-living forms which spend their lives among rocks, in deserts, in forest openings and similar areas, often using burrows or natural crevices for shelter.

* * *

One of these, the horned lizard, has the body so flattened that when it squats on the surface of the sand it casts no shadow to attract the attention of a predator. The legs, too, are powerfully built to enable the creature to run quickly and dig rapidly beneath the surface.

In trees we find arboreal forms such as the various kinds of iguanas which feed upon blossom, fruits, leaves, birds' eggs and the like. In special areas such as the Galapogos Islands we find lizards adapted for swimming and diving in the sea and incidentally with the ability to live on a diet of sea-weed.

With a few modifications to the basic plan some lizard groups have been able to occupy even more environmental niches. One group, the geckos have ridged palms and soles which enable them to cling to smooth surfaces. With this device they can scamper up vertical tree-trunks and even hang upside down. Another group have evolved lateral extensions of the trunk enabling them to parachute or glide from one tree to another.

Some lizards have become adapted to a subterranean life by developing an elongated snake-like body and by reducing the number of legs. A few species have only front legs which are short and of little use; some have lost both pairs of legs depending upon the sinuous and muscular body for locomotion. In these burrowing forms a few minor changes have also been made in the head region: the nose is shaped for pushing aside the soil and specialized scales protect the eyes and the ears from damage from particles of earth or sand.

Only two kinds of lizards are found in British Columbia, the alligator lizard and the western skink. Both are quite conventional so far as body plan is concerned. However they are quite different in appearance, they occupy different environments and they have diferent habits.

* * *

The alligator lizard is our local species. It is found on Vancouver Island and across the southern part of the mainland of the province. In color it is brown or grey with irregular dark spots. A prominent skin fold runs the length of the trunk on each side and the tail is long and slender.

Lizards live in dry, rocky areas such as is at the bases of rock-slides, near railway cuts and on exposed bluffs. On a warm day they may be seen in such places basking in the sun; when disturbed they scuttle into a crevice or under shelter so quickly that many persons never see them. Food is mainly insects and spiders which they capture by a quick rush after a period of stalking.

The young are born alive usually in late summer. Since almost identical lizards to the south of us lay eggs viviparity in our local forms seems to be an adaption to our cooler climate or shorter season.

The western skink is known only from the Okanagan Valley and Kootenay region around Nelson. It is easily distinguished by its somewhat smooth appearance and by two pairs of stripes on either side of the body. There is no mistaking a juvenile skink for any other animal because it has a vivid cobalt blue tail! This startling color gradually fades to slate grey as adulthood is reached but some hint of blue may still persist on the underparts.

The skink also differs from the alligator lizard in its occasional preference for damp places such as under rotting logs and in its habit of laying eggs. It is perhaps the least known of the lizard family in British Columbia.

By the Weekend Ben Suc Will Be Razed to Ground

By WARD JUST
The Washington Post

BEN SUC, Vietnam — The most powerful military juggernaut yet assembled by the Americans in the Vietnam war is now roaring through hard-core Communist areas in three provinces to the north and west of Saigon, literally laying waste the countryside. It is on the classic pattern of the search and destroy mission.

The power of the fighter-bombers, the heavy artillery, the tanks and the more than two divisions of infantry is awesome, but is somehow dwarfed by what is happening at the tiny village of Ben Suc, which lies at the western fringe of the war zone called the Iron Triangle, some 30 miles northwest of Saigon.

Ben Suc was one of the first villages hit early last week when Operation Cedar Falls began. It was hit, surrounded, sealed off and evacuated of 2,800 people, 390 head of cattle, 1,300 pigs, rice rations and about 250 oxcarts.

Sent to Camp

The people, the cattle, the pigs, the rice and the oxcarts were put aboard twin-rotor Chinook helicopters or loaded onto longboats and floated down the Dong Hai River to the refugee camp at Phu Cuong, which in addition to the 2,800 people from Ben Suc has another 3,000 refugees from other war zones.

Phu Chong is now a giant tent city, with the American Army supplying water and much of the food and all of the logistics. Later, the refugees will be resettled in other, more secure hamlets away from the war zones. Meanwhile, Vietnamese officials are conducting a census and attempting to reconcile families.

This is not the first time there have been refugees in the Vietnam war, nor the first time Americans have assisted in their evacuation. But it is the first time that such a Noah's Ark operation has been conducted on so large a scale, permitting families to bring anything they could carry (presumably including the two-tone photographs of Ho Chi Minh found in huts) plus their livestock and put them on helicopters or boats.

There was of course a reason for the Ben Suc evacuation. In a few days, demolition experts intend to destroy the town: level it to the ground and end its existence as a Viet Cong supply base.

Red Control

Although it is but five miles from Dau Tieng, a base camp of the American First Infantry Division, Ben Suc has always been a Communist-controlled village.

Of its perhaps 40 stores, no more than half a dozen were operating. There was little trade, no schools, and but a single surgeon — who had excellent, sophisticated equipment, but treated mainly wounded soldiers.

When units of the first brigade, First Infantry Division, and the Vietnamese Airborne First entered Ben Suc, they encountered moderate small arms and sniper fire. The allies took no casualties and killed some five Viet Cong.

It was during the house-to-house search that the Americans learned they were in the middle of what must have been a central Communist supply area.

A thousand tons of rice and more than 20,000 gray, green and black uniforms were found. There were hidden caches in every house in the village, and tunnel complexes running in some cases for 500 yards.

"It was very odd," said Maj. Dennis R. Bruzina, "but in nearly every house, there was an old pedal-type Singer sewing machine." The sewing machines were used for the manufacture of uniforms.

With a battalion of American infantry surrounding the village, Vietnamese troops conducted the house-to house search. Young, draft-age men began appearing from the caves and tunnels — nearly 150 in the first six days, some carrying weapons, some not.

One of these was a Viet Cong major, believed to be an officer at a training centre in Tay Ninh province, and another a teacher with a degree from the University of Hanoi. The teacher is thought to have conducted classes in political theory for Viet Cong political cadres.

Ben Suc lies athwart Route 13, the main highway which leads from the Iron Triangle and War Zone C south to Saigon and Cho Lon. Because of the heavy civilian population, it had not been bombed or shelled. Intelligence officers, on the evidence found this week, now reckon that Ben Suc was a central supply base for Viet Cong units operating in the central third corps area.

Rice Puzzle

One of the puzzling aspects of the vast rice cache — "enough rice to feed a division" — is the fact that Ben Suc is not a rice-producing area. No one knows where it all came from, although the Americans suspect it came from Cambodia, whose border is only 40 miles distant.

Ben Suc now is vacant as a ghost town, with only American and Vietnamese infantrymen standing guard and putting the unpolished rice into bags for shipment to the refugee centres. The stores are empty of goods, the graves and gardens untended.

After the town is razed, it will become a free-strike zone, subject to artillery fire and air strikes. Officials here reckon that it is better for the people and better for the allies that the town is sealed off and in effect disposed of. It will no longer be a supply area, and in fact by next weekend will cease to exist at all.

Vest-Pocket Radar Sets

By JOHN DAVY

LONDON — Vest-pocket radar sets are about to emerge from some remarkable research in Britain and the United States. The Royal Radar Establishment at Malvern has just demonstrated a tiny device which promises to do for radar what transistors did for radio.

Dr. Cyril Hilsum, one of the scientists principally responsible, forsees immediate applications for burglar alarms and hand-held radar speed meters. Members of the crew on large ships could point torch-sized radars at the harbor wall while docking, to give the captain warning of excessive impact. Policemen may carry sets to detect speeding motorists.

Tiny Crystal

The heart of the device is a tiny crystal wafer of gallium arsenide half-a-millimetre square and 100th of a millimetre thick. When an electric field is applied it generates radar waves.

Until now, radar waves have been generated by expensive and fragile vacuum tube devices. The new radar sources are much smaller, more rugged and potentially very cheap. It is too soon to foresee the full commercial and industrial applications — but they are certain to be very substantial indeed.

Robert Burns McMicking

Founders Of B.C.

Robert Burns McMicking was the man who brought the first public telephone service to British Columbia making Victoria the third city in Canada to enjoy the discovery.

He was of Scottish descent but he was born in Queenston, Ontario, where his father also was born. The young McMicking was barely 18 when he joined the Overlanders, the pioneers who pushed their way overland to the west coast in 1862, seeking Cariboo gold. They travelled with saddle horses, mules, oxen and afoot — and eventually they descended the waterways of B.C. by raft enduring hardships of the grimmest nature.

●

McMicking found the mines closing for the winter and he went on to New Westminster. While there he was recruited by the Collins Overland Telegraph Company which then was stringing its line across northern B.C. with the aim of reaching Asia and Europe via the Bering Strait. But the project was abandoned when a cable was successfully laid across the Atlantic.

McMicking remained as company agent at Quesnel, then moved to Yale where he married and soon transferred to Victoria to take charge of the Western Union Telegraph office.

Here in 1878 he introduced the telephone, installing one set in his home, another in his office and a third in a newspaper office. This led to the formation in 1880 of Victoria and Esquimalt Telephone Company which today is the B.C. Telephone Company. He was manager until his retirement in 1914.

While in Victoria he served as a school trustee and an alderman and was a prominent Mason. In 1881 he was instrumental in the creation of B.C.'s first electric fire alarm system and in the creation of the first street lighting system in the city.

He died in Victoria in November 1915 and a plaque was erected in his memory in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Canada's Very Angry Man From the Sea

By PETER C. NEWMAN

WEST LAWRENCETOWN, N.S.—You take Highway 7 out of Halifax, drive 15 miles through the windswept settlement of Cole Harbour to West Lawrencetown, and here in a tastefully furnished farmhouse overlookinga calm inlet of the Atlantic Ocean, lives one of Canada's angriest men.

—Newman

This prosperous cattle farm is the home of Rear-Admiral William Landymore, who served as a gunnery officer on the Murmansk run during the Second World War, was captain of HMCS Iroquois in the Korean War, and while chief of Maritime Command, last summer, was fired five years ahead of his retirement date by Defence Minister Paul Hellyer.

Admiral Landymore doesn't fit the sterotype of beached sea dog. True, he keeps a pair of binoculars in his living room and occasionally checks on the warships steaming in and out of Halifax harbor. But he never reminisces about past battles—he's too passionately involved in his last campaign; a desperate effort to sink the Hellyer plan for unifying Canada's armed forces.

Great Rage

The admiral is a jolly luncheon com anion and laughter-lines are permanently etched in his face. Yet there is something spectacular about the rage of this man. His approach to armed forces unificaton is reminiscent of nothing so much as those churning destroyers which used to ram surfaced U-Boats in Hollywood sea epics.

When I called at his farm Wednesday he had just completed a brief (which takes an hour to read) that he hopes to present before the House of Commons defence committee next month. "Unification," he says, "would be the end of effective defence for Canada. I can't find any alternative to Hellyer's arguments, except that he stop doing what he's doing."

Landymore intends to challenge Paul Hellyer's authority to carry through unification on the basis of the National Defence Act, which states that no man shall be transferred into any other service without his consent.

"It strikes me," says Landymore, "that the government is getting pretty close to doing something that's illegal. To do this properly, they would have to get the consent of every man in the services, and if they tried that there'd be such a mass exodus, particularly from the Navy, that there wouldn't be any navy left."

The admiral insists that unification is inconsistent and impractical, because the defence minister has not thought through the consequences of his action.

Hardest Hit

The navy has been the hardest hit by unification because, unlike the army and airforce which have self-contained squadrons and regiments, the basic morale unit of the navy is the service itself, Landymore's assessment of the present state of Canada's naval readiness is harsh: "It's ghastly," he says. "Grim. The RCN is running more than 2500 people short of its planned commitment, and that means only 13 of our 23 destroyers are now being manned at proper levels. I have officers contact me as regularly as the bells strike, telling me they're looking for jobs on the outside. The whole force has become demoralized."

Landymore's anti-unification crusade will reach its climax when the Hellyer legislation comes up before Parliament. But he will not pursue his fight indefinitely.

"The trouble" he says, "is that after a short time out of the service, all generals, admirals and air-marshals — no matter what their age or experience — are considered Colonel Blimps. I've set my own limits, and I intend to stop talking before that happens."

Bullets, Tear Gas Break Up Racial Prison Riot

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP Guards) firing rifles, shotguns and tear-gas canisters prevented a racial clash between 2,800 white and Negro convicts in the San Quentin prison yard Wednesday night as the two groups came to within 50 feet of each other.

Eight convicts suffered gunshot wounds during the tense hours following the near clash. Five others suffered head wounds from beatings by other convicts. Two men suffered heart attacks.

The confrontation included one group of more than 1,000 whites and Mexican-Americans and another group of about 1,800 Negroes.

Officials said the turmoil grew out of the fatal beating and stabbing of a white prisoner last Monday.

Trouble started after lunch Wednesday, said Associate Warden James W. L. Park, when prisoners entered the yard. Whites and Mexican-Americans gathered on one side, Negroes on the other. They drew closer, hurling curses.

With the angry convicts separated by only 50 feet, Warden Lawrence E. Wilson mounted the gunwall surrounding the yard and ordered: "Knock it off and go back to your cells."

There was silence, and no one moved.

Park said many of the men had armed themselves with pipes from plumbing ripped from prison facilities, and clubs from benches torn apart in the yard. A temporary classroom building made of wood was set ablaze.

Guards were ready to throw up a "wall of fire" with bullets if the factions got any closer, Park said, but it was not necessary.

The two groups surged. Guards fired warning shots into the air. By this time 500 prison guards and personnel took up posts, aided by a contingent of 65 men from the Marin County sheriff's office and the California highway patrol.

For nearly three hours the two groups refused to obey orders.

Finally, tear-gas canisters were thrown and the Negroes, prodded by warning shots whining through the air, let themselves be herded back to their cells.

The remaining group of whites and Mexican-Americans stayed in the lower yard for about seven hours.

LABOR COUNCIL

Postal Worker New Secretary

The Victoria Labour Council has a new secretary-treasurer.

In a surprise nomination Wednesday night, delegates elected Larry Ryan over incumbent Harry Anderson by a single vote — 31 to 30.

One year ago, Mr. Anderson defeated Mr. Ryan in the election after the late mayor A. W. Toone resigned.

The new secretary-treasurer is a postal clerk and said he will apply immediately for a leave of absence to take up the full-time paid position at the labor council.

Mr. Ryan has been secretary of the Victoria local, Canadian Union of Postal Workers, for the last four years and a regular delegate to the labor council.

Much of his union experience was gained on the assembly line at the huge General Motors factory in Oshawa, Ont. He was a member of the United Auto Workers and chairman of the shop stewards at the GM plant.

WAR VETERAN

Mr. Ryan is 47, born in southern Ireland and a veteran of the Second World War.

Mr. Anderson said he is "naturally not happy" at his defeat but "I guess I'll have a lot of worries I won't have to bother with now."

He indicated he will return to his former job as a driver with Vancouver Island Coach Lines. Before his election one year ago, he was also a representative here for the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers.

NEW PRESIDENT

New president of the labor council is Jack Groves, a mechanic at B.C. Forest Products and recording secretary of the Victoria local, International Woodworkers of America.

Past president Robert Barrie announced earlier he would not stand for election for an eleventh consecutive term as president.

In a short address, Mr. Groves urged greater attendance at labor council meetings and strong efforts to organize the unorganized locally.

Wednesday night's meeting was attended by 62 delegates from 27 unions, much higher than usual but well below the 205 potential delegates from the 70 affiliated unions.

ORGANIZE HOSPITAL

He said there are "Many places" in Victoria that unions should organize and he specifically mentioned Royal Jubilee Hospital.

In other elections, John Schibli, president of the Victoria local of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters, was unopposed for first vice-president.

For second vice-president, Ernest Orchin, business agent for the Machinists, Engine Fitters and Helpers, Local 3, defeated by 35-to-26 William Isbister, business agent for Local 230, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Both the vice-presidents are new with incumbents Jack Driscoll and E. T. Staley declining nominations.

Chairmen of committees include: Lew Eckford, legislative; Ed Haw, unemployment; Jack Burt, organization; Bob Munro, public relations; Tony Fraser, credentials. There were no acceptances for the political education and education committees and nominations will be called again at the next meeting.

LOTS OF BOOKS AGAINST BUT NONE FOR UNIONS!

The chairman of the Sooke School Board urged labor Wednesday night to send all the books and pamphlets it can to junior and senior secondary schools dealing with labor and its history.

John Bartanus, speaking as a delegate from the International Woodworkers of America to the Victoria Labour Council, said there is "all kinds of material" in school libraries on "why unions are no longer needed".

He said the manufacturers' association has pamphlets in school libraries which are "against labor".

There was only "one-sided material" available for students who might have to write essays on such current issues as strikes and injunctions.

"You can imagine what is in their mind when they come on the labor market," he said.

Delegates agreed to a motion that the matter be referred to the next labor council meeting to allow more time for discussion and consideration.

Experts On Planning To Explain Changes

The Community Planning Association of Canada, Capital Region Branch, has enlisted panels of speakers qualified to paint a factual picture of proposed development in the capital region.

Topics to be considered include: What is regional planning? The Rose-Blanshard Urban Renewal Scheme. Can we keep our open spaces? A parkway for our region — now or never. Planning as a function of the regional district.

Meetings are set for 8 p.m. on five consecutive Thursdays at First United Church Hall, 1701 Quadra.

The first panel will be moderated by Foster T. Isherwood, an executive of the CPAC. Featured speaker is Prof. R. W. Collier of the University of British Columbia division of community and regional planning.

Members of the first panel are Peter Bunn, Greater Victoria School Board chairman; Don South, director of regional planning, dept. of municipal affairs; Archbishop H. E. Sexton and Arthur Webb, director of planning, University of Victoria.

A weekend drive by technicians installing fly-ash control equipment at B.C. Forest Products should see one of Victoria's major pollution problems controlled by Sunday night.

Mill manager Herbert Barnes said the Sunday deadline was definite.

He stressed that the volume of smoke from the main smoke stack would be relatively unchanged once the new equipment was in action. But he added that as soon as the color darkened indicating incomplete combustion automatic controls would switch on to rectify the situation.

Cost of the installation is in excess of $100,000.

It is estimated that the new equipment will eliminate up to 95 per cent of the ash and dust which has long been a source of complaint from residents in the Gorge-Garbally Road area.

FLOOD WRECKED CITY

More damage was caused to Florence by the floods of Nov. 4, 1966, than by the whole of the Second World War.

Tax Increase Likely Warns Mayor Stephen

Victoria taxpayers got the first hint Wednesday that taxes will probably increase this year.

Mayor Hugh Stephen "only a miracle" would enable city council to hold the mill rate at the 62.5 figure set in 1966.

The mayor said he was "speaking as of now" and that some of the "many imponderables" such as provincial government grants could change the picture.

But he was far from optimistic that the taxline could be cut back or even held at its present level.

Revenue in the city will increase by $249,000 but city treasurer James Bramley has warned in his provisional budget that expenditures are likely to be up by $865,000.

Assessments in the city have increased by some $6,277,000 to a record high of $209,788,000 for the total assessment roll, but they are still being held below the true rate by the 5 per cent assessment increase ceiling imposed on all municipalities during the last session of the legislature.

The 5 per cent increase ceiling has been the subject of criticism by most municipal governments and was condemned almost unanimously by last September's annual meeting of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities.

CANADA URGED:

'Block U.S. Line To War Materials'

Canada could help the United States gain respect and goodwill by blocking Canada-U.S. war material supply lines.

The man who says so is a veteran of the U.S. Vietnam forces and military editor of Ramparts magazine, Donald Duncan.

A former master sergeant in the famous "Green Berets" he gained fame by attacking U.S. intervention in Vietnam in a magazine article "The Whole Thing Was a Lie."

Speaking to a University of Victoria audience, he urged Canada to stop selling war materials to the U.S.

"The U.S. really needs help. I would like to see Canada make such a move," he said.

American foreign policy depends on its "economic colonies" including Canada, he stated.

"We do not trade with these countries, we virtually rape them.

"Why do we import oil from Venezuela instead of pumping it in Texas. The reason is that we can hire a man in Venezuela to pump it for one-tenth what it would cost to hire a man in Texas."

He said the only thing the U.S. can offer Vietnam is anti-communism and he derided the claim the U.S. is there to preserve freedom.

"Before you can preserve something, you've got to have it first." He charged that the military government of Premier Ky rigged the election of the assembly which is to prepare a constitution.

He claimed that 67 per cent of the people were not allowed to vote.

Mr. Duncan, who was born in Toronto is now a U.S. citizen, added:

"Some people say we can't get out of Vietnam or there will be a blood bath. This is what the Vietnamese think they are having now — 1,000 dead per week.

"I don't see why we need negotiations to get out of Vietnam. We got in without any negotiations."

Ex-Soldier, C. Servant Dies at 81

Funeral services will be held in First Baptist Church Friday at 3:15 p.m. for Major Samuel Henson, a resident of Victoria for 53 years.

Major Henson, an active member of First Baptist Church for many years, died in Glengarry Hospital Tuesday at 81.

Born in England, he was a professional soldier for 30 years and served overseas in the First World War with the Canadian Scottish Regiment. Subsequently he worked for the provincial government in Victoria.

Before entering hospital two years ago, Major Henson was a resident at the Pacific Club.

He is survived by a son, Cecil Stanley Henson, who lives at Devon, England.

Rev. John A. Watson will officiate at the funeral service, which will be followed by cremation. McCall Brothers Ltd, are in charge of arrangements.

New Probe Into 'Bugs' Continues

VANCOUVER (CP) — The royal commission into electronic eavesdropping opened here Wednesday, and commissioner R. A. Sargent's first decision was to rule the inquiry not be adjourned immediately.

The new inquiry actually is a resumption of one that opened in November, and then was ruled invalid on technical grounds by the B.C. Supreme Court.

AGAIN HEAD

The government reconstituted the commission with wider terms of reference and named Mr. Sargent, a retired county court judge, to head it again.

Meanwhile, the government launched an appeal against the decision ruling the original commission invalid.

BUGGING REVEALED

The original inquiry was ordered after disclosure in November that a Vancouver convention of the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada had been bugged by a private investigator paid by an official of a rival union.

John Laxton, counsel for the PPWC, and Norma Christie, representing the RCMP, asked Mr. Sargent Wednesday to adjourn pending the appeal.

SIDE BY SIDE

Mr. Laxton said that, if the appeal were successful, the old commission would be resurrected.

$5 MILLION TERRITORIES BUILDING PROGRAM

Yellowknife Selected as Capital

YELLOWKNIFE, N. W. T. (CP)—To nobody's surprise, but to the chagrin of Fort Smith, Yellowknife has been selected as the capital of the Northwest Territories.

Northern Development Minister Laing made the expected announcement here Wednesday shortly after flying into this gold-mining community of 5,000 in the Mackenzie district.

Right to the end, Fort Smith, on the border of the territories and Alberta, pressed its claim to be the territorial centre. Mr. Laing promised that both federal and territorial institutions would be located there "whenever this is at all feasible."

Mr. Laing said he was making the announcement of the new capital so a $5,000,000 building program could be started as soon as possible.

This would allow the new territorial commissioner and his senior advisers to be based in the north by September.

The territorial civil services, now composed of only a handful of people, would be greatly expanded and this staff also would move north as soon as orderly development would allow.

Mr. Laing's announcement followed recommendations of the Carrothers commission on the development of government in the N.W.T. Mr. Laing has been criticized lately for not acting on the recommendations which he received in late August.

Bilingual Centre

NEW YORK (AP)—The Ford Foundation Tuesday announced a $400,000 grant to Laval University in Quebec to help establish a new international centre on bilingualism. The Foundation said Laval, leading North American centre for the study of French language and linguistics, plans to conduct research on linguistic factors in second-language learning and use.

LABOR HOUSING VIEW

High Lot Price Adds to Crisis

Canadians will be "hard put" for housing if more homes are not built, the Victoria Labour Council was told Wednesday night.

"Housing starts were down 40,000 last year from the year before," said E. T. Staley, president of the B.C. Federation of Labour.

"The big bugbear is the fantastic price for a lot — $8,000 to $10,000 in Vancouver. Interest rates on house mortgages are going up beyond reason.

"At least interest paid on mortgages could be deducted from taxable income."

The labor council referred the matter to the new executive for action after hearing the Canadian Labour Congress has designated housing as its theme for citizenship month in February.

The CLC said the housing problem has reached "a crisis stage" in which fewer houses are being built while 25 per cent of families in Canada live in inadequate houses and 100,000 live in houses "condemned as unfit for human habitation."

It said the cost of housing works "a grievous hardship on those earning $5,000 or less annually, preventing the vast majority of Canadians from taking advantage of NHA loans."

The CLC urged its affiliates across the country to "create member and public awareness" of the problem, press for public housing, encourage sponsorship of limited dividend and co-op housing projects and assist unionists and sympathetic persons to "become well informed on housing matters."

Cancer To Decline

MONTREAL (CP)—Dr. Isaac Berenblum, one of the world's foremost authorities in the field of cancer research, reports that the incidence of cancer throughout the world should be reduced by 75 per cent within the next decade.

CP Head Honored

OTTAWA (CP)—The National Press Club of Canada announced today that its 1967 "award for excellence" will be conferred on Gillis Purcell, general manager of The Canadian Press. The award is to be presented at the club's annual ball in Ottawa Feb. 24.

There are very few things left for the men in this world.

BRIEF TO B.C. CABINET

Guidelines Urged By Gas Retailers

B.C. oil companies have had ample time to act on recommendations to cut gasoline prices and government steps should now be taken, auto dealer spokesmen said Tuesday.

After a lengthy hearing before the B.C. cabinet, members of Automotive Retailers' Association said companies have had reasonable time to act upon the Morrow Royal Commission report filed almost a year ago.

"The oil companies' position appears to be that 'nobody, but nobody, is going to tell us what to do or how to run our show'," said Lloyd Kinneard, secretary-manager of the ARA.

Association past-president Stan Hitchman added:

"The price for the royal commission has been paid. Where does that leave the man on the street?" He said the brief was an attempt to help the government supply an answer.

The men said their delegation, which included president William Riddell and vice-president George Argyle, was given a "favorable hearing" in seeking guidelines for all levels of the oil industry.

ONE PIECE ESSENTIAL

Their brief was presented as a followup to resolutions passed by the association at its annual meeting here in October.

"We made a pretty strong point of f.o.b. refinery pricing," said Mr. Kinneard. "That seemed to impress them."

The association believes that one price is essential for fairness to all.

Variation in refinery pricing as a form of favored customer approach by the oil producers is regarded by the association as anathema to the spirit of free enterprise.

"Without it (one price) someone is going to get the short end of the stick," Mr. Kinneard said.

The public should benefit from free competition, but there is no free competition if there is not equal access to refinery products in the first place, he said.

The secretary-manager said the ARA delegation was questioned closely by several members of the cabinet, including Attorney-General Robert Bonner and Trade and Industry Minister Ralph Loffmark.

The brief said "if there is a sincere desire on the part of the government of British Columbia to do something about the specific recommendations of Judge Morrow then it is obvious that some sort of legislative directive will be imperative."

It is emphasized that government price controls are neither asked for nor needed, and that the judge's suggestion of proclaiming the old Petroleum Sales Act is not required at this time.

The act would effectively nationalize the B.C. petroleum industry, it was felt.

A new act in the form of a "gasoline handling act" would best serve the interests of dealers and the public.

Judge Morrow recommended proclamation of the Petroleum Sales Act if, after a reasonable time had elapsed, the oil companies had not implemented his recommendations.

They dealt with abolition of consignment selling, a drop in the price of premium gasoline, taking the cost of credit off gasoline, more uniform dealer markups, a holiday from construciton of new service stations, and divorcing of oil companies and service station outlets having financing and leasing arrangements between them.

U.K. Government Okays Chrysler Deal With Rootes

LONDON (Reuters)—The British government has given the go-ahead to a deal giving the giant American Chrysler Corporation control of the Rootes group, Britain's second-biggest car and truck manufacturer.

The Labor administration's approval for the deal came in a statement from Technology Minister Anthony Wedgewood Benn in the House of Commons. He did not give details of the takeover, but unconfirmed reports said Chrysler would inject £20,000,000 ($60,000,000) more capital into Rootes.

Chrysler has had a 45-per-cent holding in Rootes since 1964, and Benn said the government was asked its attitude to American control of the company last month

Tenders Called

VANCOUVER (CP) — Tenders have been called by Lafarge Cement Co., for construction of raw cement mill as part of its $5,000,000 expansion at its plant here. Cost of the mill is estimated between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000. Tenders close Feb. 14.

Chrysler Issues Callback Order

DETROIT (UPI) — More than 18,000 owners of Chrysler-built 1967 model cars were being notified today to bring them into dealers because of possible defects.

Chrysler Corp. said Wednesday it is advising the car owners that defects in nearly 5,000 Plymouths, Dodges, Chryslers and Imperials forced the recall campaign. The company said it informed the national safety agency of the callbacks under provisions of the Traffic Safety Act of 1966.

Chrysler's announcement was part of the auto industry's new policy of publicly revealing all defects in cars along with notifying owners of the cars. General Motors, less than two weeks ago, said it was recalling more than 269,000 of the 1967 model cars because of defect found in steering columns.

Auto industry spokesmen have repeatedly pointed out that recall campaigns are nothing new. Only the public announcement of the callbacks is new because of new traffic safety legislation, they said.

THREE PARTS INVOLVED

Chrysler's latest callbacks involved three parts on various models.

A possible 3,500 of 10,745 Barracuda, Dart, Valiant, Chrysler and Imperial models may have a master cylinder push rod bolt that does not meet Chrysler standards. The second defect involved 570 of Coronet, Charger, Belvedere and Satellite models equipped with the 426-cubic-inch Hemi engine, and the third defect occurred in 650 of 6,665 Imperial and Chrysler cars with auto pilot, the company said.

In addition, owners of 122,215 Fury, Polara and Monaco models were being advised to test their windshield wipers for cold weather operation. The company said the windshield wiper switch may become inoperative under certain harsh weather conditions.

Volvo Sales Show Gain

TORONTO (CP)—Volvo Canada Ltd. sold 3,989 cars to dealers in Canada during 1966, a 15 per cent gain from the 3,545 sold in the previous year, president Karl Kohler has announced.

Retail sales were 4,091 against 3,389 in 1965.

Mr. Kohler said 441 cars were exported to the United States under the Canada-U.S. trade pact.

Price Increase

MONTREAL (CP) — Cominco Ltd. has increased its Canadian price for cadmium by 10 cents a pound. The new price is $2.85 a pound for 5.000-pound lots and more and $3.05 for lots less than 5,000 pounds.

'HEALTHY CONTROVERSY,' SAYS MARTIN

Don't Penalize Foreign Investor

VANCOUVER (CP) — A consensus is emerging from a "healthy controvery" over the role of foreign investment in Canada, External Affairs Minister Martin said today.

Addressing the Vancouver board of trade, Mr. Martin stated the consensus in four principles:

—No discouragement or penalties should face the foreign investor.

—A legal and policy framework should direct this investor to a maximum contribution to Canada's national welfare.

—Governments must find ways to bring the ingenuity and resources of Canadians to bear on productive nvestment.

—Canadians must be encouraged to own more of their contry's industry and to exert more influence in business decisions.

Mr. Martin said he looks forward to a day of less dependence on foreign capital inflows.

"I do not think we have yet fully exploited all the ossibilities of encouraging a greater flow of dometic savings, nor of so regulating our affairs as to promote greater Canadian ownership."

CITES POLICY MAKING

Mr. Martin said the power of Canada to determine its economic destiny involves Canadian influence in the policy-making councils of major corporations doing business in the country.

It also involves legal matters. Canada has fought the assumption "that the law to which a corporation is subject at its headquarters also applies throughout the area of its oerations."

In recent years anti-trust regulations had encroached across the Canadian border and legitimate trade by foreign subsidiaries in Canada had been inhibited.

Mr. Martin did not elaborate on thee apparent references to disagreements with the United States. There had been a "profound difference of view," he said.

". . . I have consistently taken the position that extra-territorial aplcation of the law of another country in Canada was inconsistent with our national status, and was unacceptable to the Canadian government.

"This position is, I think, well understood and is now generally accepted."

IWA Settlement Comes Under Fire

VANCOUVER (CP) — A logging supervisor said Wednesday last summer's forest industry wage settlement with the International Woodworkers of America is good reason for independent logging companies in the province to form their own negotiating group.

Jack Greenwood of Jervis Inlet said forest industrial relations, which negotiated an industry-wide contract for logging companies, should have held the line on wages and if necessary, allowed a strike.

Mr. Greenwood, speaking at a camp management seminar, said the IWA was bellicose and belligerent during the negotiations and because of the settlement, independent loggers are suffering.

Harbors Board Chairman Here For Conference

National Harbors Board chairman Howard Mann of Ottawa was to confer with Trade and Industry Minister Ralph Loffmark and Commercial Transport Minister Robert Bonner this afternoon.

The discussions here were to concentrate on plans for future development of Vancouver harbor, Prince Rupert harbor and a "superport" facility near Tsawwassen.

Traffickers Jailed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Allan George MacKay, 30, of West Vancouver and Russell Roy Cuff, 20, of Vancouver received long prison sentences Wednesday when found guilty of trafficking in drugs. Mackay received a sentence of 10 years and Cuff seven years from judge Graham Ladner in county court.

Oil Dumper Fined

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) —A vessel which dumped more than 6,000 gallons of oil into the Fraser River last September was fined $1,500 Tuesday for polluting the harbor. Capt. Rolf Bakke, of the 10,000-ton Norwegian freighter Bolinas, pleaded guilty before Magistrate R. R. Holmes.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Profit-Taking Hits Wall Street Rally

Earlier the market rallied to post a gain in heavy trading.

Prices disprayed fractional strength at Toronto in light afternoon trading. Banks, which ran into heavy selling pressure Wednesday, edged higher after a slow morning start. Golds displayed good strength to finish ahead 7.18.

AT NEW YORK Sperry Rand, up about a point, looked like the most active gainer. Texas Instruments fell about six points. Hilton rose more than three points on news of merger with TWA, which was unchanged.

In a delayed opening block, International Telephone eased ⅛ to 78⅞ on 3,500 shares. Its proposed merger with American Broadcasting has been challenged by the U.S. justice department.

AT TORONTO Levy moved up ⅝ to 15⅝ and Distillers and Trans-Canada Pipe Lines ½ each to 36¼ and 26¾. Imperial-Commerce gained 1 to 64, Montreal and Toronto-Dominion ¼ each to 59½ and 62½ and Nova Scotia ⅛ to 68.

Western Oils, which have been flying high for the last two months, ran into profit taking. Home A fell ⅞ to 25¼, Banff ¾ to 15¾ and Canadian Superior ⅜ to 33⅛. Scurry-Rainbow gained 1⅛ to 23⅛ and Banff non exempt ¾ to 13.

Canada Cement retreated 1¾ to 38 after the company said 1957 profits may be lower, reflecting the levelling off of the construction pace.

AT MONTREAL prices moved narrowly higher in late dealings after three hours of irregular trading.

Moore Corp. advanced ½ to 92½, Alcan ¼ to 34¼, Walker-Gooderham ½ to 32⅜ and International Nickel ⅜ to 93½.

AT LONDON equities were uncertain on the stock market today, with investors showing caution following publication of a further fall in the United Kingdom industrial output index for November.

Dollar stocks were generally better but Canadian Pacific, International Nickel, Trans Canada Pipe and Massey-Ferguson gave ground, reflecting the irregular trends in Canadian markets. Other Canadian stocks were often firmer. Bank of Nova Scotia improved again but other Canadian banks eased.

AT VANCOUVER Western Pacific Products jumped .37 to $5.62 in pre-noon activity today.

Ocean Cement was also strong in the industrials and rose $2 to $20.

The mining section was active with gains outnumbering losses.

Bata churned through 116,000 shares and gained 2½ cents to 48½. West Coast Resources rose .08 to .74 and Highmont kept up its recent advance with a three-cent gain to $2.13.

Incorporation Wins Approval

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons committee on finance, trade and economic affairs today approved federal incorporation of the North West Life Assurance Co., which has been operating since 1956 under a B.C. provincial charter.

P. G. Ropchan, company president, told the committee that North West wants federal incorporation in order to come under "the technical competence of federal inspection."

ABC-ITT Merger Meets Opposition

WASHINGTON (AP) — The justice department has asked the Federal Communications Commission to reconsider its approval of the merger of American Broadcasting Co. and International Telephone and Telegraph Co.

The department said the FCC had not given the merger adequate consideration and it strongly hinted that if its request is not granted the government may take the case to court.

Imperial Plans Novel Station

By AB KENT
Business Editor

Details of a new concept in automotive retailing were to be described today by Imperial Oil Ltd. at a special Empress Hotel reception.

KENT

Al's Esso Service, 1700 Hillside, has been operated for 11 years as an independent station by Alfred Kubicek, whose success has been outstanding.

He is selling the business to Imperial and plans to stay on as manager of the new outlet.

Imperial's angle in developing the outlet is to provide a higher level of public service, one which will improve automobile reliability and safety, and to offer expanded repair and overhaul facilities.

The station will be one of the first of its kind in the West and proposed control is from Toronto rather than through a regional office.

Including additional lots acquired recently, total land area for the new station will be just over ¾ of an acre. The existing building will be demolished to make way for a newly-designed structure.

December spending in Victoria, judged by bank debit figures, amounted to a generous $495 million, or $23 million more than in the same month of 1965.

Canadian Bankers' Association reports withdrawals here in the month of November, 1966, were $386 million, compared with $401 million in the same month a year earlier.

Despite a royal commission suggestion last year that oil companies cut back on expansion, two Alberta-based firms are moving into the B.C. retail marketing area.

Victoria will be site of one of Union Oil Co.'s first B.C. stations, which the company proposes to build on a triangle of land formed by Douglas and Burnside opposite Burnside fire hall.

A Union Oil spokesman in Calgary said Wednesday the company awaits completion of its Prince George refinery, about September, before building outlets.

But Belwill Apartments, the flation-shaped building at the intersection, has been vacated and presumably will be torn down soon.

The company also has adjoining property occupied by a former drive-in snack stand.

Supreme Oil and Gas, of Edmonton, is the other firm with plans to enter the B.C. market, along with service station expansion in the prairie provinces.

Terry N. Stevens, of Vancouver, is Ford Motor Credit Company of Canada's new Victoria branch manager.

The office opened last week at 645 Fort Street, the eighteenth branch to open in Canada.

Stevens joined the firm in 1963 and had been sales representative and office manager prior to his appointment.

Drill cores are showing values in copper, iron and molybdenum so far, and drilling is being extended to an adjoining area in hopes of locating parent mineralization.

Mezzanine Car Decks For Ferries

B.C. ferry authority will call tenders in a few days for installing mezzanine car decks in two of its ships on the Swartz Bay run.

It also has called for tenders for extensive renovation of the $7 million Queen of Prince Rupert which began service last May.

The Kelsey Bay-Prince Rupert service will be shut down about four weeks while the Scandinavian-design ferry has her hull stiffened and engines modified.

Premier Bennett Wednesday said the mezzanine deck innovation will not rule out construction of new ships in future for the Swartz Bay service.

The mezzanine decks, with hinged ramps, would run along the sides of existing car decks as do those in the deep-sea Queen of Prince Rupert.

They would increase car-carrying capacity of each converted ferry by 32 cars to a total of 142 at an estimated cost of $200,000 for both.

Bethex Associated With Development

Bethex Explorations Ltd. has taken a 25 per cent interest in the development agreement between Sileurian Chieftain Mining Co. Ltd. and Bethlehem Copper Corporation Ltd.

Patrick Reynolds, president of both Bethex and Bethlehem, said Bethex will provide $25,000 of the $100,000 required to be spent on Sileurian's Alice Arm molybdenum property by February.

He said if the agreement is caried through to the production stage, Bethex will hold a 16.25 per cent interest in the new company formed to operate the mine.

$25 Million Bankruptcy In Quebec

MONTREAL CP) — John Turner, acting registrar-general, said Wednesday he has ordered an examination into the financial problems of Depositors Mortgage Corp., involved in a $25,000,000 bankruptcy proposal.

Mr. Turner spoke after meeting with a federal bankruptcy officer in Montreal, the trustee for the insolvent company and the two notaries who control Depositors Mortgage.

He said trustee Peter Lawrence reported that preliminary examination of the company's books revealed no irregularities. He asked Mr. Lawrence to report on whether he thought there were any offences under the Bankruptcy Act.

Two brothers, S. L. Caplan and N. H. Caplan, filed the bankruptcy proposal in Montreal Tuesday, saying they owe $15,641,769 to more than 800 creditors and their mortgage company owes $10,043,591 to 22 creditors.

They proposed to repay 100 cents on the dollar to unsecured creditors over a five-year period. This proposal is to be considered at a general creditors meeting scheduled for Feb. 20.

Mr. Turner said the examination was ordered "in order to protect the public."

In Ottawa, Finance Minister Sharp said in the Commons Wednesday that he first heard of the case Monday. Officials of his department advised him that the company was incorporated under Quebec law and did not come under federal regulation.

MALES FACING CHALLENGE

LONDON (Reuters) — The traditionally male London Stock Exchange announced grudgingly it is considering admitting women members.

Its all-powerful general council has ruled that members must cast a 75 per cent vote in favor of officially recognizing the growing number of women stockbrokers in city offices before rules can be changed.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Broad advances in Chicago soybean prices resulted in a late rally in rapeseed prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

With parcel-lot sales of flax and rapeseed also having an effect, rapeseed closed 5¼ to 2¼ cents higher.

Oats and barley trade was light, associated with domestiv feed supply.

Lakehead prices for IWA. Class Two and Domestic wheat were down ⅛ cent.

CHICAGO (AP)—Good support from commercial interests and export trade sent soybeans futures prices higher on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

Soybeans advanced at the start of the session, fell back slightly, then advanced again under renewed support. There was some increased usage of soybean oil and soybean meal and this also tended to influence the soybeans advance.

Wheat was irregularly traded, rising a little and then falling before holding to a fairly firm stand under good local support and export business.

Gov't Considers New Insurance Regulations

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government is considering at least three major changes in regulations applying to general insurance companies.

Finance Minister Sharp asked 10 top executives in the business Wednesday to comment on proposals that would restrict purchases of securities, takeovers of finance companies and the size of individual finance company investments.

He told a news conference the companies met his ideas with [illegible] agreement but some doubts.

The companies made at least six suggestions about federal regulations in the light of the recent failure of the North American General Insurance Co.

Mr. Sharp and his visitors agreed that the collapse has not shaken public confidence in Canadian finance companies.

"It did not arise out of the normal condition of the insurance business," said C. G. Angas, president of Canadian Pioneer Insurance Co. and spokesman for the underwriters, after a two-hour meeting in the minister's office.

Mr. Sharp has previously described the failure as a case of theft.

The federally-incorporated companies will meet soon with Richard Humphrys, federal superintendent of insurance, to take a longer look at present regulations.

Mr. Sharp's proposal on security purchases would limit sales to associated companies. This would prevent purchase of a parent company's assets by a subsidiary.

To prevent sale of a company by a strong group to a weak group, Ottawa is considering measures to give the superintendent of insurance more authority over ownership transfers.

The third proposal, a limit on the size of investments, would provide for a safer distribution of assets.

LOOKS AT SPORTS

I don't know much about building monuments, but I have a feeling that those who leave them behind do not always get in history books with a halo over their heads.

Henry VIII built a few in his day. But chances are if you could talk to Anne Boleyn she would tell you that Henry was badly in need of a fresh deodorant.

Adolf Schickelgruber also sprayed the landscape with monuments, but you know what they say about him down at the union hall. Lousiest paperhanger in the business.

Female entertainers have had their fling at leaving something to remember them by, no stern untoned as it were.

But the perspiring world of athletics, I think, has had fewer pseudo-greats than most fields. The raw competitiveness of games tends to peel the phoney from the suet.

There are exceptions. Eddie Shore is well advanced in his campaign to prove that Ebenezer Scrooge and Simon Legree were Boy Scouts.

Trotters Living Monument to Abe

Few monuments endure as long as the Harlem Globetrotters, here next week. The personnel changes but the spirit of the man who brought them into existence and his objective of providing wholesome family entertainment lives on.

It's hard to believe that the Trotters as an institution are 41 years old. Abe Saperstein, who invented them, died March 15, 1966. But they are as funny, as successful and as busy today as when he was alive. That is testimony to how he built.

Even with the National Basketball Association expanding like rabbits, the Trotters neither recruit nor do they have trouble finding replacements.

Eddie McGuire worked for Saperstein for five years and still handles the Trotters' advance publicity. He says, "Every Negro kid fooling around with a basketball dreams of someday playing for the Trotters, just like white kids playing baseball dream of playing for the New York Yankees."

McGuire paused. "Or at least did until last year," he said.

Some Can't Keep Buttinskys Out

For decades Yankee owners never rocked the managerial ship. You equated the Yankees with George Weiss in the front office, Casey Stengel on the bench and pennant after pennant. Then they began playing musical chairs.

Weiss went to the Mets. Stengel was considered too old. Ralph Houk was named general manager and gave Yogi Berra a year to make a prize souffle with leftovers.

The next year Houk invited Berra to leave and gave the impossible task to Johnny Keane. The Yankees were in sixth place when the trapdoor was opened for Keane. Houk, who let him go, took over and magnificently managed the New Yorkers into the murky depths of the American League.

Saperstein set up an organization and kept his buttinsky out of it. He recognized his forte — personal promotion — early and left administrative details to capable people.

When Abe realized that travelling with them prevented him from co-ordinating schedules and handling the mass of detail that goes with a roundball roadshow, he asked Brownstein to recommend somebody for the post.

"Got just the gal, Abe," Brownstein said. "Her name's Marie Linehan. She's in the Chicago school system. A dandy."

Line of Command Knows the Score

Marie Linehan didn't want the job, didn't need it.

"Try it," Saperstein urged her. That was 21 years ago.

Today if you really want to know anything about the Trotters — when they'll be in Bulgaria, how long Meadowlark Simmons' arms are — you phone the Trotters' head office in Chicago and Marie Linehan answers.

It's the same down the line of command. Bill Margolis was writing for the Chicago Journal-American 18 years ago when Saperstein beckoned. He's never left. The 90-minute telecast of the Trotters aboard the USS Enterprise just before the Super-Bowl game was Margolis-engineered.

Saperstein's brother Maurie has been with the organization 13 years. McGuire is working on his sixth year.

Before Abe died he had his only son Jerry sweating it out as an advance man and unit manager, doing the same things papa did so well.

What kind of things?

"Well," McGuire said, "one of the major concerns of a show like ours is getting arena dates. We're in and out and arena managers are inclined to reserve dates for their best customers.

A Question All of Us Could Ask

"Abe never worked on a guarantee. He always wanted a percentage of the gate. He worked on the theory his show was good enough to draw. If it wasn't, he figured he should take his share of the loss, not pile it on some local promoter."

McGuire kindled a fresh cigarette. "I drive 30,000 miles a year," he said. "Hit all the towns, all the arena managers. I never realized it when Abe was alive but I do now."

Realized what?

"How much Abe was liked," McGuire said. "In 41 years surely you have to put some guy's nose out of joint. Abe never did. I've never heard one word against him. But lots of good things about him.

"That's something in a business where you deal with people about money. Hell, old friends can get in a beef over who buys coffee. Yet Abe spent 41 years, lived and died a millionaire and people said he was a nice guy."

McGuire butted his cigarette and looked up.

"When you're finished your life's work," he asked, "wouldn't you like to hear that said about you?"

Champ Leads Charge Into City Semifinals

Semi-finalists were declared in the men's single of the city badminton championships at Cordova Bay Club Wednesday night.

Defending champion Bob Hunt disposed of Ian Fraser 15-4, 15-4; Bob McMynn put down Jim Cole 15-12, 15-9; Rodger Lindal ousted Daryl Bissell 15-10, 15-12; and Ivor Goodmanson eliminated John Dewey 15-6, 15-5.

Tonight's feature is expected to be a men's open doubles semifinal with defending champions Hunt and Ed Hedley meeting Cordova Bay clubmates Bob Lewis and Jim Cole at 8 p.m.

The draw:

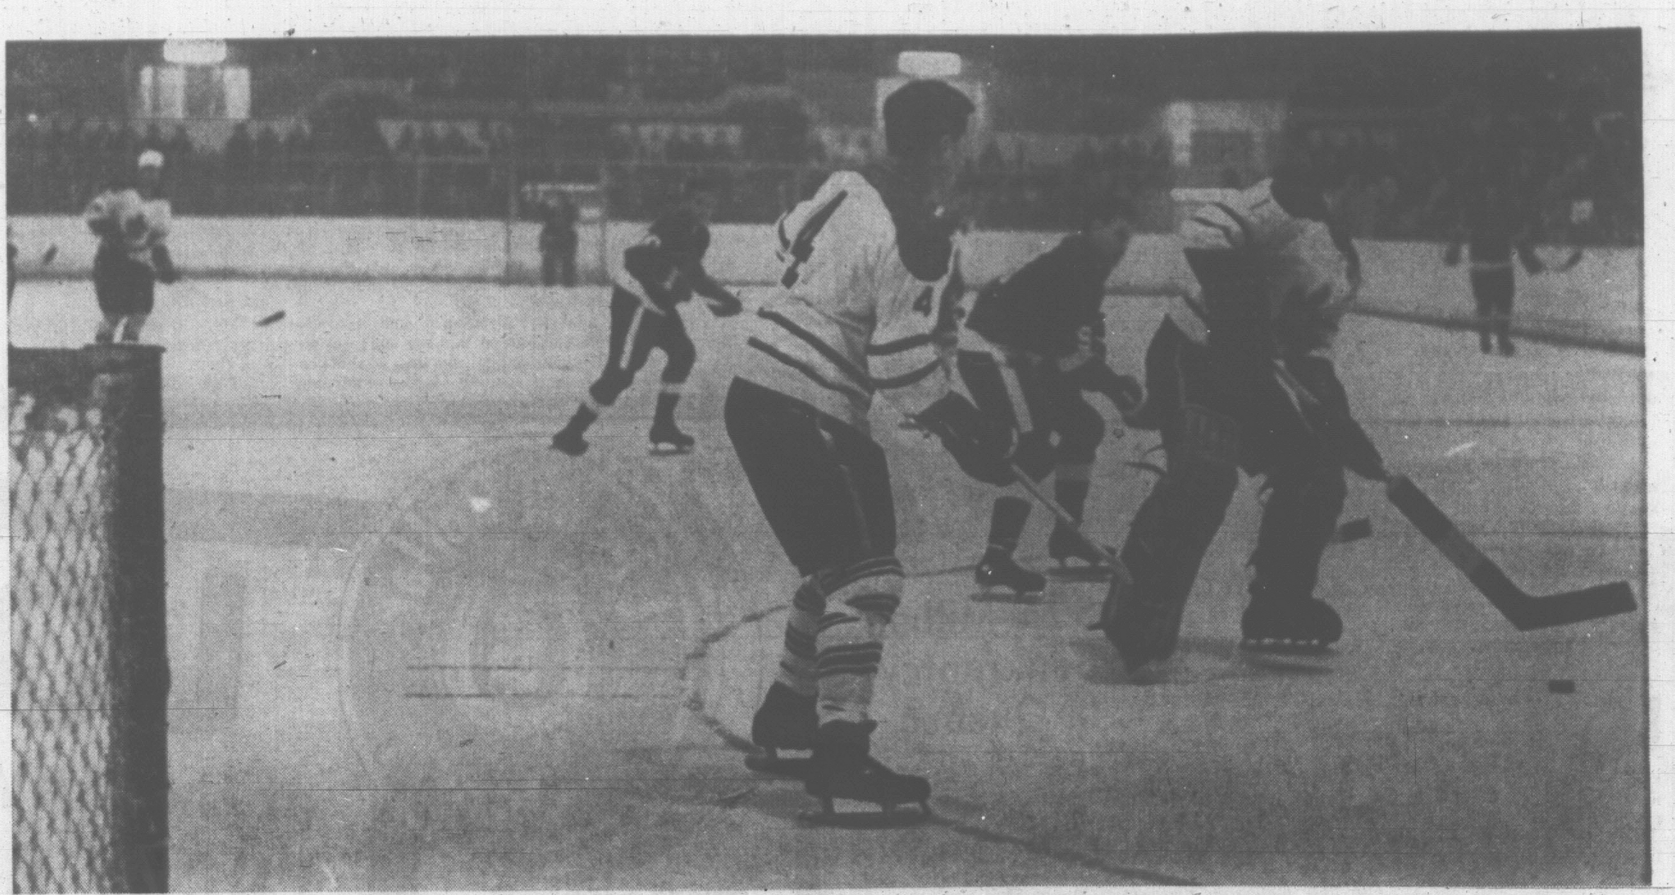
Year's Suspension

OTTAWA (CP)—Guy Bennet, general manager of Ottawa Nationals of the St. Lawrence Senior Hockey League, this week was handed a one-year suspension from the league for taking his team out of a game last Friday at Morrisburg, Ont.



GARY, WON'T YOU PLEASE COME HOME?

If you think Victoria's nomadic netminder Gary Smith is long way from his goal, you should have seen him a few seconds earlier. Smith, a renowned roamer, had stickhandled puck almost to blue line. He lost it but had regained possession when cameraman Bill Halkett clicked shutter. Smitty eventually got away clearing pass, but at this stage Victoria captain Sandy Hucul (4) probably wished he had tether attached to gadabout Gary. Seattle Totems were surprised but not stunned. They went on to take 5-2 decision from Maple Leafs at Memorial Arena.

Seattle, 5; Victoria, 2

By DOUG PEDEN

Bill MacFarland and Howie Hughes know a good thing when they see one, and they don't intend to risk scaring good fortune away by thinking about it.

When coach MacFarland and his Seattle Totems arrived at Memorial Arena Wednesday night, they could look back fondly on five wins and a tie in seven games against the Maple Leafs.

That meekness of the Leafs against the Totes was the only reason Bill's boys were two points ahead of Victoria and holding down fourth place in the Western Hockey League.

When they left a few hours later, the record was six victories and a draw in eight clashes. They had erupted for three goals in the third period to whip the Leafs 5-2 and build their fourth-place bulge to a solid four points.

"I don't know what it is," MacFarland said when asked to explain why the Totems act like champions against Victoria and sometimes like ham-and-eggers against other clubs. "But whatever it is, it's alright with me.

"I'm not going to think too much about it either. We're not that much better than Victoria and if I start searching for a reason I might spoil everything."

While Hughes was lacing on his skates with the rest of the Totes he could look back on earlier outings against Victoria with happy memories of six goals in seven games.

When Howie departed he could look back even more fondly. He had collected two more and now has scored eight of his 16 goals this season against the Leafs.

'A Little More Luck' Against Leafs

"I don't know what it is," said Hughes, echoing the words of his coach. "I'm doing the same things against Victoria as I am against other clubs. I can't think of any reason why I'm scoring more, and I'm not going to try.

"Maybe I'm just having a little more luck against Victoria. Take the first goal tonight. The goalie couldn't see the puck and it was lying there for about five seconds. I just poked it in. On the second goal, Bill Dineen's rebound came right to me and all I had to do was shoot into an open net."

Although MacFarland declined to say so, he and the 2,179 fans could see that the Totems were outhustling and outroughing the Leafs most of the way.

Totems, coming off a week of nothing but practice sessions, skated harder and faster, they persisted in pursuit longer and they were quicker on the puck.

As if that wasn't enough, the Leafs let themselves get pushed around by the big Seattle defence and people who get pushed around seldom win hockey games.

However, it was close until the final 10 minutes and at the end of the second period it appeared the Leafs were ready for their usual third-period surge and a possible victory that would have lifted them into a fourth-place tie with Seattle.

Hebenton Counts Victoria's Pair

Goalie Gary Smith, who had yielded only three goals in his previous four games, held the fort for Victoria in the scoreless opening period, making 13 saves while Seattle's Jim McLeod was handling only four shots.

Pressure wore a couple of holes in Gary's armor in the second period and goals by Chuck Holmes and Dineen put the Totes ahead 2-0 before the Leafs closed the period with a rush to knot the count.

Andy Hebenton, again a standout performer along with defenceman Aut Erickson, got both Victoria goals on passes from Bob Barlow. The second one came in the final second of the period as the Leafs appeared started on a closing drive.

It wasn't to be.

Hughes poked home what proved to be the winner after only 27 seconds of the final period. Jim Powers made it 4-2 and Hughes wrapped up the scoring with three minutes remaining.

Smith, going down on shots more than usual, tossed in an extra thrill while the score was 1-0. Gary, a renowned roamer, stickhandled the puck from his cage almost to the blue line. He lost it when checked but somehow regained possession on the way back home and got away a clearing pass.

Noel Not One To Say It With Words

The second period was also spiced by a brief fistic exchange between Victoria's Tom Polanic and Pat Quinn, plus a swing at a spectator by Seattle rearguard Bob Lemieux.

While the Totes were returning to the dressing room at the end of the period, a youthful fan challenged defenceman Noel Picard and got flattened for his trouble.

Defeat for coach Frank Mario's Leafs arrived after the club has apparently settled into stride and chalked up four successive wins in a drive toward a playoff spot.

Now they must try again to start a climb up the ladder. They get their next chance against the streaking Oakland Seals — at Memorial Arena Saturday and Tuesday.

The second-place Seals open a road trip at Vancouver Friday with a string of seven straight triumphs. However, the Leafs will have at least one thing going for them Saturday.

They have three wins and a tie in five starts against Oakland. And perhaps they should copy the Totems and not try to wonder why.

VANCOUVER MAYOR . . . . . . HOT ON IDEA

Wanted: World Hockey

VANCOUVER — Mayor Tom Campbell wants to stage the 1969 world amateur hockey championships in the city's new 15,200-seat arena. The building is expected to be ready in February, 1968.

The mayor will ask city council to approve the bid at a meeting next week.

"Vancouver has missed out on all kinds of activity in this Centennial year," the mayor said. "Montreal has Expo, Winnipeg has the Pan-American games and Vancouver has nothing."

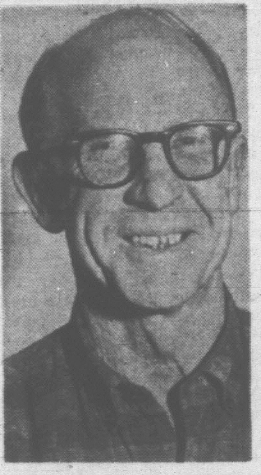
Campbell jumped on the idea, first proposed in a letter to him from Dr. Robert Hindmarch of University of B.C.

If council backs the mayor's plan, the next step would be to delegate a committee to draw up a brief for presentation to the International Ice Hockey Federation meeting in Vienna next March.

The approval of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association would be required.

Fred Page of North Vancouver, CAHA president, said bids are also expected from Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg.

"If more than one bid is submitted," Page said, "the site will be chosen on strictly a business basis."



BOWLER OF WEEK

Big games of 306, 348 and 238 for 892 total brought Ted Pagdin "Bowler-of-the-Week" honors in men's fivepin division. Lineman with city, Ted rolled winning triple in Mixed Classic League at Gibson's. He now qualifies for year-end rolloff in competition sponsored by The Daily Times.

Oak Bay Grad Gets Games Trip

The bells have tolled for Rick Toller.

The former Oak Bay High School athlete (tenpin, bowling, golf, badminton), has been selected to the badminton team which will represent the Yukon in the Winter Games at Quebec City next month.

Now a resident of Whitehorse, Toller earned his spot by winning the Yukon men's singles championships and by being a member of the men's doubles finalists.

Blake's Habs Spank 'Stars

MONTREAL (CP)—Coach Toe Blake of Montreal Canadiens says his club's 3-0 victory Wednesday night over the National Hockey League All-Stars should help Montreal gain confidence.

The Canadiens, mired in fourth place this season after winning the Stanley Cup for the last two seasons, were underdogs going into the game — the first All-Star fixture played at mid-season.

It was the first time in 20 All-Star games that the stars have been shut out.

"I thought our team skated well and I was particularly glad that we didn't give up any part of the lead through defensive lapses in the late stages," Blake said.

"Henri Richard was a real standout and I thought he turned in his best skating effort in quite a while."

HOPES HE'S IN GROOVE

John Ferguson, who opened and closed the scoring, said he hoped his pair of goals would get him in a scoring groove for regular season games.

"They were my first goals in an All-Star game and I'm hoping that I can keep putting the puck in the net through the rest of the schedule."

Ferguson has counted only five goals in regular play this season.

Gary Bauman, in goal for Canadiens through the second period, said he wasn't as nervous in this game as he had been in his NHL debt against Boston Bruins last Sunday.

"I was much more relaxed tonight, but I was glad to get the experience against some of the best players in the league.

"All through that second period I was waiting for Bobby Hull of Chicago to wind up and let a real hard shot go. But he didn't — thank goodness."

Bauman's work was praised by Blake, who also had kind words for goalie Charlie Hodge.

"This was a fine chance for Hodge to regain his confidence and sharpen up his game. I don't want to commit myself, but I'm thinking of starting Hodge when we meet Chicago here Saturday."

In the stars' dressing room, Gordie Howe of Dertroit said he and the rest of the team found the ice somewhat heavy.

"I thought I was the only one who found it that way, but I checked with most of the other players and they found the same thing."

Hull said the game seemed to drag in spots.

"We didn't seem to be moving too well out there. Most of the boys haven't played since last Sunday and we didn't practice. So maybe we were a bit stale."

Sid Abel, the All-Stars coach, said Canadiens turned in a strong skating game to earn their victory.

"They started right on top of us and didn't give us a chance to open up. We didn't have too many scoring chances and if you don't score you don't win."

ARMY DUTIES CLAIM SCHULZ . . . . . . ST. ANDREW'S HERE SATURDAY

That Good O'Keefes' Bench Threatened

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Duty calls, so it may come to pass that the Queen's Own Rifles could be the ones to fire a damaging shot at Victoria O'Keefes' bid to wrest the Pacific Coast Soccer League championship from the mainland.

The Queen's Own head for B.C.'s Interior next week for winter exercises that will carry on through to May.

That means Jim Schulz, the lanky centre forward, will put in a "farewell" appearance for O'Keefes Saturday afternoon at Macdonald Park when the Victorians play St. Andrew's in a regular league match.

Schulz, hard-working 25-year-old who scored the winning goal in last week's 2-1 triumph over Firefighters, is not expected back until about May 10.

Consequently, he may miss the International Kennedy Cup tournament at Vancouver's Empire Stadium on May 6-7 . . . if Victoria draws the invitation. The team finishing first in the PCSL's regular schedule qualifies as Canada's entry in the four-country tournament.

As it happens, O'Keefes are unbeaten, unbowed . . . and in first, by the slim margin of one point over Vancouver Columbus.

The loss of Schulz may hurt O'Keefes, particularly since sophomore Ike MacKay also is on the sidelines. The brilliant 18-year-old forward suffered cracked vertebrae wings in a game Jan. 7 and will remain out of action until the end of February.

When Schulz leaves, it is possible a crack may appear in the balance and strong bench that has played such a prominent part in Victoria's unbeaten march through the first 13 games. O'Keefes have had their share of injuries earlier in the season, but, fortunately for them, those on the bench have proven to be the equal of those on the field.

After Saturday's game, however, O'Keefes may be forced to reach out to their junior team, or into District League ranks, for a replacement. If only to keep that Victoria bench looking as healthy as it has in the past.

'WHAT PROBLEM?'

Shore Stays Cool

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — A dispute between the players and Eddie Shore of Springfield Indians of the American Hockey League will be aired before league President Jack Butterfield, a lawyer representing the players said Wednesday night.

Alan Eagleson of Toronto said following a closed 90-minute talk with the players that Butterfield is scheduled to arrive today.

"We'll discuss thoroughly the Springfield problem and its effect on the league," Eagleson said. The Indians, here for a game with Hershey, were beaten 3-2 by the Bears Wednesday night and are in fourth place in the five-team Eastern Division.

The dispute between Shore and the 23-member team began last month when the players went on strike after three of them had been suspended for what Shore termed indifferent play.

Since then, Shore has suspended Mike Corbett and goaltender Jacques Caron for the same reason.

Asked for comment on the problem, Shore, here with the team, replied: "What problem?"

Earlier, Butterfield had been quoted as saying he would not attend any meetings here and Eagleson had said the league president should disqualify himself as an arbitrator in the dispute.

Eagleson had asked Butterfield to stay out of the dispute because "he works for Shore and is therefore hung on a conflict of interests."

Expansion Teams Pleased With NHL Draft Scheme

MONTREAL (CP)—The days of wait and see are over for the six new franchise holders in the National Hockey League.

They were advised Wednesday on the formula which will be used to provide the players necessary to stock their new clubs in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Los Angeles, San Francisco - Oakland and Minneapolis - St. Paul for the start of next season.

The complicated plan to give the new clubs the 20 players they were promised for their individual $2,000,000 franchise fee was announced by Clarence Campbell, NHL president, after two days of meetings with the current league governors and general managers.

The formula calls for the existing teams to protect one goaltender and 11 other players before an expansion team can select one.

After the 12th player on a club's roster is chosen by a new entry, the 13th man is protectede by the old club, the 14th may be drafted and the 15th player remains.

The 16th, 17th and 18th players are then subject to draft by an expansion club.

Selection of netminders is on a separate basis, with the existing club's No. 1 goalie protected, the No. 2 man eligible for the draft, the third-stringer being brought up by the parent club and the fourth man going to one of the new clubs.

The new teams will draw lots for first pick at the goalies, with the order of choice being reversed so that the team selecting first in the goalie part of the draft will be sixth when it comes to choosing other players.

Bill Putnam, president of the Philadelphia entry, termed it "a good plan and a fair plan."

"I would of course have liked more, but I realize the position the other clubs were in."

Cooke said he was also pleased with the formula. He praised the league for its "statesmanlike way the plan was adopted and for its continuing program to ensure the proper development of the new teams."

General managers Emile Francis of New York Rangers and Tommy Ivan of Chicago Black Hawks both said they regretted giving up players, but both conceded this had to be done.

Current NHL clubs also will be able to hold on to most of their outstanding first-year professionals with minor league teams.

Youngsters now playing as pro, but still eligible for junior competition this season, are ineligible for any draft claims as long as they remain eligible for junior competition.

These regulations will also apply for the 1967-68 and 1968-69 seasons.

Under these rules, players not eligible for the expansion draft in June are Bobby Orr of Boston Bruins and Ross Lonsberry in the same organization.

Bart Crashley, Doug Barrie and Pete Mahovlich of Detroit Red Wings' chain, Lucien Grenier, Serge Savard and Carol Vadnais of Montreal's farm system and Jim McKenney and Wayne Carleton who belong to Toronto, will not be lost in the draft.

Rangers will be able to retain Al Hamilton by the same token.

In the years 1968 and 1969, the order of selection for the amateur draft will be based on the previous year's standing in both divisions. In this year's choosing, the order among the Western Division clubs will be determined by lot.

DEAD after apparent heart attack is Goose Tatum, 45, world famous court jester with Harlem Globetrotters. Tatum died Wednesday in El Paso hospital.

Jim Dillard Rejects Ottawa Peace Bid

OTTAWA (CP) — Fullback Jim Dillard of Ottawa Rough Riders insists he is a free agent and expects to try for a berth in the National or American Football league after rejecting an Ottawa offer to pay him the $2,600 that was deducted from his salary during the 1966 season.

The offer also included a guarantee there would be no further deductions in 1967 as the club was prepared to write off the $5,000 advance made by Oakland Raiders of the AFL to Dillard two years ago.

Oakland gave him the money to play out his option year with Calgary Stampeders of the Western Conference and join them. But Calgary later sent Dillard to Ottawa in a player deal.

BREACH OF CONTRACT

The fullback said the club breached the contract by not paying him in full by the end of the last playoff game. "While I want to stay here, I feel the club is not counting on me in the plans for the next season."

Ottawa president Sam Berger said the team made the offer "because we felt Dillard could help us."

"We have a young team, Dillard figures in it and our move to pay the $5,000 was not a way of admitting we were wrong originally. It was simply a way of smoothing things out and getting him in the right frame of mind."

Before news of Dillard's rejection, Ottawa coach Frank Clair said the fullback figures in his plans for the upcoming season.

"Sure, we'll deal for anyone on the club if it's to our advantage, but at present there's a place for him on the team if he can make it."

Streit Shares Medal Honor

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Marlene Streit of Toronto and Mrs. Scott Rebosco of Chattanooga, Tenn., fired matching 76s Wednesday and tied for low qualifier in the 35th Doherty Cup women's golf tournament.

The score was two over par on the Coral Ridge Country Club course where the five-day tournament is being held. More than 100 women golfers vied for the 32 championship-flight berths.

Sharon Moran of Carlsbad, Calif., followed the leaders with a 77. She was trailed by Sandra Post of Oakville, Ont., and Mrs. Paul Cudone of Myrtle Beach, S.C., each at 78.

Mrs. Streit is a four-time winner of the event. She had a 34 on the front nine and then soared to 42 on the back nine.

Coast League Opens Season on April 14

SEATTLE (AP)—A 148-game baseball schedule, opening April 14 and closing Sept. 4, has been announced by the Pacific Coast League.

On opening day, Indianapolis will be at Hawaii, Denver at Oklahoma City, Tulsa at Phoenix, Spokane at Portland, Tacoma at San Diego and Vancouver at Seattle.

EYES ON BELTERS

Heading contingent of six belters from Victoria's London Boxing Club seeking Emerald Gloves titles is bantamweight Gary Van Buskirk (above). He was runnerup to Bronze Boy in December tournament at Vancouver, has won eight of nine bouts in first year of boxing. Also scheduled to see action in Emerald tournament Friday and Saturday at Vancouver are clubmates Dave and Ron Way, Alan Ranger, Mike Miller and Jim O'Neil.

West Indies Batsmen Help Salvage a Draw

MADRAS, India (Reuters)—An unbeaten eighth-wicket stand of 77 between Gary Sobers and Charlie Griffith enabled the West Indies to draw the third and final cricket test match against India here Wednesday.

India, which lost the first two tests, seemed set for a face-saving victory when it had seven West Indies' wickets down for 197 at tea. The touring team had been set to make 322 in 295 minutes to win.

Spin bowlers Prasanna and Bedi, who shared the wickets, were right on top and getting a good nip off the pitch, but Sobers and Griffith held out throughout the final 90-minute session. Sobers made 74 and Griffith 40.

India's chance went when Sobers, the West Indies skipper, had two "lives" at the start of his innings.

Sobers, when eight, was missed by Surti at slip. Two runs later, Hanumant at deep mid-on failed to hold a catch.

India missed another chance with the total at 213, when Griffith, who had made five, snicked leg-spinner Chandrasekhar at short leg. Again Surti was at fault.

Colleges Pep Up Football Attacks

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association adopted a new rule Wednesday which it hopes will put the foot back into football and open a new pattern of offensive play.

The committee also adopted a rule prohibiting the use of electronic coaching aids, particularly video-taped replays during games.

The committee, headed by Fritz Crisler, University of Michigan athletic director, decided "that there have been too many fair catches on kicks from scrimmage and it's the unanimous feeling that this should change."

Under the new rule, linemen on the kicking team will have to hold their positions until the ball is kicked, thereby giving the player receiving the ball an additional few seconds.

Currently, most teams employ a nine-man spread on the line when punting and place their kicker 15 yards back. This allows the linemen to get coverage on the receiver, making punt returns almost prohibitive.

"This will bring back the short or quick kick and open up a host of offensive variations," said Dave Nelson, coach at the University of Delaware.

"It brings kicking back into the game by holding the five interior linemen at the line of scrimmage and gives the coaches a full new offensive concept to work with," added Crisler.

Regarding the use of electronic coaching equipment, the committee decided to ban its use because "of an underlying concern that if one or two teams use it, then others will do it, too," said Crisler.

REPLAYS OUT

The specific mention was made of video-taped instant replays which could be fed to coaches while the game is in progress. There had been some mention of teams which employ electronic devices in the helmets of players to carry signals.

Crisler said that a major concern was economic, because it was apparent that many teams, both on the college and junior college levels, could not afford to outfit their teams with electronic gear.

In all, 15 rules changes were made, most of them minor clarifications of existing regulations.

District Golfers Try Again Sunday

Victoria District Golf Committee officials will make another attempt Sunday at Uplands to complete the city winter medal series.

Weather conlitions washed out the third and final round last Sunday and the players will try again this weekend on the same course with the same starting times.

For most of them, first place is out of reach. Professional Bill Wakeham is out in front by 11 strokes.

Winner 'Very Unhappy' As Teammate Tumbles

SCHRUNS, Austria (CP-AP)—"I did not want to win like this," exclaimed 22-year-old Marielle Goitschel of France today after winning the special slalom event of the Golden Keys women's Alpine ski meet.

Today's victory and Miss Goitschel's triumph in the downhill race Wednesday netted her the coveted Golden Keys Trophy.

"I am very unhappy," she said after teammate Florence Steurer, 17, fell about 10 metres from the finish line in the second of the slalom's two heats.

Miss Goitschel's time was 103.38 from heats of 53.59 and 49.79.

NANCY PLACED THIRD

She maintains her lead in the race for the World Cup, the season-long award for the best over-all performance in top international races. She now has 126 World Cup points, followed by Miss Famose with 95 and Miss Goitschel with 90.

So far Miss Greene has won four of seven races.

In today's race, she tied with Wendy Allen of the United States, but the American girl later was disqualified.

VIRTUALLY UNBEATABLE

Miss Steurer carried a virtually unbeatable lead into the second heat. She out-distanced a field of 72 girls from 12 countries in the first run when 30 entries fell by the wayside.

French coach Jean Beranger said she lost control in a traverse at the final part of the track. Miss Steurer herself was speechless.

Miss Goitschel said: "I hoped we would win the top three places."

As close to tears as Miss Steurer, she added: "I would have been perfectly satisfied to place second behind Florence."

Experts attributed Miss Steurer's fall to lack of experience. But they predicted a brilliant future for the pert teen-ager.

Money 'No Problem' For Ski Team . . . Yet

COWANSVILLE, Que. (CP) — Pierre Alain, president of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association, says that Canada's ski team has "no immediate financial problem" and that its morale is high.

The 11-member team, now in Europe, has received financial support from the government and from the public and there should be no problem if this support continues, he added.

He was commenting on efforts in Parliament urging the government to come to the aid of Nancy Greene and other members of the Canadian team, reported running out of money.

Mr. Alain said there was no immediate danger of running out of funds but he hoped that fund-raising efforts would continue so that Canada's participation in international ski competitions would not be curtailed.

The team will return to Canada on Monday to take part in competitions in British Columbia and Quebec.

Wills Sparks Oak Bay Girls

Maureen Wills pumped in 20 points Wednesday showing Oak Bay High the way to a 44-17 inter-high girl's basketball victory over Mount View.

Jacquie Ferris contributed six points and Vicki Williams five for the Bays. Penny Druce was Mount View's best with 10.

In another game, Victoria High edged Esquimalt 20-17 with Pat Bourne and Gail Vaughan splitting 12 points. Esquimalt got seven points from Wendy Moser and six from Sheila Turner.

HOME GARDEN

Forget Picture On Package

By JACK BEASTALL

of the picture is to indicate the type of vegetable, and you will sometimes find two or three strains of carrots in packets having the same picture on the outside.

Jack

Since carrots have been mentioned we can use them as an example.

The catalog I have on the desk lists them by types; speciall ong-type Nantes, Nantes or coreless, Chantenay type, long tapered varietes, Danvers type, Imperators, and coreless Amsterdamf orcing type.

TEN STRAINS

In each of these groups there are from three to ten strains and selections. The types vary from long thin tapers to short thick untapered roots, and maturing time varies from nine weeks to 12 weeks.

The long carrots are good on light deep soils while the stubby ones are better suited to heavy, shallow soils.

The reason so many kinds are offered is the variety of soil types and climatic conditions that prevail in a land mass as great as Canada.

Even in an area as small as Victoria there are many soil types, and somewhere in this list is a carrot particularly suited to the type of soil in one garden, but unsuited to a garden down the street.

Therefore the name of the carrot, its type and length is important to the home gardener.

The one suited to any particular garden can only be found by experiment, that is, by sowing a few seeds of three or four named selections each year until the perfect root for your soil, conditions, and taste, is found.

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, JANUARY 19, 1967—PAGE 17

Arthur Mayse

It is my pleasure to announce that the world record for steelhead trout is now back in British Columbia where it belongs.

For many years the largest of the great sea-run rainbows ever listed was a 42-pounder weighed in at Corbett, Oregon.

But the steelie which Japanese-Canadian Kichirzo Hama hauled into his gillnetter from a bay near the Skeena mouth last July 26 ran an even pound heavier.

Both fish were taken with commercial gear, but B.C. also holds the sport record for steelhead with a 36-pound fish hooked by Max "Chuck" Ewart of Prince George in the Kispiox in September, 1954.

For this information, I am indebted to Stan V. Wright, Vic Dale, Bud Bell, and several other fellows who would rather fish than engage in practically any other activity you can mention.

Sooke-dweller Stan Wright was there when Chuck Ewart toppled the rod-and-line record.

So, he tells me, was Seattle newsman Paul Lyon, whose wire-service account of the capture fetched American anglers in droves to what had formerly been a stream fished only by a handful of British Columbians.

The record landlocked rainbow trout to date weighed 37 pounds. It was caught in Lake Pend Oreille, Idaho, in 1947.

And I expect that sooner or later, a B.C. fish will topple that proud record, too.

There is a lady sweet and kind who read my last-week's piece about calendars, and confessed to a hobby which on several occasions has yielded her considerable pleasure.

What she does each January is inspect all calendars that come her way for the bloopers that can creep into even the most carefully prepared record.

It has a nice picture to go with each month, a stand-up tab on the back that inclines it at just the right angle, and in all respects but one, it is above reproach.

But to the trained eye, it reveals a flaw: the holidays it lists are not Canadan but American.

This, however, is a minor triumph for our sleuth. Modestly, she recounts how once she ruffled through the impressive wall job put out by a long-established Canadian emporium and discovered an error that made her squeak with glee.

Darn if they hadn't landed Ash Wednesday, the first day of Lent, on a Tuesday.

And while winding up this topic until next January, a note to the admired GP who gets our family trade:

Look, Doc, I can endure your cold, cold stethoscope against my rib cage, but will you for Pete's sake please remove that undertaker's calendar from your office wall?

★

To entertain sentimental thoughts for a car is ridiculous, since it's only metal and glass, rubber and fabric after all. But our close-coupled black charger carried us faithfully (with one expensive exception) for almost seven years, and we got to know each other pretty well.

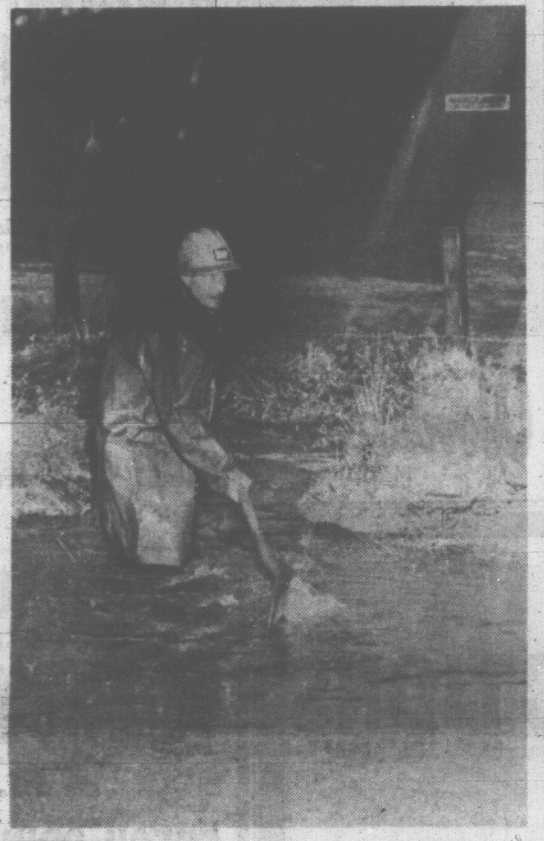
So it was not without a pang that we parted company the other day.

We have seen a lot of sunsets together, and many a dawn when the highway was empty and driving a pure delight.

In Portland, when we were both younger, we strayed into a one-way street from the wrong end. Had a trucker not covered us while we got turned around on the patio of a dog-and-cat hospital, I don't know what might have transpired.

We have been hauled ignominiously out of deep sand, and performed a few like services in our lengthy association. I fear that sometimes we have cut the time between here and Campbell River rather shorter than the law would approve.

A good car, and I hope its shiny new successor will serve us as well.



FIVE FEET HIGH and rising today, both inside and out. In top picture, John Lambert, 20, of 1568 Hawthorne, finds a sponge mop can't cut the mustard, when the mustard happens to be four inches deep and getting deeper. A bigger problem even than flooding basements in Saanich was roads that turned to rivers. Saanich Public Works worker Louis Pagnotta (bottom picture), was up to his thighs trying to divert water on Shelbourne into side ditch. Other roads badly flooded were in Gordon Head area. (Times photos by Irving Strickland.)

Tick-Tock, Time Running Out, Warns Clock at Craigflower

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Men and women sat on antique chairs in a room reminiscent of Victorian splendor.

Outside in the hall an old English clock ticked the time away as it had done for generations.

UPPER GORGE

This is the Craigflower Manor, built by the Hudson's Bay Company bailiff, Mr. Kenneth McKenzie, 113 years ago as part of the company's farm project on the upper Gorge.

A group of citizens gathered there Wednesday to press the provincial government to finalize the purchase of the private museum and home of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald A. Thompson.

They represented a cross-section of society, as well as social, historical, service and professional organizatons.

They were concerned that the B.C. government had done nothing yet to sign an agreement with the federal government to purchase the property for preservation as an historic site.

The federal government last year offered to share equally with the province in purchasing the property, with the senior government undertaking to maintain it for at least 35 years.

WANT TO SELL

Mrs. Thompson said she and her husband want to sell the property because the manor is too expensive to keep up.

"We are actually subsidizing the manor," she said.

It was vitally important for the government to take over the property because "dry rot" had started in the annex to the building, she added.

"The annex is comparatively new," she said. "It should be torn down before the dry rot spreads to the farmhouse."

QUICK ACTION

The representatives were unanimously in agreement that immediate government action to acquire the farmhouse was important.

"What we urge you to do is go back to your organizations and ask them to petition the government to complete the federal-provincial agreement," said Mrs. Thompson.

Modern Problems Involving Indians Subject for Panel

Two panelists from the Indian Affairs Branch will discuss modern-day social work problems with Indians tonight at a meeting of lower Vancouver Island social workers.

Panel chairman will be Al Carter director of the department of education's community program branch.

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. at Spencerhouse, 1951 Cook St.

$2 Million Convention Hall Plan Revived by Alderman

Site Behind Arena Urged by Edgelow

By JIM HUME
Times City Hall Reporter

A convention centre plan given serious study by Victoria city council 18 months ago was revived today by Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow.

A supporter of the $2 million 5,000-seat project when it was introduced to council by ex-Mayor R. B. Wilson in October, 1965, Ald. Edgelow said he couldn't understand how the proposal had been apparently overlooked by the committee now studying the convention centre problem.

The centre, as proposed by ex-Mayor Wilson, would see the city make use of the land located north of Memorial Arena and the land lying between the arena and the curling rink.

"It was an excellent plan as I recall it," Ald. Edgelow said this morning. "It was economical in that it could be built without the city going to the taxpayers for extra funds.

"It would be built on city-owned land, would provide adequate parking, is close to the centre of the city and would make full use of existing facilities," he said.

The convention centre envisioned by ex-Mayor Wilson included a 5,000-seat main hall with a stage at its head, medium-sized conference rooms and kitchen facilities for the preparation of banquets.

Asked if the idea was still practical, Mr. Garnett answered: "Definitely."

He added that while the main hall would seat 5,000 for conventions or theatre type productions, seating adjustments would enable crowds of up to 4,800 to watch basketball or similar spectator sports.

"And if there was an event which required the full floor space to be used balcony-type seating could still be provided for 1,800," he said.

Mr. Garnett said that when requested to prepare the preliminary drawings, ex-Mayor Wilson asked that flexibility or multi-purpose use be given priority consideration.

Used For Sports, Meetings

"The plan has much to recommend it," said Mr. Garnett. "The entire thing could be built in stages, which would relieve the burden on the budget. And it would utilize existing facilities to the extent that when finished it would provide the city with a very fine sports and convention centre complex."

The convention centre proper would, if the plan were adopted, be built in an elevated position on the rocky outcrop just to the northeast of the arena.

"It was never considered that the rock would be blasted out," said Mr. Garnett. "The top of the rock would be levelled so that the auditorium could retain the natural elevation. There would be easy under-cover access from one section of the complex to another section."

Ald. Edgelow stressed that the main convention hall could also be used for other sporting events such as basketball or badminton.

"The plan, in addition to providing a modern convention centre, provides parking facilities for 450 cars right on the site, plus the extra parking opposite the arena and the department store parking lot just across the way," he said.

"It ties in with the new Rose-Blanshard renewal scheme and the commercial development which is bound to come once the Rose-Blanshard scheme is completed," he added.

"And of course there would be the tremendous saving to the city on operatonal costs. They can kill you when you have to start hiring staff and maintenance men to run a new building.

"If the convention centre were built as part of the arena-curling rink complex the staff is already there. Extra men would no doubt be needed but the operating costs would be nothing like the costs we shall have to face if we build elsewhere."

Millions Saved in Land Costs

Ald. Edgelow stressed the high cost of acquiring property if a decision is made to build the proposed convention centre in the heart of the city.

"If we build a completely new centre in the downtown area we are going to be talking in terms of $5 million," Ald. Edgelow said. "A centre offering the same facilities but built between the arena and the curling rink would probably cost $2 million at the most."

Mr. Garnett noted that the 18-month-old plan offered more than just convention facilities.

Provision was made for the lower floor of a two-storey parking lot to be designed so that it could also be used for such things as automobile displays," he said.

"Any extra space required would be readily available in the arena or the curling rink which would all be connected with the new building.

"The main auditorium would be fitted with seats that telescope against the wall when not in use, freeing the floor for other activities, and provision was made for a stage at one end of the hall."

Ald. Edgelow said he would bring the old plan to the attention of the convention centre committee and ask them to make a close study of the proposal.

"They may have some sound and valid reasons as to why the old plan is not practical," he said. "Or maybe the plan just got forgotten. But I think they should take a second look at it because in my opinion it provides the simplest answer, and the most economical answer, to a problem we all admit exists."

Bonner Hints New Law In Buttle Fray

Cabinet Taking Second Looks

An agonizing re-appraisal is going on in three government departments over the Buttle Lake dumping situation.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner this morning said he may present legislation in the coming session in the wake of the Appeal Court quashing of three Pollution Control Board permits allowing Western Mines to dump tailings and sewage effluent into the up-Island lake.

He also announced that Victoria lawyer E. E. Pearlman has been retained by the department to give a second legal opinion on whether or not an appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada should be launched by the government.

Mr. Pearlman replaces Harold Mercer of Vancouver who originally was asked for the advice but is detained out of the province.

EVEN SPLIT

Mr. Bonner pointed out the question has seen an even split of judges. The permits were upheld by a Supreme Court of B.C. judge and ruled illegal in a two-to-one split decision by the Appeal Court.

Recreation and Conservation Minister Kenneth Kiernan said his department is conducting a complete review of the situation because "there are too many cooks involved so it is a little difficult to determine exactly what is in the brew."

MINE TAILINGS

Mr. Kiernan is directly involved because the park use permits he issued to Western Mines to establish its mine tailings and townsite effluent dumping systems into the Strathcona Provincial Park were based on the permits.

Water Resources Minister Ray Williston, who is responsible for the Pollution Control Board, earlier said his officials also were conducting a review of the status created by the Appeal Court's decision.

NO COMMENT

Western Mines officials this morning declined to make any comment pending further consultation with their lawyers but they have insisted that no dumping of tailings into the lake has taken place yet.

TRIO CHARGED WITH HAVING MARIJUANA

Two men and a woman were charged in Duncan magistrate's court today with possession of marijuana.

David Trevil, 31, Lake Cowichan; Michael Sollner, 19, and Lorraine Lecroix, 25, both of Vancouver, were remanded without plea for eight days.

Magistrate Lance Heard set $2,000 bail in each case.

Col. Scott Coxen, RCMP, said the three accused were arrested at Lake Cowichan Wednesday.

Sollner and Lecroix had apparently arrived at the village Monday where Trevil had been staying for the past two weeks.

Man Dies After Fall Down Steps

A man who struck his head when he fell down his basement steps Sunday died in St. Joseph's Hospital Wednesday.

Frank Cavaz, 34, of 3211 Harriet is thought to have suffered a brain hemorrhage in the mishap but coroner Edmund St. Jorre, said today he has ordered a post mortem examination.

Mr. Cavaz was taken to hospital by ambulance shortly after midnight Sunday after the tumble down 11 steps which ended with his head striking a barbeque stand.

The coroner said he would conduct an official inquiry into the death after he has received full police reports on the incident.

Born in Portugal, the dead man had been a Victoria resident for the past two years. He is survived by his wife Amanda; a daugher, Auzenda; a son, Frank, and his mother, brothers and sisters in Portugal.

Uvic Concert Set Friday For Baritone

Noted Canadian baritone Louis Quilico will appear in concert Friday at the University of Victoria, accompanied by his pianist wife and teacher Lina Pizzolongo.

The recital is the first in the CBC's Celebrity Series to be held at Uvic and is co-sponsored by the university's School of Fine Arts. It will be broadcast over CBC-AM radio March 16 at 8:30 p.m.

Born in Montreal, Luis Quilico studied in Canada and Italy, and has been a featured soloist in Europe, and South American and U.S. productions.

The recital will be in the 300-seat lecture theatre, Room 144 of the new Education and Arts Building at 8 p.m.,

Language Bar No Defence In Shop-Lift

Mrs. Arman Sandaljian of 1028 Fort was fined $75 in central court Wednesday for taking goods worth $4.26 from Woodward's store Dec. 6 without paying for them.

Her lawyer, Dermod Owen-Flood, argued there had been a misunderstanding as the woman's ability to speak English was limited. He also introduced evidence that his client was taking a type of medicine which was capable of putting her into a confused state.

Court was told Mrs. Sandaljian took two bage of apricots, a bag of yeast, potato salad and diet candy from the store's grocery department and left without paying for them.

When stopped by a store detective, the accused had $4.98 in her purse.

SHARP HERE FOR SPEECH

A club spokesman said Mr. Sharp is expected to make a non-political speech dealing with the practical aspects of federal finance and foreign investment situations.

Club president Dr. Ralph Shepherd may be contacted by members interested in the meeting, which is open only to the club and guests of members. He may be reached at EV 3-5714.

Construction Of Schools To Go Ahead

Education and Labor Minister Leslie Peterson today said he is speeding up authorizations of school construction contracts for this winter.

But he couldn't resist taking a swing at the carpenters' union which had requested the move.

He received a wire from Arnold Smith, president of the B.C. Carpenters Council, Wednesday which said 1,400 carpenters are unemployed in the province now.

The carpenters suggested that school contracts, held back as a result of the government's restraint program, should be let to help create jobs and also lower contractor prices by winter projects.

"I appreciate their concern over school construction," Mr. Peterson said in an interview.

"Had we not had an interruption for so long with the lockout last summer, there wouldn't be quite so much school construction to be done at present."

However, he said authorizations are being given to school boards by his department almost daily and a multi-million-dollar program will be carried out in the coming months.

"There will be considerable construction in this sector during the winter," he said.

Ask The Times

Q. What is the origin of the term "Viet Cong"? S.J.

A. The full name of this South Vietnamese insurgent group is Viet Nam Doc Lap Dong Minh, or League for the Independence of Viet Nam. "Cong" is simply an abbreviation for congress.

A CERTIFICATE OF MERIT was presented to Mayor Hugh Stephen and Police Chief J. F. Gregory, Wednesday, by the president of the B.C. Safety Council. The award was to mark seven days of fatality-free driving during Safe Driving Week in December. Admiring the certificate are J. S. Peden, president of the Safety Council; Stanley "Busher" Jackson, assistant superintendent of the Motor Vehicles Branch; Chief Gregory; Traffic Inspector Richard Berry, and Mayor Stephen. The presentation was made in the mayor's office. (Times photo.)

Next Thursday will be a very special day for Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Alexander Restall, 1902 Shotbolt Road, who will be marking their golden wedding anniversary. The couple was married in Victoria on January 26, 1917, with the late Rev. E. Croucher officiating at the service. Mrs. Restall was born in Chorely, Lancashire, Eng., and came to Canada in 1906. Her husband was born in Bristol, England. He worked with the federal radio transport department for 41 years before his retirement in 1957. The couple has four children, Raymond and Lawrence of Victoria; Kenneth, Picture Butte, Alta., and Mrs. Stephen (Mary) Williams, Sidney. They also have 17 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. To celebrate the anniversary, the couple will be entertained at a reception in the Colonial Inn, beginning at 8 p.m.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Resting Won't Help Melt Away Pounds

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 and I am ready to run away from home. My problem is my mother. To begin with I am overweight, which I know I am, but my mother doesn't let me forget it for a minute. I've been on several diets but none of them has been any good for me. Well, my mother watches every bite I put into my mouth. I am not on a diet now because the doctor told my mother not to throw out any more money on pills and office calls for me because I wasn't "mature" enough to stay on a diet.

Well, when I get good and ready to go on a diet, I will, but right now I am resting, so will you please print this so my mother may see it and maybe she'll let me enjoy a meal once. Thank you.

RESTING

DEAR RESTING: All right. I printed your letter for your mother to see. Now a word to you: Don't "rest" too long because the more weight you pile on while you're "resting," the more difficult it will be to lose. Your mother is trying to spare you misery later on, so shape up.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is very generous about money matters but he thinks everything I buy for the house, large or small, should have his approval. He wants to be consulted about paint color, drapery fabric, every little inexpensive light fixture, ash tray, etc. He says he lives here, too, and should have his say about the furnishings.

He never consults me about the thousands of dollars worth of sports equipment he buys. Or his office furnishings, or even his car. He says these things concern only him. It is not a matter of taste, because he admits that mine is better. His father was a tyrant who had his mother completely cowed and took the spirit out of her. This situation is getting on my nerves. How would you handle it?

ALBERTAN

DEAR ALBERTAN: Dutifully consult your husband about each item you wish to buy for your home. Then buy what you want.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you won't think I'm some kind of a nut, but I want to share this with someone and you are elected. I work for a real estate company, and whenever business is bad, I wear an old green skirt that has been cut off at the bottom with pinking shears, and business starts to pick up immediately.

I try not to overdo it, and I never wear my "good luck" skirt unless business is really in a slump. I suppose it is only a coincidence, but that old green skirt has never failed me.

I wonder if there are other people who have a good luck charm that works for them like mine does for me?

"ODD BALL"

CONFIDENTIAL TO "ASHAMED": You have nothing to be ashamed of. In the face of real danger, the man who isn't afraid is the one who isn't normal.

Carried by Bride Patricia McAlpine

HANDKERCHIEF IS TOKEN

A dainty lace handkerchief, which has been carried by brides in her family for three generations, fulfilled the tradition of "something old" for Patricia Anne McAlpine, recently, when she became the bride of William Ian Peter Higgs.

Her gown was of exquisite white lace over satin, fashioned with a full, floor-length skirt. The fitted bodice featured sleeves ending in lily points and a square neckline outlined with pearls. Her shoulder-length veil was "something borrowed" from her sister, Mrs. T. M. Haner and it misted from a floral satin headpiece. Bronze chrysanthemums were in her bouquet.

Rev. H. Pike officiated at the service which united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David H. McAlpine of Cobble Hill and the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. B. Higgs, 3136 Quadra Street. The Church by the Lake, Elk Lake, was decorated with bronze chrysanthemums for the ceremony. Mr. McAlpine gave his daughter in marriage. Organist, H. Foster played "Believe Me" during the ceremony.

A street-length sheath gown of gold taffeta, fashioned with a full overskirt, was worn by matron of honor Mrs. Haner. The bride's cousin Miss Jo Ann Shandley was bridesmaid in a similar outfit in rose tones. Both wore matching floral headpieces and carried bronze chrysanthemums in their bouquets.

Vic Summerfeldt was best man, and brothers of the principals, Ken McAlpine and Robert Higgs, ushered the guests.

Two doves topped the three-tier wedding cake, made by the bride's aunt Mrs. Lorne Shandley, which centred the head table at the reception following in The Inn. Rev. Pike proposed the toast to the bride.

For travelling, the new Mrs. Higgs donned a two-piece suit of aqua. Accents were a pill box hat en tone, black accessories and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

Travelling from out-of-town for the wedding were Mrs. Marion Sager, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Haner of Port Mellon, B.C., and Mr. and Mrs. Eric Hall of Duncan.

Canada's Major Role Outlined by Speaker

Unique skill and "vast experience in the delicate art of peace-keeping," is the most important reason why the United Nations needs Canada, believes the national director of the UN Association in Canada.

Speaking to the Women's Canadian Club in the Empress Hotel, Tuesday afternoon, Peter Trueman spoke of Canada's particular suitability for the role of peace-keeper in his talk "What Canadians Mean to the United Nations."

He also spoke to the Men's Canadian Club luncheon Wednesday, in the hotel.

He stated that anyone doubting the necessity for an international police force of some kind to keep peace should consider the recent statement of United States Defence Secretary Robert McNamara: "In the last eight years alone there have been no less than 164 internationally significant outbreaks of violence."

The defence secretary went on to point out that outbreaks had increased over the last few years, said Mr. Trueman.

Canada's experience in the peace-keeping field is "vast", said the speaker. "We are, I believe, the only member nation which has participated in every peace-keeping operation undertaken by the United Nations." He mentioned that a Canadian, Gen. E. L. M. Burns, was the first commander of the "precedent-setting UN Emergency Force in the Gaza Strip". A total of 40,000 Canadians have served with UN peace-keeping forces in all the trouble spots in the world, he continued, "a fact which has made the Canadian fighting man one of the most enlightened, adaptable and skillful in the world."

Mr. Trueman listed other qualifications. Canadians, he said, are tolerated by everyone, and as a group have no special fears or hatreds, nor does any nation especially hate or fear us.

He added that Canada's natural wealth has not yet developed to where the nation is all-powerful. Geographical position, between the two powers, U.S. and Russia; the fact that Canadians have not participated in "the new colonialism"; and the country's official bilingualism are other major factors.

Among the most important qualifications and a "touchy" one, said Mr. Trueman, is the unification of Canadian armed forces, but "I do not want to appear to be judging the merits of the case." It has made us "uniquely qualified for a UN peace-keeping role."

"One of the objects of unification is to create a hard-hitting, fast-moving body of seasoned troops who can get anywhere first with the most." If the objective is attained, he said, Canada will be the only country in the world whose armed forces fit UN peace-keeping specifications perfectly.

"If the object of defence . . . is to prevent war through preparedness and the maintenance of some kind of deterrent, then I firmly believe that the new Canadian armed forces will be of greater service to peace that a whole flock of ICBMs with nuclear warheads." Early in his address, Mr. Trueman took a clear, national ego-crushing and frank look at what most nations actually do think of Canada.

He restored a bit of national pride when he discussed the other reasons why the UN needs Canada.

WATCHED BY OTHERS

In order for the UN to be successful, said Mr. Trueman, the western nations will have to prove to new members that they are not completely tied by "traditional western diplomacy," that they are able to introduce and implement new ideas. He referred to Canada's attempts to have Communist China, representing nearly one-third of the world's population, seated as a UN member, to keep the UN functioning as a service to all the world. He stated his belief that Canada's action on the Communist China question and other difficult issues will "make the difference between the UN's ultimate success or failure."

Canada is also unique in the move for nuclear disarmament, continued Mr. Trueman, for though we pioneered in nuclear research, we are disinterested in nuclear weapons. "We do not have the bomb." However, Mr. Trueman pointed out, to succeed in the UN, the Canadian government needs the full support of the Canadian people.

But, he warned, we have a duty to make sure "our own nest is clean" before we start on other countries. Referring to the human rights question, a vital part of the UN, he said Canada cannot criticize the apartheid system in South Africa, or the civil rights dispute in the southern U.S., for we have similar problems existing at home, with the Indians and the French-Canadians. If another's human rights are violated, "we diminish our own," he concluded.

The speaker was introduced by president Mrs. H. H. Ycuson and thanked by Mrs. Fred M. Corbett.

BOARD MEETING

VON Director Gives Report

Year-end totals of staff visits and patients admitted to the Victorian Order of Nurses services were given by district director Miss Elizabeth Riddel at the recent Victoria Branch VON board meeting.

There were 1,824 visits made last month, bringing the year's total to 24,152, she said, and 170 new patients were admitted, making 2,958 for the year.

There were 68 hospital referrals during the month and the physiotherapist, Mrs. K. Thomson had made five assessment visits. She had also conducted a class demonstrating crutch walking for the staff.

During the holiday season, the VON Auxiliary had visited shut-ins with gifts of flowers and fruit.

Car chairman J.C. Cox announced that car expenditures had increased slightly in the past month. Snow tires and sandbags, to insure better traction on icy streets, had been bought. He also discussed insurance for the coming year.

Reports were given by secretary Mrs. G. A. Jones, treasurer A. J. M. Round and nominations chairman Mrs. H. Webster.

President J. B. Barnum announced that Mrs. George R. Pearkes, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor, would be honorary president for the coming year. The board's annual meeting will be held on Thursday, February 9 at 2 p.m. in the St. John Ambulance Hall, 941 Pandora Avenue. Guest speaker will be Dr. C. Gregory.

Why Be Different From Women, Says Designer

BOMB DROPPED IN MEN'S FASHIONS

American-born Milan designer Ken Scott stunned the audience at the Florence spring-summer boutique collections this week with a bombshell collection of men's wear — apparently seeing no reason why boys should look much different from girls.

So alike were they that Scott paraded his models in pairs — a girl walking arm-in-arm with a man in identical rainbow-striped trouser suits, for instance.

A man wearing an abstract-patterned sea green and pink Indian-style tunic and tight pants strolled in with a girl in a minidress of exactly the same material.

The men wore exactly the same dazzling flower prints in nylon jersey as did the girls.

Usually shock-proof journalists and buyers gasped when one burly male walked in wearing a floor-length Arabian robe — the last word for women's evening wear — and hugging a girl in a pyjama suit.

Possibly the most sober outfit on show was a dazzling plain red suit which opened to show a red and yellow floral vest. It was worn with red and yellow floral shoes.

START TONIGHT

Is the weather getting you down? Lucky diners at the Oak Bay Marina this evening will be able to forget it for a while and go on a cruise, at least for a while. Beginning at 8 p.m., Eaton's will present a fashion showing of cruise-wear in the dining room. This will be the first of six shows to be held Thursdays at the marina.

Bike Hiker's Needs Found in This Shop

By PENNY SAVER

If everyone carried out good intentions like I do, the whole world would collapse from neglect I'm sure. One job that I've been meaning to do for ages is to put a light bulb in the garage. It is impossible to find anything in our garage, anyway, but the missing light bulb doesn't help matters. One evening, I managed some light by turning a butane lighter up to the fullest extent. However, I used up all the gas in no time flat. Another time I used one of the candles from the dining room table for my search.

By far the best substitute for a light bulb was a lamp borrowed from my neighbor's son. This small item fits onto the bracket of a bicycle, as it's actually a headlight. It comes with a metal handle so that you can take it off the bracket and use it as a lantern. This is battery operated and sells for $1.25. The metal case is made of shiny chrome. Is the young cyclist in your family having a birthday soon? Keep this lamp in mind for a gift idea.

Another type of headlight made for bikes is powered by a generator. This small "dynamo" converts your pedalling energy into electric energy, which in turn makes the light work. The light itself attaches to the handlebars. Priced at $4, a tail light comes with this set, too. Cycle safely with these lights.

Thinking of bicycle accessories, there's a unique item in this shop. It's a bottle for holding water or juice.

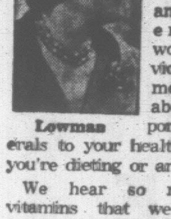
There are two types of these plastic containers. One is designed to fit onto the handle bars, and the other for placing along the bottom tube of the bike. Each bottle has two caps—one for drinking from and another for sprinkling. (The sprinkling device is for a quick "shower" to cool off the cyclist.) They attach securely to the bike by means of metal clamps. Price is $2.95.

Keep these in mind for the bike hiker in your family. Give me a call at 382-3131 if you want to know where I shopped.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

You Forget How Important Minerals Are to Your Health



Lowman

Today is the last time I'll be bringing you information on my Beauty Improvement Plan this week. After this, I'll write one day a week for the next six weeks about this program and bring you encouraging words of advice. Today, let me remind you about the importance of minerals to your health . . . when you're dieting or anytime!

We hear so much about vitamins that we sometimes forget how important minerals are to our health and good looks.

Some of these are: Iron, calcium, phosphorous, chlorine, iodine, sulphur, zinc, potassium, magnesium, copper, manganese and sodium. Many of them are needed in very small quantities but that small amount is essential.

Our blood stream is important to our health, beauty, and personality and iron in the diet is important to it. About 70 per cent of the iron in the body is in the blood. This mineral has a direct effect on the hemoglobin or red blood corpuscles in the blood.

Calcium is also an important mineral. Some experts have thought that calcium helps delay the signs of age. Milk is the richest source. Most adults will profit by drinking at least two glasses a day. Other sources are: Eggs, navy beans, cheese, buttermilk. Fruits and vegetables have some especially the leafy green vegetables, such as spinach.

Phosphorous gives our pep a boost. Along with calcium and vitamin D, it helps to keep our bones, teeth, and general health at a high level. Phosphorous sources are: Milk, cheese, oysters, meat, shell fish, whole wheat, oatmeal, eggs and nuts. Small amounts are found in fruits and vegetables.

This mineral is so widely distributed that if you eat a varied diet, you will not be deficient.

We require only a very small amount of iodine, but if we do not get this, goiter may develop. Vegetables and fruits grown near the sea: Sea salt, watercress and cranberries are sources of iodine. There are inland territories called goiter belts because of the prevalence of goiter. In these areas iodized salt is used, since the fruits and vegetables are not grown near the sea.

The other minerals are widely distributed and a well-balanced diet will solve any mineral problems so far as they are concerned.

You may want my Eight Week Beauty Improvement Plan Kit which gives full directions, a calorie chart, a height and weight chart, reducing menus for 15 days, figure molding exercises, and a unique weight chart on which you can watch your beauty line rise as your weight line drops. If so send 25 cents plus 15 cents for postage and handling, and your printed name and address. Address to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Tea Marks National Jaycee Week

CIVIC LEADERS HONORED

As part of the activities marking National Jaycee Week, the Victoria Jaycee-Ettes (wives of local Jaycee members) held a tea in the Olde England Inn, Wednesday afternoon. Their guests were Oak Bay and Saanich councillors, Mrs. Daryl Elford and Mrs. A. H. Gunning, and wives of civic leaders.

Outside the weather was wet and stormy, but inside the inn all was warmth and color as women ignored the weatherman and wore their most attractive outfits to honor the occasion.

Presiding at the head table were Mrs. Percy B. Scurrah, wife of the former mayor and an honorary Jaycee-Ette; Mrs. A. Wilson, life member; Mrs. R. Owens, past president, and Mrs. Grant Johnstone, wife of the Jaycee president and national liason officer for Jaycee-Ettes.

Focal point of the head table was an arrangement of flowers in an engraved silver rose bowl. This bowl had been presented to the local Jaycee-Ettes at six national conventions. Up for competition for the past nine years, it is awarded for distinction to "the most outstanding Jaycee-Ette unit in Canada."

Adding to the friendliness of the occasion, the guests were also able to view well-kept albums of the group in which the many projects undertaken by members have been recorded.

Cancer Program Needs More Time

EDMONTON (CP) — Five more years are needed before results of the "pap" test for cervical cancer in women can be accurately gauged, a Vancouver woman doctor said recently.

Addressing an education meeting of the Alberta division of the Canadian Cancer Society's annual convention. Dr. Ann Worth of the B.C. Cancer Institute said the program established in her province 11 years ago still "is too young to show any definite decline in cancer of the cervix."

She said 65 per cent of B.C. women have been tested but "the big question is why haven't the remaining 35 per cent come forward?"

A survey of 1,500 untested women showed lack of information was at the root of the problem, she said. Especially ignorant of the test were young women and women in the low-income bracket and urban areas.

She said no danger is involved in taking a smear test during pregnancy and strongly urged such procedure.

Dr. Olin G. Thurston, assistant professor of surgery at the University of Alberta, told the group that until 15 years ago when surgeons learned they could spread cancer cells during surgery, the recurrence rate of rectal cancer was 25 per cent. But because of the finding, the rate now had been reduced to 2 per cent.

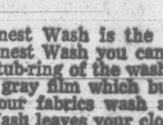
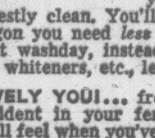
MONTREAL, January 19th — Perhaps you're in favour of spending and enjoying your money now. Then this isn't for you. But if you'd like to look into the future a little, here's how THE BANK OF NOVA SCOTIA can help broaden your horizon: — Scotiabank Six-Year Savings Certificates can make it possible for you to buy a new home or take a long cruise when, in the future, you'll feel most like it. Every year for six years, your Scotiabank Savings Certificates increase in value until they're worth a full third more than you paid for them! Call it 'Horizon Money' and look ahead as far as you like!

ONE THING YOU CAN REALLY COUNT ON—a special laxative, CORRECTOL®, specially developed by Pharmaco (Canada) Ltd. for women who want a mild, yet effective, laxative. Correctol combines a gentle softening agent with just enough of a mild stimulating effect to relieve irregularity... its dependable action is both prompt and unhurried. So, if you're feeling dull and listless, just not 'up to par' due to irregularity, I suggest that you try Correctol and see what a difference it can make, see how Correctol can help you to maintain regularity. It's available at your favourite drug store.



ANY WAY YOU LOOK AT IT, an Honest Wash is the best policy! With the Honest Wash you can rid your clothes of bathtub-ring of the washing-machine, that dirty gray film which builds up and clings to your fabrics wash after wash. The Honest Wash leaves your clothes white, fresh smelling, naturally soft and honestly clean. Just add CALGON® water conditioner along with your detergent to your next wash and see your clothes come honestly clean. You'll find, as I have, that whenever you use Calgon you need less detergent—¼ to ½ your usual amount. Next washday, instead of disguising the problem with bleach and whiteners, etc., let Calgon get rid of it... honestly.



LOVELY YOU!... fresh, appealing, poised and so completely confident in your femininity. That's how you'll feel when you've discovered the beauty secret of DEMURE, a mint-fresh, gently medicated feminine douche to relieve irritation and help destroy odour-causing bacteria. With Demure you can be sure of personal cleanliness. After internal bathing with Demure, you'll feel fresh, beautifully poised. Combine Demure with SHY, the hoseless feminine syringe that's so easy to use. It comes in a lovely case—a simply beautiful 'disguise'!

FOR A MORE MEMORABLE AND CAREFREE TRIP ABROAD, let your BOAC travel agent make all the arrangements... he'll reserve hotels within your budget, make all your bookings—even help with passport formalities. What's more, he will be glad to tell you about the fascinating local customs and the many special things to see and do. He's probably one of the most widely travelled people you've ever met, so he's well qualified to help and advise you. I know that when you see your BOAC travel agent first, he'll make you feel at home wherever you go... and all these "extras" won't cost you a penny; it's all part of the service!

NEW ORGANIZATION TO PUSH ADVANCEMENT IN HEALTH SCIENCES

Money, Not Sympathy, Needed to Encourage, Boost Medical Research

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—A new organization came into being today dedicated to ensuring a bigger transfusion of federal funds into medical research.

Supported by virtually every Canadian scientific body in the health field, the Canadian Association for the Advancement of Health Sciences held its founding meeting with participation by doctors attending the annual meetings of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons and the Canadian Association for Clinical Investigation.

Dr. Jacques R. Ducharme, Montreal, president of the CSCI which played a major part in formation of the new body, told a press conference Wednesday that the federal government must provide more than sympathy to their aim of boosting the money available for medical research.

The federal government had stepped up grants this year after the medical profession warned of the need but the amount remained at less than half what was actually required from governments.

Finance Minister Sharp and Industry Minister Drury had expressed sympathy for the aim of annual 50-per-cent increases in funds but gave no sign yet of concrete action.

"We don't want only sympathy but a firm expression of policy," said Dr. Ducharme. "I think it is very important that the government state its intentions and that this money be made available; there's no indication that this will be done."

Unless there was a guarantee of substantial annual increases Canada faced the danger of being unable to produce enough new doctors yearly to keep the doctor - patient ratio at the present level of one to 870.

Scientist - teachers would neither remain in Canada after graduation nor be attracted to staff the new and expanding medical schools.

And migration to Canada of doctors, especially from Europe, was threatening to stop. This had until now provided one-third of the new doctors each year for some years. If the flow dried up, a further burden would be thrown on Canadian medical schools.

Dr. J. B. Armstrong, executive director of the Canadian Heart Foundation and secretary of the new association, said Mr. Sharp had referred delegations to Mr. Drury as the man responsible for drawing up research financing programs.

However, the industry minister was "a very difficult person to get close to" and had not seemed fully convinced of the requirement figures placed before him.

The government's planned 30-per-cent increase in funds to be distributed by the Medical Research Council was being maintained. But the deans of the universities had told Prime Minister Pearson last summer that it was essential the increase be 50 per cent or greater.

Opening lead—♣10

Murray and Kehela were members of the 1966 team and Roth and Kay have also represented America in previous years.

This team was selected after 10 days of trials which constituted the toughest test of bridge ever. The American Contract Bridge League has prepared a book showing the final hands of the trials and it is well worth reading by anyone who is interested in seeing how 10 top pairs struggled against one another.

Hand one of the first match started everyone in the same direction. With East and West passing throughout, each South player got to four hearts against a ten of clubs opening.

At trick two each South led a low diamond from dummy and East rose with his king. At two tables East proceeded to lead the king of spades. After this play the best declarer could do was to make his contract.

At two of the five tables East shifted to a trump. South rose with his ace, ruffed a club in dummy, returned to his hand with a low diamond to the queen, led out his king and queen of trumps, entered dummy with the ace of spades and discarded his queen of spades and low spade on dummy's diamonds. The second diamond was ruffed but South did make an overtrick which in each case was worth one IMP to him.

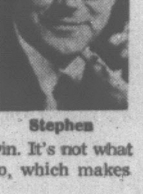
Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Ah, Mrs. Peel and Mr. Steed have got together again to fight the forces of evil much to the satisfaction of the growing legion of "Avengers" fans.

The popular ritish-made satire on the spy business made its return to CTV and will fill the 10 p.m. Friday slot on ABC-TV effective this week.



Stephen

The hour-long show had added one dimension to make it even more enjoyable, color. And in color, Diana Rigg (Mrs. Emma Peel) looks even yummier.

The show has always been treated as a filler by the American network but it's good enough to achieve and retain the star status it deserves.

The pair battle a nut turned loose with a laser gun in the initial outing this second season. Again, they win. It's not what they do that counts it's the way they do, which makes the Avengers so much fun.

This story deals with an enterprising second-year medical student at Texas Southwestern Medical school in Dallas who deserves an accolade in his battle against the network giants who black out football games so as to build up a better stadium gate.

John McNeff advises sports buffs on how to draw in the big games on their home sets even though it is not broadcast locally.

Just send $2 to him and he will send you a diagram on how to rig up coat hangers to a broomstick, even if you are within a 100-mile blackout area.

McNeff advertised in the Los Angeles Times last week. The ad said: "See the Super Bowl on TV. Build your own antenna from broomstick and coat hanger. Money refunded if it does not work."

He got quite a few responses—several hundred.

He said he got his ideas out of an old antenna handbook.

Three huzzahs and a tiger for McNeff.

AN OLD FAMILY HOME, ON approximately ONE and ONE HALF ACRES . . . out Royal Oak Way. It's pretty hard to find an interesting old place such as this. Nice high location with lots of trees and seclusion. The home is solid and quite spacious with THREE bedrooms. Mind you, the plan is rather horrible, but I'm sure that anyone with imagination could quite easily make it quite attractive inside. Price is $12,000 and it's a bargain. Teachers Threaten 'Work to Rule'

ABBOTSFORD (CP) — Teachers in the Abbotsford School District threatened Wednesday to stage a work-to-rule protest because of the school board's "lack of concern" about conditions.

A spokesman for the 230 teachers at 36 schools said that beginning Feb. 1 the teachers will work only in accord with the terms of the provincial Public Schools Act.

He said they will arrive at school only 15 minutes before classes begin and leave 15 minutes after they are over.

They will refuse to supervise extra-curricular activities and will not be at school during the noon hour.

The teachers say they are protesting general working conditions, and excessive amount of time spent on bus supervision, and the manner in which contract negotiations have been carried out.

About 6,000 students attend the 36 district schools.

Mother Repeats Killings

SKOWHEGAN, Maine (UPI)—Twice in 12 years the tormented mind of a mother drove her to drown her three children, thinking she was sending them to heaven and away from worldy evil.

The broken-hearted father had the six children buried near each other and vowed to stand by his wife.

A Superior Court jury of nine men and three women Wednesday found Mrs. Constance Fisher, 38, innocent of murder by reason of insanity in the drowning deaths of her children, Kathleen, 6, Michael, 4, and Natalie, 9 months, last June 30.

On March 9, 1954, the first three children of Carl and Constance Fisher also were drowned by their mother. They were Richard, 6, Daniel, 5, and Deborah, 11 months.

Later Mrs. Fisher was adjudged incompetent to stand trial and was commited to a mental hospital. She was released five years later when doctors pronounced her recovered. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher then had Kathleen, Michael and Natalie.

Mrs. Fisher Wednesday was returned to Augusta State Hospital with no time limit set by the court, which technically makes her a ward of the state. A hospital spokesman said she would probably remain there "for the foreseeable future," although she could be sent elsewhere for treatment.

Police Payoffs Found

SEATTLE (AP)—The Seattle Times says a five-month investigation by two reporters has confirmed that a police-payoff system exists here. At the same time, Police Chief Frank C. Ramon announced he had made a "wholesale shuffle" in assignments to downtown beats to curb any temptations by officers to accept payoffs.

TEXAS ACROSS THE RIVER
Western Spoof
Odeon Theatre

All things most sacred to the frontier of yesteryear — the cowboys, the Indians, the U.S. cavalry and the Texan cliche — are spoofed in this fast-moving Western comedy.

The cowboys are tall in the saddle and low in the brow and seem to pronounce the word "cow" in three syllables. The women are fiery, high-minded and virtuous. The Indians are ferocious but handle their fire arrows so clumsily that their own chief goes up in flames.

And their English is so grotesquely broken that subtitles have to be flashed across the screen.

The nonsense begins with Rosemary Forsyth, a southern belle, about to be married to Spanish nobleman Alain Delon. The proceedings are interrupted by three hard-riding cavalry officers (Stuart Anderson, Peter Grave and Andrew Paine).

They assert that Anderson has a prior claim on the southern belle. There is a hassle in which Anderson gets killed and the southern belle urges her Spanish hero to flee to Texas, where the cavalry as yet has no jurisdiction.

En route south, the Spaniard becomes involved with Texas gunman Dean Martin; a beautiful Indian girl (Tina Marquand) who sucks poison from his leg after he has been bitten by a snake; and all kinds of Western prototypes, riotously caricatured.

THE PROFESSIONALS
Royal Theatre

Here is another Western, cast in a somewhat sterner mould.

Wealthy American Ralph Bellamy hires four professionals — Burt Lancaster, Lee Marvin, Robert Ryan and Woody Strode — to ride into Mexico to recover his young wife (Claudia Cardinale) who has been kidnapped by bandit Jack Palance.

They reach his camp, deep in the mountains, after liquidating some of Palance's men, and use both dynamite and surprise tactics to get their hands on the lovely Claudia.

Then they learn that she wasn't kidnapped at all. She simply ran away from Bellamy to be with her childhood sweetheart (Jack Palance), who is plotting a revolution a la mode.

For the sake of the reward, they take her back, hotly pursued by Palance and his gunmen. The whole thing builds up into a hectic whoop-de-do, with ambushes, train hold-ups, and red-hot gun battles.

Director Richard Brooks, who also wrote the script, keeps the action in high gear, and the photography is spectacular.

BOYKO

Audience Left Reeling

By GERARD McNEIL

OTTAWA (CP) — Eugene (Jeep) Boyko spent 540 hours in the air, nearly lost an eye, had his fingers frozen and was scared out of his wits several times.

But the results appeared worth it as Helicopter Canada, a 50-minute, wide-screen color film, was shown here in the French and English versions Wednesday night.

At least two first nighters retired midway through the film with what appeared to ushers to be bad cases of seasickness.

Boyko, now doing a portrait on poverty in the country, spent 18 months on the $300,000 centennial production.

RISK CRASH

The chopper nearly crashed twice in downdrafts, once when Boyko and the French pilot forgot themselves chasing a deer up an Alberta mountain, another time off Quebec City's Cape Diamond.

In the process, however, a unique picture of Canada in its 100th year of Confederation was developed.

The film was made for the National Film Board and the federal centennial commission and will be marketed internationally as well as in Canada.

Slides Feature Rugged Coast

Lovers of the outdoors will have an opportunity Friday of seeing color slides of the beautiful and rugged coast between Bamfield and Cape Beale on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

Bruce Scott, 1173 Hewlett, an ardent campaigner for a hiker's trail between Bamfield and Port Renfrew, will show his slides at the Servetus Hall, 106 Superior St. starting at 8:30 p.m.

The area where the pictures were taken has been set aside as a provincial park.

BEVERLIE AND CHARLES ROBERTSON

FOLK-BLUES CONCERT

In-Time With Far-Outers

An in-group of singers with far-out names will stage a concert of folk and blues music Friday night on the old Lansdowne campus of the University of Victoria.

The show will feature such groups as My People, the Double Breasted Galvanized Jazz Whistle and the Broom Town Band.

Other performers will include such well-known singers as Valdy, John Martyn Booker, and Beverlie and Charles Robertson.

Valdy, now appearing at the A-Go-Go in the city, is one of the best-known names on the West Coast folk circuit. John Martyn Booker is an English folk singer who has just finished a run at the Bunkhouse in Vancouver.

The Robertsons (he's from Montreal and she is from Honduras) have appeared in coffee houses across Canada and in the United States.

They are tentatively booked to appear later this year at Expo. Beverlie Robertson toured Europe with the Chanteclairs and has performed at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto.

My People, a group of young Victoria musicians aged between 17 and 21, was formed by Helga Bo, a 19-year-old art student and musician. They are an unusual combination of clarinet, cello, electric guitar, drums, piano and vocalist. Since starting a few months ago they have given concerts at the University of Victoria, Jon York's Music Hall, and at a new coffee house opened in Port Alberni. Their music is best described at "neo-classical folk and blues."

The Galvanized Jazz Whistle is a jug band — it is described by one member as "a crazy combination of instruments."

The Broom Town Band is a Sidney combination that plays both the standard musical repertoire and modern folk-rock music.

Tickets for the concert, priced at $1, may be obtained either at the door of the auditorium in the Young Building on campus or at Eaton's box office.

All proceeds from the concert will be donated to the Retarded Children's and Adult's Association. Performers are giving their services free of charge to help the association.

BARKERVILLE SELLING FAST

The Best of Barkerville revue, to be produced at the McPherson Playhouse Feb. 1 and 2, is already two-thirds sold out.

On Wednesday a long queue stretched back from the Playhouse box office and the phone was busy all day.

Engraved Cards Go To Pioneers

Greater Victoria centennial pioneers will be honored in a special gesture of the B.C. Historical Society this year.

The 1,300 pioneers, all born in Canada or residents since Jan. 1, 1892, or before, will receive engraved cards of congratulations from the Society.

The cards, printed in black and gold will feature pictures of Sir John A. Macdonald and Frederick Seymour, governor of B.C. in 1867, and the centennial symbol.

The cards will be to honor the pioneer and will be "souvenirs to hand down to their families", the Historical Association announced.

The 1,300 cards will cost the association about $175.

The pioneers will also receive centennial medals later this year.

CHILDREN'S MOVIE GUIDE

This table of classifications is prepared by the Victoria and District Parent-Teacher Council and is based chiefly upon reviews in Parents' Magazine and the monthly bulletin of the British Film Institute. With the co-operation of Victoria theater managers, it covers current films.

TOMORROW!
"Astonishingly frank! Unabashed look at real-life sex. Remarkably uninhibited and specific in its recording of the way lovers talk and think!"
—Richard Schickel, Life Magazine
"A tender and lusty study of love. 'DEAR JOHN' is a tour de force of realism."
—Time Magazine
"A frank and uninhibited exposition of the onrush of physical desire. One after another scene expands upon the brash techniques of courtship. Lindgren has fashioned and illuminated it so that it captures a whole range of feelings and moods complicated by sex. And Jarl Kulle and Christina Schollin played the principal roles with an intensity and sensitivity that speak much more than lustful appetite. The progress of their attachment from flirtation and coquetery to a passionate, nerve-shaking devotion is absorbingly described."
—Bosley Crowther, N. Y. Times

ISLAND DIGEST

Teen Hall Eyed For Centenary

NORTH COWICHAN—The municipality may split its Centennial grant between two projects.

The $28,000 was originally allocated to development of Fullers Lake Park, near Chemainus.

But Reeve Donald Morton said Wednesday he sees merit in the suggestion a Teen Town recreation hall adjoining the Cowichan Exhibition site could be a joint district Centennial project.

He said financing of the recreatin hall could be a joint project involving the city of Duncan, a service club and the municipality.

Estimated total cost of the proposed hall is $26,000.

Reeve Morton said: "There is certainly no question of the municipality closing the door on the Teen Town hall idea."

Coun. Margaret Robertson said: "It's an admirable idea as a number of organizations would be involved."

The city of Duncan was planning a field house in Wharncliffe Park as its centennial project but this has been shelved becase of the inflated cost.

Coun. Dennis Hogan informed mnicipal council the recreation commission has authorized Willis & Cunliffefe, engineers, to draw up contour and development plans for Fullers Lake Park at a cost of $2,500.

He reorted his re-election as chairman of the commission.

R. A. (Al) Dines is new vice-chairman and Mrs. Tom Hamilton secretary.

GAS COVERS ROAD AFTER CRASH

DUNCAN—South End fire department turned out Wednesday evening to flush leaking gasoline off Cowichan Lake Road following a two-car accident.

Barbara Graham was slowing down to turn into her driveway when her car was in collision with another westbound car being driven by Gary Lamontagne, also of Cowichan Lake Road.

Neither driver was injured but damage was estimated at $700.

SEWERS BEYOND PRICE

NORTH COWICHAN—A sewer bylaw for the Sherman-Gibbins Road area of the municipality will likely be put to a vote again in mid-April.

Reeve Donald Morton gave this assurance Wendesday after council listened to a resident's petition.

He explained this is the earliest possible date as there has to be a six-month waiting period from the time the bylaw was defeated in October.

SUFFERING

In asking for the $455,000 bylaw to be put again, Mrs. Gordon Posey wrote: "Human suffering cannot be measured in dollars."

Mrs. Posey was referring to what she labelled an "epidemic" of infectious hepatitis in the area.

Crofton Ratepayers' Association also wrote to council expressing "grest concern". Association president Ed Alexander alleged some Crofton homes are not connected to the municipal sewer and he suggested connection be made mandatory.

He also suggested close scrutiny of Crofton watershed and chlorinating equimpment to prevent a further hepatitis outbreak.

Mr. Alexander said: "Existing sanitary bylaws should be enforced regarding septic tanks, water supply and living conditions.

ZONE BYLAWS

"There are cases in the Crofton area of horses and cows being kept on what must be considered city lots and this is in direct disregard of zoning bylaws."

Reeve Morton said council has no knowledge of homes not connected to the Crofton sewer. Quick action would be taken if any such eases were brought to council's attention.

Regarding zoning, he said it is difficult to make regulations retroactive.

CAMPBELL RIVER — A charge of non-capital murder was reduced to manslaughter Wednesday at the preliminary hearing of Arthur William Bromfield.

The 44-year-old Campbell River truck driver was remanded to the next Nanaimo Assizes. Bail was set at $7,500.

At Wednesday hearing, Magistrate Eric Winch agreed to reduce the charge to manslaughter.

Bromfield was still being held in jail today pending posting of the bail money.

NORTH COWICHAN — In lotting the route of their power line from the mainland to the new converter station at Somenos, B.C. Hydro continues to run into complaints.

John Hoffman, of Rice Road, is the latest resident to enlist municipal council support to try to have the route altered.

He said Wednesday present plans would bring the power lines across his seven-and-a-half acre property destroying the value of his orchard and the usefulness of shelter trees around his recently built home.

He said: "My house will be wedged between the existing line and the new line."

Reeve Donald Morton said B.C. Hydro has stated the route is not finalized. Council will be consulted before a final decision is made.

Subsidy To Stay

An $1,800 monthly subsidy will be continued throughout 1967 by the highways department to keep the privately-owned Alberni Marine Transportation Co. ferry operating, the provincial cabinet decided.

The company provides a five-trip-per-week service to isolated communities in the Barkley Sound area.

ALL ROADS lead to the railway station in Nanaimo because the Centennial Train's in town. Here buses disgorge load after load of schoolchildren who happily wait up to two hours for a chance to tour the Centennial special. Last chance to see the train on Vancouver Island will be until 11 p.m. tonight, after which it leaves for Vancouver, where it opens Saturday for a 12-day stand.

BYPASSED BY TRAIN

Well, Anyway, Duncan Gets Caravan Stop

Vancouver Islanders unable to track down the Centennial Train should have no troubles with the Confederation Caravan.

Schedules announced today show that the caravan—a road version of the train—will be on the Island for a full month.

Unlike the train, which visits only major cities, the caravan will concentrate on smaller communities, including Duncan, which organized an unsuccessful protest in a bid to have the train stop there.

Arriving on May 20, it will begin with a three-day stop at Sidney.

Saltspring Island, 24; Sooke, 25; Colwood, 26 and 27; Shawnigan Lake, 28; Duncan, 30 and 31; Lake Cowichan, June 1; Chemainus, 2 and 3; Ladysmith, 4; Parksville, 6; Qualicum, 7; Albernis, 8 to 11; Campbell River, 13 and 14; Courtenay, 15 to 17.

During its tour of British Columbia the caravan will travel a total of 5,169 miles.

9-Month Term For Burglary At Music Store

LADYSMITH — Lawrence White of Ladysmith was sentenced to nine months' definte and nine months' indeterminate this week after pleading guilty to breaking, entering and theft.

The charge arose from one of two robberies at Ferguson's Music Store on First Avenue. A total of $600 worth of electronic equipment was stolen.

Most of the equipment has been recovered, court was told.

Two men arrested Saturday in connection with a second robbery at Ferguson's were to appear in court today.

TWO FALL OUT DOOR AS BUS ROUNDS BEND

COURTENAY — Police here are still investigating circumstances leading up to two children being thrown out of a moving school bus late Tuesday.

One of the children, six-year-old Rodney Sandulak, landed on his head and was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital, Comox, with serious injuries. He was improving today.

The two were apparently sitting on a seat together when the emergency door was flung open.

Police are not sure if the children had been tampering with the door or if it was defective.

Luckily the two boys landed on the curbside clear of the rear wheels.

MODERN two-lane concrete structure will shortly replace old wooden bridge over Sooke River. Substructure of the new bridge is almost complete and tenders for steelwork and superstructure will be called shortly. Old bridge (in background) allowed only single lane traffic and even then could be heard creaking when large logging trucks crossed.

B.C. RED TAPE

Urban Renewal Plan Snarled

DUNCAN—City council is running into government red tape in trying to get action on its urban renewal plan.

Gordon Berry, city clerk, reported to a closed meeting of council that the B.C. Housing Commission has not yet acted on the urban renewal application made by the city last June.

In the meantime government regulations regarding urban renewal have changed.

NEW ATTEMPT

Now city council has to submit its proposals all over again.

The city proposal was revamped Monday after council consulted with town planners Mary Rawson and Franklin Wyles of Vancouver.

Mr. Berry said: "The new over-all plan covers the whole of the downtown area plus a number of spot zones.

"Urban renewal can take place anywhere within that area but we will not spend a large sum of money or decide where to start until we make sure the government is with us.

Urban renewal is financed on the basis of a 50 per cent contribution from the federal government and 25 per cent each from the provincial government and the city.

Dinosaurs May Soon Roam Earth Again, Professor

VANCOUVER (UPI) — Dinosaurs may soon return to roam the earth, a professor of zoology at the University of British Columbia said today.

Dr. Ian McTaggart-Cowan said chromosomes of extinct animals have survived freezing in Arctic ice, and scientists may be able to reproduce them.

"There is a suggestion that DNA, or deoxyribosenucleic acid, is the essential element of chromosomes," he said.

"If frozen meat remains good with refrigeration, as the animals frozen in glaciers, then maybe the DNA of the chromosomes has remained good." Extinct animals such as mammoths have been found perfectly preserved in the permafrost of Arctic areas.

In Switzerland they have recreated the Aurochs, a wild ox that once inhabited most of Europe, Dr. McTaggart-Cowan said.

"The Aurochs is the ancestor of the modern cow. Until recently it was extinct, but scientists recreated it by inter-breeding all varieties of the domestic cow." The primitive wild horse has been recreated in the same manner.

"It is quite possible now to build an animal to order," he said.

IN VILLAGE

Main Therapy Is Love

BRAMPTON, Ont. CP)—A village near here has a population of only 29, half of them children under 16, yet prides itself on overcoming handicaps and hopes to become self-sufficient.

Impossible? Not to Elizabeth Bigelow, who founded the village in 1961 after giving up a budding career as a pianist.

The 15 children cared for in a 110-year-old former Presbyterian manse that serves as headquarters for the village have a wide range of disabilities. Some suffer severe brain damage, emotional disturbance or retardation; others are cruppled, deaf or blind.

The main therapy applied is love and the feeling of belonging. Surroundings are homelike

TOO KSPECIAL COURSES

Mrs. Bigelow, a matronly woman in her mid-40s, abandoned musical plans at Toronto's Royal Conservatory in 1959 and flew to Scotland where she took special courses on curative education. She returned to Toronto and opened a school for the handicapped, moving in 1961 to the five-acre site that now houses the village.

Run by a board of directors which includes a psychiatrist, doctors, lawyers and teachers, the village now has a full-time staff of 144 operating on shifts. In 1963, it was granted a government charter as a non-profit corporation.

Funds come from fees paid by parents or agencies such as the Metropolitan Toronto Children's Aid Society, which alone has a waiting list of 140 for the village. Money also is raised through donations and sale of goods made by the children.

Two Impaired Drivers Fined

Benjamin Johnson, 3263 Alder, was fined $350 Wednesday in central court when he pleaded guilty to driving while impaired Tuesday.

Court was told he was charged following an accident at Douglas and Burnside at about 5 p.m.

His licence was also suspended.

Fined the same amount in traffic court for the same charge was Andrew Tofin, 1313 Johnson.

His licence was suspended for four months.

'This Is a Stickup' . . . Then 'Fun' Began

CALGARY (CP) — Richard Irving Clark went to the bank to withdraw $10 Wednesday, but made a poor choice of withdrawal slips.

Mr. Clark, 48, owner of an auto body shop, filled out the slip and took it to a teller in the bank where he has dealt for several years. But on the back of the slip the teller found a note:

"This is a stickup. Empty the till."

She went to another employee, who pressed the button summoning police.

Meanwhile, Mr. Clark took the slip to another teller, who didn't see the note on the back. He got his $10 and left, but was followed and picked up by police.

After three hours of questioning, and appearing in a lineup, he was released.

Mr. Clark thinks the note's author "must have been some practical joker."

A police spokesman said Mr. Clark was "a victim of circumstance."

"Some clown must have written the note."

A postscript. After being released, Mr. Clark found his car had been towed away for overparking. But when he explained what had happened, he didn't have to pay for its recovery.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Jenzy Leavitt, age 9, of Cape Elizabeth, Maine, for her question:

What happens when a meteor hits the earth?

Last November, there was a bright shower of falling meteors. Many people stayed up very late or got up very early to see the show. Thousands of starry sparks arched down from one part of the sky. And, naturally, we all wondered what would happen if all those blazing meteors hit the ground.

Most falling meteors flash on and off in a moment. They swoop down and seem to disappear high in the sky. But the fiery sparks really do not disappear altogether. As each little blaze burns out, it leaves a tiny pinch of ashes. And the powdery ashes drift down, slowly down to the ground. We see only a few of these flashy little meteors. But the experts say that about a million of them fall down from the sky every hour, day and night. Each tiny meteor is about as big as a pinhead ~~and it~~ takes 10,000 of them to weigh one ounce. But the ashes from billions of them add tons of weight to the old earth.

Some meteors are bigger — gravel sized, pebble-sized and even big boulder-sized. But only a few of these space travelers fall down from the sky. Some of them are too big to burn away to ashes in the air and they come tumbling down like falling stones. They are scorching hot when they strike the ground and remain warm for some while after they land.

Once in hundreds of years, a big boulder-sized meteor hits the earth. It comes hurtling down with a rushing roar. Its flaming blaze lights up the sky. Maybe pieces break off when it is still high above the ground and flaming balls of fire shoot off in all directions. The giant meteor hits with a mighty bang that can be heard for miles and it smashes a huge hole in the ground. Ages ago, a giant meteor fell in Arizona and made a hole more than a mile wide. The hole is called a meteor crater.

Meteor Burns to Ashes

Meteors are space travelers from afar. Billions and billions of them are traveling in the wide spaces between the planets. As the earth rolls on its way around the sun, it collides with millions of these meteors. Most of them burn to ashes high in the air. A few of the bigger ones land on the ground or plop into the sea. Their space traveling days are done forever. When a solid meteor hits the ground it belongs to the earth and we give it a new name. We call it a "meteorite," a name that means meteor stone.

Meteors are members of the Solar System. Experts think that they are scraps of material that were left over when the planets were created. For ages they are cold, dark space-travelers wandering among the planets. When one of them collides with our bulky planet, it is pulled down by the force of gravity. The dashing smash through the air makes it heat up and blaze. A tiny meteor burns to ashes 40 miles above the ground. A bigger meteor burns only its crust on the way down. It lands on the earth and becomes a meteorite.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Roger Mortensen, age 10, of Eugene, Oregon, for his question:

Where is the world's longest canal?

Canals are man-made waterways and man has been making them for thousands of years. If the canals in all countries could be stretched end to end, we would have a man-made waterway 26,000 miles long — long enough to reach around the equator plus 1,000 miles more. We think of the famous canals as the Panama of Central America and the Suez of Egypt. These glamorous waterways are long, but they are not the longest in the world. The Panama is 50.7 miles long, and Suez is 101 miles long. Russia has a man-made waterway 224 miles long and the Gota Canal of Sweden measures 350 miles.

But there is a canal waterway that is longer than any of these. It is the old Erie Canal, now known as the New York State Barge Canal. Its total length measures 800 miles and on the way it makes use of several natural lakes. The man-made canal sections are 524 miles long — which makes it the world's champion in length. The old Erie Canal was completed in 1825 and the extended Barge Canal now reaches from the Hudson River to Lake Ontario.

U.K. Press Warned

LONDON (Reuters) — The British press published in massive detail Wednesday an outside body's blunt criticism of the newspaper industry which warned that by 1970 at least four national papers may have ceased publishing.

Mao Recruiting Older Chinese

Youthful Red Guards Unable To Turn Tide Against Foes

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP)—Mao Tse-tung no longer is climbing back toward power solely on the shoulders of China's kids. Older and huskier men have linked arms with the young Red Guards.

They are loyal officers and fighters of the People's Liberation Army and the leftists in China's labor force.

Their emergence in the first three weeks of 1967 is one of the most important developments of the nationwide purge Mao has unloosed against his enemies. It marks a critical corner turned in the 73-year-old Communist chairman's struggle to unseat President Liu Shao-chi.

Until three weeks ago, the Red Guards were almost the only mass allies Mao had at his disposal in his bold fight to regain pre-eminence he lost to Liu in 1958.

The guards came into existence as an organized force last August. Mao saw them as a pure, untouched force which would take up his ideas with fiery idealism.

LOOSENED GRIP

Mao threw them at Liu's flanks, hoping perhaps they would make the 68-year-old president lose his firm grip on the state's political infrastructure: The All-China Federation of Trade Unions, local party committees and bureaus, the military districts, the youth league, the minor parties and the nation's cultural organizations.

Five months later, the Red Guards still clung to Liu's side. They had irritated and annoyed but not destroyed. Liu's hold on the key groups seemed as tight as ever.

Finally, aware that he could not overthrow Liu with the Red Guards alone, Mao made the long-delayed plunge in late December, and ordered an attack on Liu's forces in the nation's factories and mines.

The battle, joined first in Shanghai and Nanking, soon spread to most of the other big urban centres. Once it had begun, the country's laborers had to make a choice. Mao claims that most of them pledged their loyalty to him. But the pitched battles continue. Having tried mass walkouts and sabotage, Liu's men now have resorted to "economism"—an old Marxist term which means shooting down workers with the sugar-coated bullets of higher wages and promotions.

SWALLOWED BAIT

Many workers swallowed the golden bait. Others—Mao's organs say—turned away indignantly.

The tug of war on the labor front appears to have set up seismic shocks in the army. No one yet knows for sure, but it seems probable that such men as Vice-Premier Tao Chu, Inner Mongolian leader Unfu, ex-politburo member Li Ching-chuan, Liu Chien-hsun and Liu Lan-tao objected. Wearers of several hats—some military, some big city—they may have opposed stirring up the proletariat of their areas.

This explanation would account for Tao's sudden and unexpected desertion from Mao's ranks late in December. It would explain the violence, sabotage and strikes which broke out in the cities these men controlled early in January.

Fearing perhaps that if he continued to keep the army isolated from the purge movement the cracks would widen, Mao shook up its purge committee, gave his wife, Chiang Ching, greater control as its adviser. He ordered his other revolutionary followers to fall in line.

Ranged against the divided army was a new imponderable: Liu's own "army of defenders of Red state power."

None of this means that the Red Guards are through. Mao will continue to use them as gadflies; they will be the mosquitoes whose buzzing keeps the enemy tossing and turning at night.

But their importance almost certainly has dwindled. They have partially served their purpose. Now Mao has tougher jobs to hand out which require older Chinese with broader shoulders armed, perhaps not only with enthusiasm, but guns.

LBJ Draws Sharp Blast From Vatican

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The Vatican's weekly magazine has stoutly criticized President Lyndon Johnson for advocating birth control as an answer to the problem of world hunger.

The magazine Osservatore della Domenica (Sunday Observer) virtually accused Johnson of using one set of morals for conducting the war in Vietnam while seeing no moral problem in family planning.

Observers interpreted the article as further indication that Pope Pal VI intends to make little or no change in the church's traditional ban against artificial contraception.

The magazine called the growing public support for birth control "one of the saddest signs of the times." It urged the world to divert money and knowhow from armaments and the space race to the development of food resources rather than try to limit births.

MORE SECRET PAPERS FOUND PARTLY BURNED

LONDON (AFP) — Secret British documents were found partly burned today in a public park in Chislehurst, Kent. Similar documents, also charred by fire, were found near the park Wednesday. They concerned American missiles and bases in Europe.

Defence Minister Denis Healey ordered an inquiry after the first discovery, though he told the House of Commons that the documents referred to the period before 1958 and did not constitute a security danger.

UP A NOT very lazy river this morning goes Saanich municipal employee Armando Zambrano, one of corps of shovel-wielding, rubber-booted workers trying to contain rivers where roads ought to be. Mr. Zambrano was posted on Gordon Head Road, where flooding was not known to have occurred in any extent in past years. Conjecture was that recent work on nearby University Gordon Head campus may have abetted flooding hazard on road. Five Saanich roads, including Gordon Head, were closed to traffic.

POWER, TELEPHONE SERVICES INTERRUPTED

By GLEN ALLEN

Electric power was out in Port Renfrew, Sidney streets were under water and near-pandemonium prevailed at points in between as the rains came overnight in extra abundance.

Well over one and one-half inches of rain had fallen on Greater Victoria homes, gardens and roads since Wednesday, flooding basements, swamping flower beds and making rivers of streets.

The normal quota of rainfall for the entire month of January is only two and one-half inches.

Municipal engineers, their staffs, all public works departments and police forces were out on the roads all morning checking the more serious of individual complaints and blockading roads where necessary.

"Boats are recommended," said a Saanich police officer this morning. "We just don't have the storm drains to handle this sort of thing."

Calls were coming into Saanich municipal hall at the rate of two a minute. About 200 had been taken by noon.

ROADS CLOSED

At press time several roads in Saanich, the hardest-hit of Victoria area municipalities, had been or were about to be blockaded. They were:

Gordon Head at Ruby; portions of Tyndall; Interurban at Marigold and Quayle; Blenkinsop between Mount Douglas Cross Road and Simon; Hastings at Granville and Holland and Shelbourne near Cedar Hill.

The city reports receiving "a constant stream" of calls reporting flooded basements. City engineer James Garnett, two inspectors and two assistants were outside on the job all morning.

No streets are closed off in the city.

ESQUIMALT HIT

Esquimalt public works department reported troubles "of all kinds" and "all over." Hampered by a cut in telephone service at about 10:30 a.m., all Esquimalt works crews were said to be out on the roads.

City police were relaying telephone calls through the police radio system.

Oak Bay Municipal Hall reported "basement and drain" difficulties, but no roads flooded.

All outlying police departments reported flooding complaints but no real emergencies.

Moving water was wheel-high on some Saanich Roads. Several automobiles stalled where water was deepest, on Gordon Head Road just below the University.

The University campus itself

28 CREWMEN MISSING

N. Koreans Sink South Navy Ship

SEOUL (UPI) — A South Korean navy patrol craft was sunk by North Korean shore batteries today when it darted into Communist coastal waters to intercept 70 southern fishing vessels which had strayed while chasing schools of fish. Twenty-eight of the patrol craft's 79 crewmen were listed as missing.

It was the most serious naval incident since the Korean armistice and the first time a South Korean navy ship was sunk by the Communists.

COUNTER-MEASURES

South Korean President Park Chung Hee called an urgent cabinet meeting for Friday to discuss "strong counter-measures" but reliable government sources discounted the possibility of any renewed large-scale clashes.

U.S. Maj.-Gen. Richard G. Ciccollela, chief of the United Nations command in Korea, denounced the attack and asked for a meeting of the Korean Military Armistice Commission Saturday to discuss the incident.

The UN command said the patrol craft had entered the coastal waters about 2:30 p.m. today (12:30 a.m. EST) to retrieve the 70 southern fishing boats that had strayed while chasing schools of pollack.

200 ROUNDS

The 560-ton patrol craft, identified only as Number 56, sank within 20 minutes after the Communist shore batteries near Kosunb opened a 200-round shelling without warning. South Korean patrol ships are 180-foot-long former U.S. Navy patrol and escort vessels of Second World War vintage.

The South Korean defence ministry said the 51 rescued crewmen were pulled from the waters of the Sea of Japan under air cover from Korean Air Force jet fighters.

"The innocent and non-hostile action of our patrol craft cannot justify this unconscionable and gruesome act of violence," Ciccollela said in a letter to the North Korean member of the armistice commission.

Other Contenders Silent

Times News Services

Davie Fulton, Progressive Conservative MP for Kamloops, said today he expects to be a candidate for the party leadership when the convention is called to decide it.

The former cabinet minister said that when the party's national executive sets the time and place he will make a "campaign statement."

Mr. Fulton talked to reporters in Ottawa after Conservative Leader Diefenbaker's television statement Wednesday night calling for an early leadership convention.

Mr. Fulton, long regarded as a potential candidate, said Mr. Diefenbaker's statement did not alter the over-all situation.

ACCEPTANCE

"What it does is to indicate his acceptance of the majority decision of the last annual meeting that there should be a leadership convention," he said.

"That is a welcome development."

Mr. Fulton insisted there is "nothing new in my position."

"That is, when a leadership convention is called I expect to be a candidate."

Mr. Fulton, justice minister and then works minister in the Conservative government between 1957 and 1963, finished third in voting at the 1956 Conservative convention that elected Mr. Diefenbaker party leader. Donald Fleming of Toronto, now retired from politics, was second.

Michael Starr, 56, Conservative leader in the Commons and former labor minister, said he would run only if Mr. Diefenbaker didn't.

Richard A. Bell, 53-year-old MP for Carleton and one-time immigration minister, said he had no comment on his plans.

LEADING CONTENDER

Of the three former cabinet ministers, Mr. Fulton is regarded as the leading contender.

Ontario Premier John Robarts, 50, said bluntly: "I will not be a candidate." Another Conservative premier mooted frequently for the federal post, 52-year-old Robert Stanfield of Nova Scotia, said he had no comment on Mr. Diefenbaker's speech.

There was no immediate word from Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba. At one time, he was generally considered Mr. Diefenbaker's personal choice to

Dief Asks Early Decision

OTTAWA (CP) — John George Diefenbaker went to the Conservative people on Wednesday, asking for a decision as soon as possible on the man they want to lead their party.

He left open the question of whether or not he would be a candidate when convention time comes.

But he asked for attendance at the convention of those Conservatives to whom he has always appealed most.

And he added that his speech on a national CBC telecast was "no swan song. Those who will interpret it that way do not know me."

Throughout his recent leadership troubles, Mr. Diefenbaker has held a hard core of support from many local riding associations, particularly rural ones, and from the candidates they picked who now sit as MPs.

In calling for a leadership convention at "the earliest possible date," the 71-year-old party chief said he wants "delegates democratically chosen by the constituency organization, not delegates at large named by provincial organizations," to attend it.

DESERVE HEARING

The "average Conservative" should have an opportunity to be heard. Mr. Diefenbaker called them "often silent hosts" who had given of their best and deserved a hearing.

And he said he wants the party to remain what it has been during his 10 years of leadership—"a people's party. It shall not become the plaything or the puppet of a powerful few."

Mr. Diefenbaker promised a "fight to the limit against any group or interest attempting to make of this party something other than what it has become—a people's party, standing for what is best in Canada, and never losing sight of the needs of the average, humble Canadian, whether young or old."

He was hissed and booed at that meeting as he tried to head off a move for an assessment of his leadership spearheaded by Dalton C. Camp, the national president. Mr. Camp

Mine Blast Kills 19 In N. Zealand

The blast flung bodies in all directions as it ripped through the Strongman mine midway through the morning shift.

First word of the tragedy was brought to the surface by a miner who emerged covered in black grime, shocked and stumbling but otherwise unhurt.

Another miner working near the blast scene said:

"It was like the suction from a giant vacuum cleaner. I was as close as anyone to the edge of the blast and was thrown off my feet. . . . My knees are still shaking."

Rescue teams which raced to the mine nine miles north of here found part of the roof caved in, blocking access to the section where the 19 victims had been working.

Ironically, they were scheduled to work there only for the one day.

WIRE BRIEFS

Accused of Spying

PEKING (CP) — A purged Communist party official, Yang Shang-Kun, was accused today of installing microphones in the residence of Mao Tse-tung, conferring repeatedly in secret with the Soviet ambassador and conveying secret vital documents to Moscow. The espionage charge is the first on public record against a high official in the history of Communist China.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A potentially damaging earthquake on or near the New Hebrides islands in the South Pacific was reported today by the U.S. coast and geodetic survey.

Agreement Reached

PARIS (AP) — France and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization have reached agreement on the terms of co-operation between French and NATO forces in West Germany in the event of war, reliable sources say. No details were disclosed.

INDUSTRIAL CITIES IN NORTH VIET HIT

From Agence France-Presse

HANOI (AFP)—This week's U.S. bombing raids, especially those against the industrial cities of Viet Tri and Thai Nguyen, were among the biggest and most violent of the Vietnam war.

Some 250 American planes took part Monday in attacks running from the 17th parallel all the way up to Vinh Phuc, northwest of the capital. The heaviest blows came Saturday, Sunday and Wednesday against Viet Tri, and Tuesday against Thai Nguyen.

An official protest to the International Control Commission said civilians suffered heavily in both cities. The commission is composed of India, Canada and Poland.

Viet Tri and Thai Nguyen are both communications hubs.

Almost the entire work force in the factories of Viet Tri was evacuated from the city after the November bombings, which caused extensive damage. The principal industry there is paper.

Thai Nguyen is considered the industrial pillar of North Vietnam. The country's first complete steel mill was built there, producing the first cast iron made in Indochina in early 1965.

Three blast furnaces and an open hearth furnace to produce high-quality steels were to be ready at the end of 1966. It was not known whether the plant was hit during the raids.

SAIGON—U.S. forces in Vietnam suffered nearly 1,200 casualties last week, their highest weekly total of the Vietnam war. The U.S. command said 144 men were killed and six were missing.

'Rain of Fire Death' Awes Even Americans

SAIGON (UPI) — Giant U.S. Air Force B52s burned out 18 square miles of a major Communist hideaway jungle Wednesday with saturation firebombing of the type that terrorized German cities in the Second World War.

The bombers swept in waves 20,000 feet over the 200-foot-high trees of the southeast corner of War Zone D and dumped tons of Second World War-type incendiary bombs that broke up into smaller magnesium bomblets before striking earth, spokesmen said.

The rain of fire awed even the airmen. "It looks like the Fourth of July," said an airman watching the blue-white magnesium blaze incinerate the jungle 32 miles northeast of Saigon and adjacent to the iron triangle where American troops have killed more than 500 Communists in an 11-day sweep, Operation Cedar Falls.

'HOMES, SCHOOLS BOMBED'

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — An American newspaper editor says American bombs have destroyed schools, homes and churches in North Vietnam.

Bill Baggs, editor of the Miami News, said some of the destroyed buildings he saw during an eight-day visit to North Vietnam were nowhere near military targets.

"The most frequent complaint a visiting American in Hanoi hears, and he hears it from intellectuals and government persons and peasants and soldiers, is:

"Why does the American government say its bombers only strke at steel and concrete in the air war against North Vietnam.

"No answer is going to convince these people. You tell them that mistakes are made in war. . . .

Baggs went to North Vietnam earlier this month accompanied by Harry S. Ashmore, chairman of the executive committee of the Centre for the Study of Democratic Institutions. Baggs is a director of the centre.

He wrote a series of copyrighted news articles that was made available to The Associated Press.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Wall St. Survives Some Profit-Taking

Prices displayed fractional strength at Toronto in light afternoon trading. Banks, which ran into heavy selling pressure Wednesday, edged higher after a slow morning start.

AT NEW YORK Sperry Rand, up about a point, looked like the most active gainer. Texas Instruments fell about six points. Hilton rose more than three points on news of merger with TWA, which was unchanged.

In a delayed opening block, International Telephone eased ⅛ to 78⅞ on 3,500 shares. Its proposed merger with American Broadcasting has been challenged by the U.S. justice department.

AT TORONTO Levy moved up ⅝ to 15⅝ and Distillers and Trans-Canada Pipe Lines ½ each to 36¼ and 26¾. Imperial-Commerce gained 1 to 64, Montreal and Toronto-Dominion ¼ each to 59½ and 62½ and Nova Scotia ⅛ to 68.

Western Oils, which have been flying high for the last two months, ran into profit taking. Home A fell ⅞ to 25¼, Banff ¾ to 15¾ and Canadian Superior ⅜ to 33⅛. Scurry-Rainbow gained 1⅛ to 23⅛ and Banff non exempt ¾ to 13.

Canada Cement retreated 1¾ to 38 after the company said 1957 profits may be lower, reflecting the levelling off of the construction pace.

AT MONTREAL prices moved narrowly higher in late dealings after three hours of irregular trading.

Moore Corp. advanced ½ to 92½, Alcan ¼ to 34¼, Walker-Gooderham ½ to 32⅜ and International Nickel ¾ to 93½.

AT LONDON equities were uncertain on the stock market today, with investors showing caution following publication of a further fall in the United Kingdom industrial output index for November.

Dollar stocks were generally better but Canadian Pacific, International Nickel, Trans Canada Pipe and Massey-Ferguson gave ground, reflecting the irregular trends in Canadian markets. Other Canadian stocks were often firmer. Bank of Nova Scotia improved again but other Canadian banks eased.

AT VANCOUVER Western Pacific Products jumped .37 to $5.62 in pre-noon activity today.

Ocean Cement was also strong in the industrials and rose $2 to $20.

The mining section was active with gains outnumbering losses.

Bata churned through 116,000 shares and gained 2½ cents to 48½. West Coast Resources rose .08 to .74 and Highmont kept up its recent advance with a three-cent gain to $2.13.

ABC-ITT Merger Meets Opposition

WASHINGTON (AP) — The justice department has asked the Federal Communications Commission to reconsider its approval of the merger of American Broadcasting Co. and International Telephone and Telegraph Co.

The department said the FCC had not given the merger adequate consideration and it strongly hinted that if its request is not granted the government may take the case to court.

Incorporation Wins Approval

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons committee on finance, trade and economic affairs today approved federal incorporation of the North West Life Assurance Co., which has been operating since 1956 under a B.C. provincial charter.

P. G. Ropchan, company president, told the committee that North West wants federal incorporation in order to come under "the technical competence of federal inspection."

Traffickers Jailed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Allan George MacKay, 30, of West Vancouver and Russell Roy Cuff, 20, of Vancouver received long prison sentences Wednesday when found guilty of trafficking in drugs. Mackay received a sentence of 10 years and Cuff seven years from judge Graham Ladner in county court.

Industrial, Mineral Show Sask. Plan

REGINA (CP) — The most ambitious industrial and mineral show in Saskatchewan's history will be undertaken next fall in Regina.

Index 67 has been filled as a sequel to the highly successful potash show in Saskatoon last year to promote the potash industry.

Sponsored by the provincial department of industry and commerce and the city of Regina, Index 67 is designed to encompass the entire mineral industry of Saskatchewan through a mineral symposium and the secondary service industry by means of an industrial exposition.

The symposium will feature technical papers on all phases of geology in Saskatchewan—the coal industry, metal mining, petroleum and natural gas, and the industrial minerals such as potash, sodium sulphate and salt.

The industrial exposition will feature all facets of industry from extraction of prime resources to the many phases of technology and service required by primary industries.

Officials expect about 500 exhibits and 3,000 delegates from many countries and all provinces of Canada.

A general committee set up to plan Index 67 hopes to provide a full technical program including about 110 speakers who will present papers on Saskatchewan mining and secondary industry.

Test Station On West Coast Honeywell Plan

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Honeywell Inc. says it will establish an underwater acoustics research program in the Puget Sound area of Washington in 1967.

"This research program will investigate specifically the acoustic phenomenon known as scattering, or unwanted signal reflections from marine organisms, surface and bottom irregularities," Dr. Theodore Hueter said.

Hueter, a manager of west coast ordnance operations for Honeywell, said such signals interfere with detection of small objects at great distances. He said Honeywell would seek means to penetrate this interference.

Hueter was in Seattle to inspect the firm's newly expanded undersea systems development laboratory and production plant on the Lake Washington ship canal. Honeywell produces undersea weapons and sonar equipment as well as automation systems.

Honeywell said the key piece of equipment in its Puget Sound program would be a transportable underwater test station which could operate submerged for up to three years.

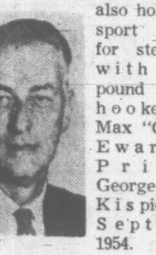
It is my pleasure to announce that the world record for steelhead trout is now back in British Columbia where it belongs.

For many years the largest of the great sea-run rainbows ever listed was a 42-pounder weighed in at Corbett, Oregon.

But the steelie which Japanese-Canadian Kichirzo Hama hauled into his gillnetter from a bay near the Skeena mouth last July 26 ran an even pound heavier.



Both fish were taken with commercial gear, but B.C. also holds the sport record for steelhead with a 36-pound fish hooked by Max "Chuck" Ewart of Prince George in the Kispiox in September, 1954.

For this information, I am indebted to Stan V. Wright, Vic Dale, Bud Bell, and several other fellows who would rather fish than engage in practically any other activity you can mention.

Sooke-dweller Stan Wright was there when Chuck Ewart toppled the rod-and-line record.

So, he tells me, was Seattle newsman Paul Lyon, whose wire-service account of the capture fetched American anglers in droves to what had formerly been a stream fished only by a handful of British Columbians.

The record landlocked rainbow trout to date weighed 37 pounds. It was caught in Lake Pend Oreille, Idaho, in 1947.

And I expect that sooner or later, a B.C. fish will topple that proud record, too.

There is a lady sweet and kind who read my last-week's piece about calendars, and confessed to a hobby which on several occasions has yielded her considerable pleasure.

What she does each January is inspect all calendars that come her way for the bloopers that can creep into even the most carefully prepared record.

It has a nice picture to go with each month, a stand-up tab on the back that inclines it at just the right angle, and in all respects but one, it is above reproach.

But to the trained eye, it reveals a flaw: the holidays it lists are not Canadan but American.

This, however, is a minor triumph for our sleuth. Modestly, she recounts how once she ruffled through the impressive wall job put out by a long-established Canadian emporium and discovered an error that made her squeak with glee.

Darn if they hadn't landed Ash Wednesday, the first day of Lent, on a Tuesday.

And while winding up this topic until next January, a note to the admired GP who gets our family trade:

Look, Doc, I can endure your cold, cold stethoscope against my rib cage, but will you for Pete's sake please remove that undertaker's calendar from your office wall?

To entertain sentimental thoughts for a car is ridiculous, since it's only metal and glass, rubber and fabric after all. But our close-coupled black charger carried us faithfully (with one expensive exception) for almost seven years, and we got to know each other pretty well.

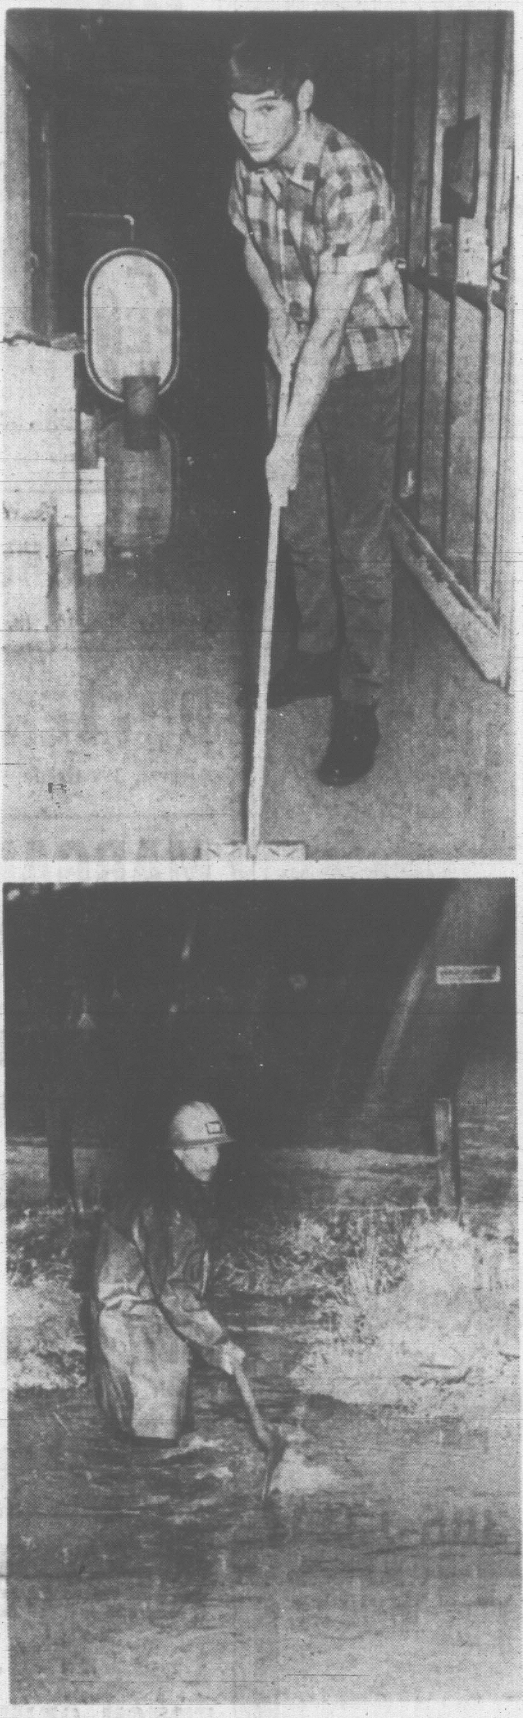
So it was not without a pang that we parted company the other day.

We have seen a lot of sunsets together, and many a dawn when the highway was empty and driving a pure delight.

In Portland, when we were both younger, we strayed into a one-way street from the wrong end. Had a trucker not covered us while we got turned around on the patio of a dog-and-cat hospital, I don't know what might have transpired.

We have been hauled ignominiously out of deep sand, and performed a few like services in our lengthy association. I fear that sometimes we have cut the time between here and Campbell River rather shorter than the law would approve.

A good car, and I hope its shiny new successor will serve us as well.



FIVE FEET HIGH and rising today, both inside and out. In top picture, John Lambert, 20, of 1568 Hawthorne, finds a sponge mop can't cut the mustard, when the mustard happens to be four inches deep and getting deeper. A bigger problem even than flooding basements in Saanich was roads that turned to rivers. Saanich Public Works worker Louis Pagnotta (bottom picture), was up to his thighs trying to divert water on Shelbourne into side ditch. Other roads badly flooded were in Gordon Head area. $2 Million Convention Hall Plan Revived by Alderman

Cabinet Taking Second Looks

An agonizing re-appraisal is going on in three government departments over the Buttle Lake dumping situation.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner this morning said he may present legislation in the coming session in the wake of the Appeal Court quashing of three Pollution Control Board permits allowing Western Mines to dump tailings and sewage effluent into the up-Island lake.

He also announced that Victoria lawyer E. E. Pearlman has been retained by the department to give a second legal opinion on whether or not an appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada should be launched by the government.

Mr. Pearlman replaces Harold Mercer of Vancouver who originally was asked for the advice but is detained out of the province.

EVEN SPLIT

Mr. Bonner pointed out the question has seen an even split of judges. The permits were upheld by a Supreme Court of B.C. judge and ruled illegal in a two-to-one split decision by the Appeal Court.

Recreation and Conservation Minister Kenneth Kiernan said his department is conducting a complete review of the situation because "there are too many cooks involved so it is a little difficult to determine exactly what is in the brew."

MINE TAILINGS

Mr. Kiernan is directly involved because the park use permits he issued to Western Mines to establish its mine tailings and townsite effluent dumping systems into the Strathcona Provincial Park were based on the permits.

Water Resources Minister Ray Williston, who is responsible for the Pollution Control Board, earlier said his officials also were conducting a review of the status created by the Appeal Court's decision.

NO COMMENT

Western Mines officials this morning declined to make any comment pending further consultation with their lawyers but they have insisted that no dumping of tailings into the lake has taken place yet.

TRIO CHARGED WITH HAVING MARIJUANA

Two men and a woman were charged in Duncan magistrate's court today with possession of marijuana.

David Trevil, 31, Lake Cowichan; Michael Soliner, 19, and Lorraine Lecroix, 25, both of Vancouver, were remanded without plea for eight days.

Magistrate Lance Heard set $2,000 bail in each case.

Cpl. Scott Coxen, RCMP, said the three accused were arrested at Lake Cowichan Wednesday.

Sollner and Lecroix had apparently arrived at the village Monday where Trevil had been staying for the past two weeks.

PROBE ORDERED

Man Dies After Fall Down Steps

A man who struck his head when he fell down his basement steps Sunday died in St. Joseph's Hospital Wednesday.

Frank Cavaz, 34, of 3211 Harriet is thought to have suffered a brain hemorrhage in the mishap but coroner Edmund St. Jorre said today he has ordered a post mortem examination.

Mr. Cavaz was taken to hospital by ambulance shortly after midnight Sunday after the tumble down 11 steps which ended with his head striking a barbeque.

The coroner said he would conduct an official inquiry into the death after he has received full police reports on the incident.

Born in Portugal, the dead man had been a Victoria resident for the past two years. He is survived by his wife Amanda; a daugher, Auzenda; a son, Frank, and his mother, brothers and sisters in Portugal.

Uvic Concert Set Friday For Baritone

Noted Canadian baritone Louis Quilico will appear in concert Friday at the University of Victoria, accompanied by his pianist wife and teacher Lina Pizzolongo.

The recital is the first in the CBC's Celebrity Series to be held at Uvic and is co-sponsored by the university's School of Fine Arts. It will be broadcast over CBC-AM radio March 16 at 8:30 p.m.

Born in Montreal, Luis Quilico studied in Canada and Italy, and has been a featured soloist in Europe, and South American and U.S. productions.

The reciatl will be in the 300-seat lecture theatre, Room 144 of the new Education and Arts Building at 8 p.m.,

Language Bar No Defence In Shop-Lift

Mrs. Arman Sandaljian of 1028 Fort was fined $75 in central court Wednesday for taking goods worth $4.26 from Woodward's store Dec. 6 without paying for them.

Her lawyer, Dermod Owen-Flood, argued there had been a misunderstanding as the woman's ability to speak English was limited. He also introduced evidence that his client was taking a type of medicine which was capable of putting her into a confused state.

When stopped by a store detective, the accused had $4.98 in her purse.

Site Behind Arena Urged by Edgelow

By JIM HUME
Times City Hall Reporter

A convention centre plan given serious study by Victoria city council 18 months ago was revived today by Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow.

A supporter of the $2 million 5,000-seat project when it was introduced to council by ex-Mayor R. B. Wilson in October, 1965, Ald. Edgelow said he couldn't understand how the proposal had been apparently overlooked by the committee now studying the convention centre problem.

The centre, as proposed by ex-Mayor Wilson, would see the city make use of the land located north of Memorial Arena and the land lying between the arena and the curling rink.

"It was an excellent plan as I recall it," Ald. Edgelow said this morning. "It was economical in that it could be built without the city going to the taxpayers for extra funds.

"It would be built on city-owned land, would provide adequate parking, is close to the centre of the city and would make full use of existing facilities," he said.

The convention centre envisioned by ex-Mayor Wilson included a 5,000-seat main hall with a stage at its head, medium-sized conference rooms and kitchen facilities for the preparation of banquets.

Asked if the idea was still practical, Mr. Garnett answered: "Definitely."

He added that while the main hall would seat 5,000 for conventions or theatre type productions, seating adjustments would enable crowds of up to 4,800 to watch basketball or similar spectator sports.

"And if there was an event which required the full floor space to be used balcony-type seating could still be provided for 1,800," he said.

Mr. Garnett said that when requested to prepare the preliminary drawings, ex-Mayor Wilson asked that flexibility or multi-purpose use be given priority consideration.

Used For Sports, Meetings

"The plan has much to recommend it," said Mr. Garnett. "The entire thing could be built in stages, which would relieve the burden on the budget. And it would utilize existing facilities to the extent that when finished it would provide the city with a very fine sports and convention centre complex."

The convention centre proper would, if the plan were adopted, be built in an elevated position on the rocky outcrop just to the northeast of the arena.

"It was never considered that the rock would be blasted out," said Mr. Garnett. "The top of the rock would be levelled so that the auditorium could retain the natural elevation. There would be easy under-cover access from one section of the complex to another section."

Ald. Edgelow stressed that the main convention hall could also be used for other sporting events such as basketball or badminton.

"The plan, in addition to providing a modern convention centre, provides parking facilities for 450 cars right on the site, plus the extra parking opposite the arena and the department store parking lot just across the way," he said.

"It ties in with the new Rose-Blanshard renewal scheme and the commercial development which is bound to come once the Rose-Blanshard scheme is completed," he added.

"And of course there would be the tremendous saving to the city on operatonal costs. They can kill you when you have to start hiring staff and maintenance men to run a new building.

"If the convention centre were built as part of the arena-curling rink complex the staff is already there. Extra men would no doubt be needed but the operating costs would be nothing like the costs we shall have to face if we build elsewhere."

Millions Saved in Land Costs

Ald. Edgelow stressed the high cost of acquiring property if a decision is made to build the proposed convention centre in the heart of the city.

"If we build a completely new centre in the downtown area we are going to be talking in terms of $5 million," Ald. Edgelow said. "A centre offering the same facilities but built between the arena and the curling rink would probably cost $2 million at the most."

Mr. Garnett noted that the 18-month-old plan offered more than just convention facilities.

Provision was made for the lower floor of a two-storey parking lot to be designed so that it could also be used for such things as automobile displays," he said.

"Any extra space required would be readily available in the arena or the curling rink which would all be connected with the new building.

"The main auditorium would be fitted with seats that telescope against the wall when not in use, freeing the floor for other activities, and provision was made for a stage at one end of the hall."

Ald. Edgelow said he would bring the old plan to the attention of the convention centre committee and ask them to make a close study of the proposal.

"They may have some sound and valid reasons as to why the old plan is not practical," he said. "Or maybe the plan just got forgotten. But I think they should take a second look at it because in my opinion it provides the simplest answer, and the most economical answer, to a problem we all admit exists."

SHARP HERE FOR SPEECH

A club spokesman said Mr. Sharp was expected to make a non-political speech dealing with the practical aspects of federal finance and foreign investment situations.

Club president Dr. Ralph Shepherd may be contacted by members interested in the meeting, which is open only to the club and guests of members. He may be reached at EV 3-5714.

Construction Of Schools To Go Ahead

Education and Labor Minister Leslie Peterson today said he is speeding up authorizations of school construction contracts for this winter.

But he couldn't resist taking a swing at the carpenters' union which had requested the move.

He received a wire from Arnold Smith, president of the B.C. Carpenters Council, Wednesday which said 1,400 carpenters are unemployed in the province now.

The carpenters suggested that school contracts, held back as a result of the government's restraint program, should be let to help create jobs and also lower contractor prices by winter projects.

"I appreciate their concern over school construction," Mr. Peterson said in an interview.

"Had we not had an interruption for so long with the lockout last summer, there wouldn't be quite so much school construction to be done at present."

However, he said authorizations are being given school boards by his department almost daily and a multi-million-dollar program will be carried out in the coming months.

"There willl be considerable construction in this sector during the winter," he said.

Ask The Times

Q. What is the origin of the term "Viet Cong"? S.J.

A. The full name of this South Vietnamese insurgent group is Viet Nam Doc Lap Dong Minh, or League for the Independence of Viet Nam. "Cong" is simply an abbreviation for congress.

Q. A friend says there are referees in Canada's National Hockey Hall of Fame. I don't believe it. Who's right? C.N.

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Men and women sat on antique chairs in a room reminiscent of Victorian splendor.

UPPER GORGE

This is the Craigflower Manor, built by the Hudson's Bay Company bailiff, Mr. Kenneth McKenzie, 113 years ago as part of the company's farm project on the upper Gorge.

A group of citizens gathered there Wednesday to press the provincial government to finalize the purchase of the private museum and home of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald A. Thompson.

They represented a cross-section of society, as well as social, historical, service and professional organizatons.

They were concerned that the B.C. government had done nothing yet to sign an agreement with the federal government to purchase the property for preservation as an historic site.

The federal government last year offered to share equally with the province in purchasing the property, with the senior government undertaking to maintain it for at least 35 years.

WANT TO SELL

Mrs. Thompson said she and her husband want to sell the property because the manor is too expensive to keep up.

"We are actually subsidizing the manor," she said.

It was vitally important for the government to take over the property because "dry rot" had started in the annex to the building, she added.

"The annex is comparatively new," she said. "It should be torn down before the dry rot spreads to the farmhouse."

QUICK ACTION

The representatives were unanimously in agreement that immediate government action to acquire the farmhouse was important.

"What we urge you to do is go back to your organizations and ask them to petition the government to complete the federal-provincial agreement," said Mrs. Thompson.

Modern Problems Involving Indians Subject for Panel

Two panelists from the Indian Affairs Branch will discuss modern-day social work problems with Indians tonight at a meeting of lower Vancouver Island social workers.

Panel chairman will be Al Carter director of the department of education's community program branch.

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. at Spencerhouse, 1951 Cook St.

AN OLD FAMILY HOME, ON approximately ONE and ONE HALF ACRES . . . out Royal Oak Way. It's pretty hard to find an interesting old place such as this. Nice high location with lots of trees and seclusion. The home is solid and quite spacious with THREE bedrooms. Mind you, the plan is rather horrible, but I'm sure that anyone with imagination could quite easily make it quite attractive inside. Price is $12,000 and it's a bargain. Please call Mr. Stothers, EV 2-2101 or 658-5285 for further information and to view.

Teachers Threaten 'Work to Rule'

ABBOTSFORD (CP) — Teachers in the Abbotsford School District threatened Wednesday to stage a work-to-rule protest because of the school board's "lack of concern" about conditions.

A spokesman for the 230 teachers at 36 schools said that beginning Feb. 1 the teachers will work only in accord with the terms of the provincial Public Schools Act.

He said they will arrive at school only 15 minutes before classes begin and leave 15 minutes after they are over.

They will refuse to supervise extra-curricular activities and will not be at school during the noon hour.

The teachers say they are protesting general working conditions, and excessive amount of time spent on bus supervision, and the manner in which contract negotiations have been carried out.

About 6,000 students attend the 36 district schools.

Two 'Roles' Take Toll On Cosby

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Two years ago, Bill Cosby was a former athlete trying to make a name as a comedian.

The first of his race to succeed as a co-star of a TV series, Cosby expounded on his new position during the lunch break of I Spy.

Cosby seemed tired. He admitted that the rigors of an hour-long drama filmed on far-off locations, and the pressures of being a civil-rights symbol, had left him mentally exhausted.

"You do what you can without killing yourself," he said. "Every Negro has a stake in the civil rights movement, and each of us has his own way of operating. Muhammad Ali has his way, Martin Luther King has his, Stokely Carmichael has his."

The Cosby way is less vocal. He figures he is advancing the Negro cause by his partnership with co-star Robert Culp in I Spy.

"Of course there are people who will ask, 'Has Bill Cosby done more for himself or for the cause?'" he said. "I won't argue that. But I do think that the sight of two men, one white and one black, working together and living together in a dramatic context of weekly television must be doing some good racial understanding."

Cosby also plays benefits for Negro causes and spends some time at Studio Watts, an organization to help Negroes in the Los Angeles neighborhood torn by rioting in 1965.

Construction Shows Decrease At N. Cowichan

The 12-month total was $3,307,763 compared to $5,688,486 in 1965.

Welfare Strike Ends

NEW YORK (AP)—Striking city welfare department employees voted to return to work today after accepting a mediator's proposal for fact-finding on the critical issue of wages.

Mother Repeats Killings

SKOWHEGAN, Maine (UPI)—Twice in 12 years the tormented mind of a mother drove her to drown her three children, thinking she was sending them to heaven and away from worldy evil.

The broken-hearted father had the six children buried near each other and vowed to stand by his wife.

A Superior Court jury of nine men and three women Wednesday found Mrs. Constance Fisher, 38, innocent of murder by reason of insanity in the drowning deaths of her children, Kathleen, 6, Michael, 4, and Natalie, 9 months, last June 30.

On March 9, 1954, the first three children of Carl and Constance Fisher also were drowned by their mother. They were Richard, 6, Daniel, 5, and Deborah, 11 months.

Later Mrs. Fisher was adjudged incompetent to stand trial and was committed to a mental hospital. She was released five years later when doctors pronounced her recovered. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher then had Kathleen, Michael and Natalie.

Mrs. Fisher Wednesday was returned to Augusta State Hospital with no time limit set by the court, which technically makes her a ward of the state. A hospital spokesman said she would probably remain there "for the foreseeable future," although she could be sent elsewhere for treatment.

BATMAN FAN AIDS POLICE NAB GUNMAN

VANCOUVER (CP) — Charles Percy Hall made a fatal mistake when he robbed a Vancouver Grocery store owner at gunpoint.

Hall, 37, of Vancouver, was arrested by police using the description supplied by an 11-year-old boy who said the robber resembled the Riddler, an arch rival of the fictional Batman.

Hall admitted taking $500 from grocer Shue Ming and also pleaded guilty to six other grocery store holdups in which more than $1,200 was taken.

He was remanded to Friday for sentence.

HOME GARDEN

Forget Picture On Package

By JACK BEASTALL

Their interest is mainly in the pictre on the packet, and these pictures canbemislea ding. of the picture is to indicate the type of vegetable, and you will sometimes find two or three strains of carrots in packets having the same picture on the outside.

Jack

Since carrots have been mentioned we can use them as an example.

The catalog I have on the desk lists them by types; speciall ong-type Nantes, Nantes or coreless, Chantenay type, long tapered varietes, Danvers type, Imperators, and coreless Amsterdamf orcing type.

TEN STRAINS

In each of these groups there are from three to ten strains and selections. The types vary from long thin tapers to short thick untapered roots, and maturing time varies from nine weeks to 12 weeks.

The long carrots are good on light deep soils while the stubby ones are better suited to heavy, shallow soils.

The reason so many kinds are offered is the variety of soil types and climatic conditions that prevail in a land mass as great as Canada.

Even in an area as small as Victoria there are many soil types, and somewhere in this list is—a carrot particularly suited to the type of soil in one garden, but unsuited to a garden down the street.

Therefore the name of the carrot, its type and length is important to the home gardener.

The one suited to any particular garden can only be found by experiment, that is, by sowing a few seeds of three or four named selections each year until the perfect root for your soil, conditions, and taste, is found.

This applies to most vegetables, and very often poor results are not due to poor seed or poor culture, but mainly to using an unsuitable strain.

Second Drink Sitting in Car Costs Man $150

A man who was caught drinking in a car one day before and two days after Christmas was fined a total of $200 Wednesday in central court.

He was found to have opened bottles of beer in the car on both occasions.

He paid $50 for the first offence, $150 for the second.

Carolyn Gilchrist, 106 Medina, was fined $50 for drinking in a public place also Dec. 27 on Jackland Road.

Bryan Dorren, HMCS Mackenzie, paid $50 on pleading guilty to the same offence Dec. 29 on Craigflower Road.

Fined $35 for being a minor in possession of alcohol was Frank Hoshul, 1653 Edgeware Road.

He was checked by Colwood RCMP Dec. 24 on the Trans-Canada Highway and found to have bottles of rum in his possession.

KREMLIN'S BIG THREE IN TOP-LEVEL TALKS

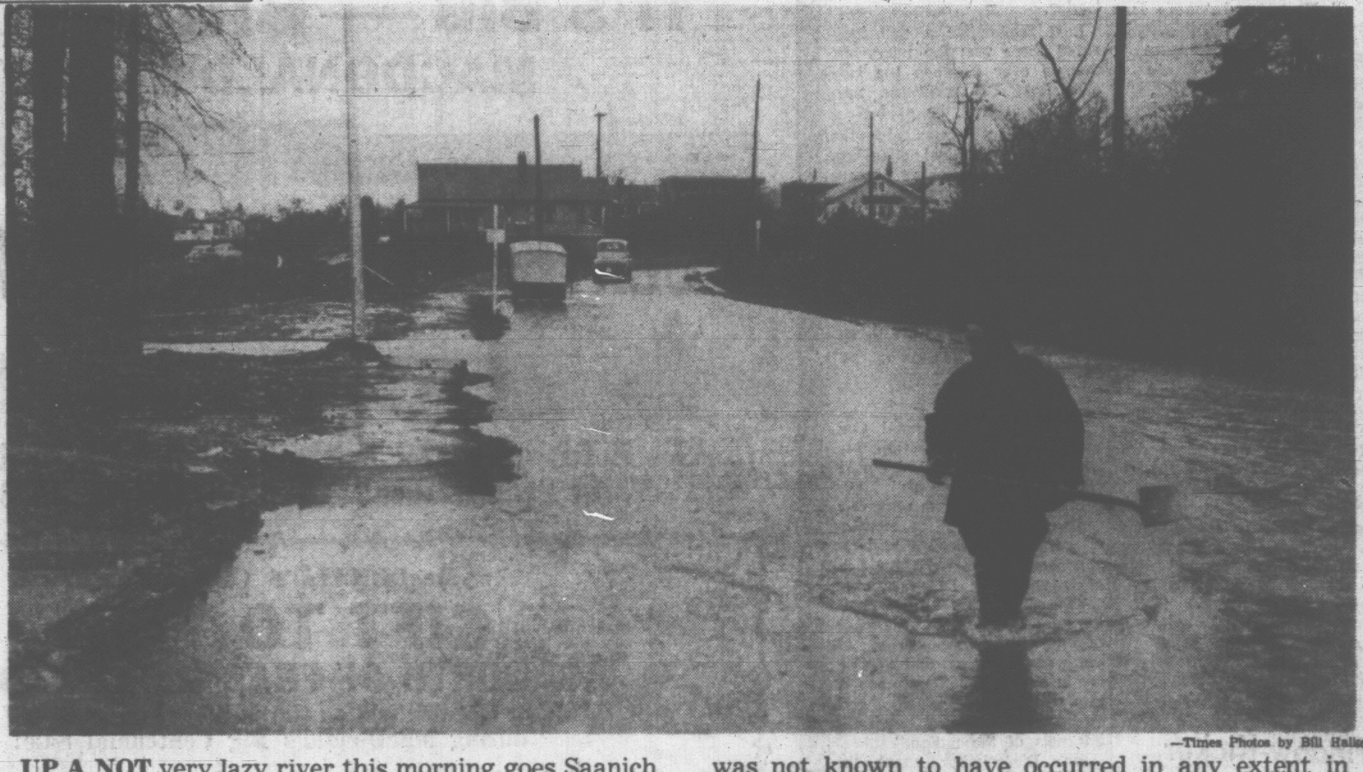
MOSCOW (UPI)—The Kremlin's top three leaders paid a secret visit to Poland this week for top-level talks on the crisis in Communist China, it was announced today.

It was the first time since they took power that Soviet Communist Party secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev, Premier Alexei Kosygin and President Nikolai Podgorny had travelled abroad together.

This "troika" trip to Warsaw illustrated the Kremlin's concern with recent events in China and gauged the depth of the Chinese "cultural revolution's" threat to the world Communist movement, observers here said.

SHOWERS DUE FRIDAY

Basements Flooded, Many Roads Closed



—Times Photos by Bill Hallet

UP A NOT very lazy river this morning goes Saanich municipal employee Armando Zambrano, one of corps of shovel-wielding, rubber-booted workers trying to contain rivers where roads ought to be. Mr. Zambrano was posted on Gordon Head Road, where flooding was not known to have occurred in any extent in past years. Conjecture was that recent work on nearby University Gordon Head campus may have abetted flooding hazard on road. Five Saanich roads, including Gordon Head, were closed to traffic.

Phone Services, Power Suffer

By GLEN ALLEN

Electric power was out in Port Renfrew, Sidney streets were under water and near-pandemonium prevailed at points in between as the rains came overnight in extra abundance.

Well over one and one-half inches of rain had fallen on Greater Victoria homes, gardens and roads since Wednesday, flooding basements, swamping flower beds and making rivers of streets.

Latest report from the the weather office was for cloud with showers for tonight and Friday. Forecaster expressed the opinion the heavy rainfall was over with the pressure showing signs of break-up on the west coast.

The normal quota of rainfall for the entire month of January is only two and one-half inches.

Municipal engineers, their staffs, all public works departments and police forces were out on the roads all morning checking the more serious of individual complaints and blockading roads where necessary.

"Boats are recommended," said a Saanich police officer this morning. "We just don't have the storm drains to handle this sort of thing."

Calls were coming into Saanich municipal hall at the rate of two a minute. About 300 had been taken by noon.

ROADS CLOSED

At press time several roads in Saanich, the hardest-hit of Victoria area municipalities, had been or were about to be blockaded. They were:

Gordon Head at Ruby; portions of Tyndall; Interurban at Marigold and Quayle; Blenkinsop between Mount Douglas Cross Road and Simon; Hastings at Granville and Holland and Shelbourne near Cedar Hill.

The city reports receiving "a constant stream" of calls reporting flooded basements. City engineer James Garnett, two inspectors and two assistants were outside on the job all morning.

No streets are closed off in the city.

Esquimalt public works department reported troubles "of all kinds" and "all over." Hampered by a cut in telephone service at about 10:30 a.m., all Esquimalt works crews were said to be out on the roads.

City police were relaying telephone calls through the police radio system.

Oak Bay Municipal Hall reported "basement and drain" difficulties, but no roads flooded.

All outlying police departments reported flooding complaints but no real emergencies.

Moving water was wheel-high on some Saanich Roads. Several automobiles stalled where water was deepest, on Gordon Head Road just below the University.

FOOT OF WATER

Two Sooke outages were remedied by crews but Port Renfrew at press time was without electricity.

A "lake" of water had collected at Fifth and Ocean Streets near the ferry slip in Sidney.

Air service has not as yet been interrupted by runway flooding, but Sidney RCMP reports over a foot of water in parts of the airport parking lot.

Victoria Parks Department said city parks were not flooding badly, although all games on turf playing fields have been cancelled.

A check with the Greater Victoria Water district revealed reservoirs were in places "dirtying" and "clay banks are flying here and there" but there is no overflow problem as yet.

Several Saanich householders have complained to Saanich health officers that water flooding into their basements, specifically in the Gordon Head and Majestic Park areas, is not only six inches deep but contains septic tank overflow.

An emergency control centre was set up in Saanich municipal hall to handle telephone and despatching duties.

Airliner Runs Into Tractor

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — A United Airlines plane with 50 persons aboard hit a snow tractor while landing today, injuring at least five persons.

Underground Test

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—The first underground nuclear test of the new year at the Nevada test site was conducted today by the Atomic Energy Commission.

Heiress Hunted

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI) — United States Coast Guard ships and planes fanned out over 5,000 square miles of the Caribbean today in a massive search for missing American heiress Mrs. Audrey Bruce Currier and her husband, Stephen, who disappeared on a flight between San Juan and St. Thomas, in the Virgin Islands.

Dillard Sues

OTTAWA (CP)—Fullback Jim Dillard has filed an action in the Supreme Court of Ontario against the Ottawa Football Club asking for a declaration of breach of contract.

Less than 24 hours before the suit was filed, Dillard rejected an offer from the football club to refund him $2,600 and a guarantee that no further salary deductions would be made.

MORE SECRET PAPERS FOUND PARTLY BURNED

LONDON (AFP) — Secret British documents were found partly burned today in a public park in Chislehurst, Kent. Similar documents, also charred by fire, were found near the park Wednesday. They concerned American missiles and bases in Europe.

Defence Minister Denis Healey ordered an inquiry after the first discovery, though he told the House of Commons that the documents referred to the period before 1958 and did not constitute a security danger.

'HOMES, SCHOOLS BOMBED'

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — An American newspaper editor says American bombs have destroyed schools, homes and churches in North Vietnam.

Bill Baggs, editor of the Miami News, said some of the destroyed buildings he saw during an eight-day visit to North Vietnam were nowhere near military targets.

"The most frequent complaint a visiting American in Hanoi hears, and he hears it from intellectuals and government persons and peasants and soldiers, is:

"Why does the American government say its bombers only strke at steel and concrete in the air war against North Vietnam.

"No answer is going to convince these people. You tell them that mistakes are made in war. . . .

Baggs went to North Vietnam earlier this month accompanied by Harry S. Ashmore, chairman of the executive committee of the Centre for the Study of Democratic Institutions. Baggs is a director of the centre.

He wrote a series of copyrighted news articles that was made available to The Associated Press.

NORTH VIET INDUSTRIES HIT

Most Violent Air Raids

HANOI (AFP)—This week's U.S. bombing raids, especially those against the industrial cities of Viet Tri and Thai Nguyen, were among the biggest and most violent of the Vietnam war.

Some 250 American planes took part Monday in attacks running from the 17th parallel all the way up to Vinh Phuc, northwest of the capital. The heaviest blows came Saturday, Sunday and Wednesday against Viet Tri, and Tuesday against Thai Nguyen.

An official protest to the International Control Commission said civilians suffered heavily in both cities. The commission is composed of India, Canada and Poland.

Viet Tri and Thai Nguyen are both communications hubs.

Almost the entire work force in the factories of Viet Tri was evacuated from the city after the November bombings, which caused extensive damage. The principal industry there is paper.

Thai Nguyen is considered the industrial pillar of North Vietnam. The country's first complete steel mill was built there, producing the first cast iron made in Indochina in early 1965.

Three blast furnaces and an open hearth furnace to produce high-quality steels were to be ready at the end of 1966. It was not known whether the plant was hit during the raids.

Fulton Throws Hat in Ring For Leadership of Tories

Times News Services

Davie Fulton, Progressive Conservative MP for Kamloops, said today he expects to be a candidate for the party leadership when the convention is called to decide it.

The former cabinet minister said that when the party's national executive sets the time and place he will make a "campaign statement."

Mr. Fulton talked to reporters in Ottawa after Conservative Leader Diefenbaker's television statement Wednesday night calling for an early leadership convention.

Mr. Fulton, long regarded as a potential candidate, said Mr. Diefenbaker's statement did not alter the over-all situation.

ACCEPTANCE

"What it does is to indicate his acceptance of the majority decision of the last annual meeting that there should be a leadership convention," he said.

"That is a welcome development."

Mr. Fulton insisted there is "nothing new in my position."

"That is, when a leadership convention is called I expect to be a candidate."

Mr. Fulton, justice minister and then works minister in the Conservative government between 1957 and 1963, finished

Dief Asks Early Decision

OTTAWA (CP) — John George Diefenbaker went to the Conservative people on Wednesday, asking for a decision as soon as possible on the man they want to lead their party.

He left open the question of whether or not he would be a candidate when convention time comes.

But he asked for attendance at the convention of those Conservatives to whom he has always appealed most.

And he added that his speech on a national CBC telecast was "no swan song. Those who will interpret it that way do not know me."

Throughout his recent leadership troubles, Mr. Diefenbaker has held a hard core of support from many local riding associations, particularly rural ones, and from the candidates they picked who now sit as MPs.

In calling for a leadership convention at "the earliest possible date," the 71 - year - old party chief said he wants "delegates democratically chosen by the constituency organization, not delegates at large named by provincial organizations," to attend it.

DESERVE HEARING

The "average Conservative" should have an opportunity to be heard. Mr. Diefenbaker called them "often silent hosts" who had given of their best and deserved a hearing.

And he said he wants the party to remain what it has been during his 10 years of leadership—"a people's party. It shall not become the plaything or the puppet of a powerful few."

Mr. Diefenbaker promised a "fight to the limit against any group or interest attempting to make of this party something other than what it has become—a people's party, standing for what is best in Canada, and never losing sight of the needs of the average, humble Canadian, whether young or old."

Mine Blast Kills 19 In N. Zealand

The blast flung bodies in all directions as it ripped through the Strongman mine midway through the morning shift.

First word of the tragedy was brought to the surface by a miner who emerged covered in black grime, shocked and stumbling but otherwise unhurt.

Another miner working near the blast scene said:

"It was like the suction from a giant vacuum cleaner. I was as close as anyone to the edge of the blast and was thrown off my feet. . . . My knees are still shaking."

Rescue teams which raced to the mine nine miles north of here found part of the roof caved in, blocking access to the section where the 19 victims had been working.

Ironically, they were scheduled to work there only for the one day.

28 CREWMEN MISSING

N. Koreans Sink South Navy Ship

SEOUL (UPI) — A South Korean navy patrol craft was sunk by North Korean shore batteries today when it darted into Communist coastal waters to intercept 70 southern fishing vessels which had strayed while chasing schools of fish. Twenty-eight of the patrol craft's 79 crewmen were listed as missing.

It was the most serious naval incident since the Korean armistice and the first time a South Korean navy ship was sunk by the Communists.

South Korean President Park Chung Hee called an urgent cabinet meeting for Friday to discuss "strong countermeasures" but reliable government sources discounted the possibility of any renewed large-scale clashes.

U.S. Maj.-Gen. Richard G. Ciccollela, chief of the United Nations command in Korea, denounced the attack and asked for a meeting of the Korean Military Armistice Commission Saturday to discuss the incident.

The UN command said the patrol craft had entered the coastal waters about 2:30 p.m. today (12:30 a.m. EST) to retrieve the 70 southern fishing boats that had strayed while chasing schools of pollack.

200 ROUNDS

The 560-ton patrol craft, identified only as Number 56, sank within 20 minutes after the Communist shore batteries near Kosunb opened a 200-round shelling without warning. South Korean patrol ships are 180-foot-long former U.S. Navy patrol and escort vessels of Second World War vintage.

The South Korean defence ministry said the 51 rescued crewmen were pulled from the waters of the Sea of Japan under air cover from Korean Air Force jet fighters.

"The innocent and non-hostile action of our patrol craft cannot justify this unconscionable and gruesome act of violence," Ciccollela said in a letter to the North Korean member of the armistice commission.

FIGHT SHIFTS TO COUNTRY

Peasants Bribed By Foes of Mao

TOKYO (CP) — Followers of Mao Tse-tung disclosed today that his opponents have extended their "counter-offensive" from the cities to the countryside in a bid to win over China's 500,000,000 peasants.

It was a direct challenge to Mao who, in the past, has managed to hold the support of the peasants who make up two-thirds of the mainland population.

Supporters of Mao's chief foe, President Liu Shao-chi, were reported trying to influence the peasants the same way they did workers in the industrial centres—through economic benefits.

Meanwhile, a Japanese correspondent in Peking reports bloody clashes took place between followers of Mao and Liu in Shenyang, Harbin and Dairen in Manchuria and Chengchow in central China. He says wall posters report 58 persons were injured Dec. 21 when about 3,000 Red Guards who had swung over to Liu's side clashed with 600 Maoists in Dairen, major port and gateway to Manchuria.

The correspondent says anti-Mao textile workers and their supporters clashed with pro-Mao Red Guards Jan. 7-8 in Chengchow. One person was reported killed and 23 seriously injured.

Six persons were reported seriously injured and scores slightly hurt Jan. 6 in similar clashes in Shenyang, the report adds.

BURNED EFFIGY

A Chinese woman arriving in Hong Kong from Canton said about 100 Chinese burned Mao in effigy in that southern city Wednesday. Hundreds of bystanders cheered and applauded, the woman said.

In another development, China's Communist party newspaper calls on forces backing Mao to recapture control of the Chinese press from reactionary elements.

"To seize control of the press is the militant task of the proletarian revolutionaries," the Peking People's Daily says.

The Communist party organ stresses the vital role the press plays in influencing the public.

In the hands of "bourgeois reactionary elements" it could be the tool for "spreading the poison of revisionism and the restoration of capitalism."

'Rain of Fire Death' Awes Even Americans

SAIGON (UPI) — Giant U.S. Air Force B52s burned out 18 square miles of a major Communist hideaway jungle Wednesday with saturation firebombing of the type that terrorized German cities in the Second World War.

The bombers swept in waves 20,000 feet over the 200-foot-high trees of the southeast corner of War Zone D and dumped tons of Second World War-type incendiary bombs that broke up into smaller magnesium bomblets before striking earth, spokesmen said.

The rain of fire awed even the airmen. "It looks like the Fourth of July," said an airman watching the blue-white magnesium blaze incinerate the jungle 32 miles northeast of Saigon and adjacent to the iron triangle where American troops have killed more than 500 Communists in an 11-day sweep, Operation Cedar Falls.

Slip Hurts Workman

The North Surrey man was working on a new radio beacon next to the Island's lighthouse when he apparently slipped.

The West Coast lifeboat was called out when it was feared Mr. Forbes had broken a bone.

He was treated and returned to the job.

. . . LEADERSHIP

third in voting at the 1956 Conservative convention that elected Mr. Diefenbaker party leader. Donald Fleming of Toronto, now retired from politics, was second.

Michael Starr, 56, Conservative leader in the Commons and former labor minister, said he would run only if Mr. Diefenbaker didn't.

Richard A. Bell, 53-year-old MP for Carleton and one-tme immigration minister, said he had no comment on his plans.

LEADING CONTENDER

Of the three former cabinet ministers, Mr. Fulton is regarded as the leading contender.

Ontario Premier John Robarts, 50, said bluntly: "I will not be a candidate." Another Conservative premier mooted frequently for the federal post, 52,year-old Robert Stanfield of Nova Scotia, said he had no comment on Mr. Diefenbaker's speech.

There was no immediate word from Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba. At one time, he was generally considered Mr. Diefenbaker's personal choice to succeed him in the federal leadership. He is 49.

Alvin Hamilton, 54, MP for Qu'Appelle, another mooted candidate, shied away from direct comment. He said: "My stand has always been the same. I like to be loyal to my leader."

Mr. Hamilton, former agriculture minister, added: "We have a call for a leadership convention and that I support."

Still to be heard from was George Hees, 56, Conservative MP for Northumberland, who also has leadership ambitions.

The only other avowed candidate is John MacLean, 40-year-old businessman in Brockville, Ont., who said he will run. He was the unsuccessful Conservative candidate in Leeds in the 1965 federal general election.

Dalton Camp, national president of the Progressive Conservative Association, was among the first to welcome Mr. Diefenbaker's call for a convention.

SHARES CONCERN

Mr. Camp was in Montreal Wednesday night to address a party riding meeting and said he shares Mr. Diefenbaker's concern "that the party shall not fall into the hands of a small group."

The president said he is prepared to call a meeting of the executive committee of the party's national executive Feb. 3-4. He had previouly arranged for a meeting of this group Feb. 10-11.

He said there were at least two major problems to consider about an early convention.

"I think in the spring there is a definite possibility of provincial elections, and this has to be considered. Further, we have to look for a city to hold the convention."

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

A deep extensive low pressure area is moving slowly north eastward across the Gulf of Alaska. Surges of moist Pacific air moving around the low centre have given extensive rainfall to coastal areas of B.C. during the past 24 hours with snow along the coastal mountains and over the balance of the province east of the coast range. Friday the main thrust of moisture will be across the Washington, Oregon coast with only showers along the B.C. coast.

FIRST CALL

"What does it say?"

Direct Appeal To Johnson

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI) — Israeli Premier Levi Eshkol today cabled President Johnson that Arab actions on the Syrian border had become "unsupportable." He warned "there is a legitimate limit even to self-restraint."

High government sources said Eshkol also cabled a similar assessment of continuing Arab border harassments to French President de Gaulle.

They said Eshkol told both leaders that "Syria and the world must try to understand that any extension of aggresion must be met with active defence."

It was believed to be the firt time Eshkol had appealed directly to Johnson for help in getting Syria to halt the almost daily skirmishes that have flared up along the tense 48-mile Israeli-Syrian frontier since the year began.

The cables were sent less than a day after the arrival of the first U.S. arms shipments to Jordan to bolster the government of moderate King Hussein. Five minutes of sudden gunfire Wednesday broke recent calm on the Israel-Jordan armistice line.

Window-Kicker Held in Jail For Sentence

A youth who admitted kicking out a plate glass display window at a downtown department store will wait in jail until he is sentenced Jan. 24.

Daniel Gibson, 17, of 627 Manchester, pleaded guilty to wilful damage when he appeared in central court today.

Police said the youth had smashed the 10-foot-by-six-foot window at the Bay, 1701 Douglas, when he left the store after being questioned by some of the staff.

Damage was $420, court was told.

Gibson's case was transferred from juvenile court. He has been in custody since he was arrested Jan. 3.

He will be sentenced Tuesday after Magistrate Ostler has studied a probation officer's report.

Chamber Slate In Esquimalt

Esquimalt Chamber of Commerce Wednesday marked its first anniversary with election of a new panel of officers.

tion the Conservative leader faced during the party's national convention last October.

He was hissed and booed at that meeting as he tried to head off a move for an assessment of his leadership spearheaded by Dalton C. Camp, the national president. Mr. Camp was re-elected to that post and the convention voted in favor of a leadership convention sometime this year.

71 PLEDGE DSUPPORT

But after the convention, 71 of his 95 followers in the Commons presented him with a pledge of their sworn support. And Mr. Diefenbaker delighted in showing visitors to his office bundles of letters and telegrams he said he had received in support of his leadership.

He referred to these in his TV speech, thanking "the many hundreds and thousands" who had written offering counsel and advice "and, above all, that encouragement which makes it possible for those of us who serve in public life to be able to withstand the slings and arrows of fortune."

Mr. Diefenbaker offered reminiscences about the election success he worked in leading his party to power in 1957, the year after he was picked as leader.

Last September a poll indicated there was the narrowest margin ever between the Liberals and Conservatives, narrower than 1957, he said.

However, that was also the time when "critical speeches, condemnatory speeches," were starting to be heard about the party. They brought division that was not good for Canada or Conservatives.

Mr. Diefenbaker recalled that many Conservatives were opposed to him at the 1956 convention. They were still in the ranks of "those who are against me now."

LULL FOLLOWED

Then came the annual Conservative party convention, Mr. Diefenbaker said. When it ended, "a lull followed."

But once again "an undercurrent of stern and unrelenting criticism" was flowing and the only benefactors were the Liberals and New Democrats.

"Therefore . . . I have come to the conclusion, after consultation with Canadians in all parts of the nation, that any delay in calling a national convention will add to confusion, generate uneasiness and harm the interests of the nation."

Mr. Diefenbaker spent the last few minutes of his speech on party policy, which he said must be based on principles of the past but kept up to date to meet changing conditions.

The time was overdue for removal of "the noose of tight money that is throttling Canada," for action on unreasonable interest rates and the rising cost of living.

Policies were needed in education, where costs were running higher than ever before.

Union Men Charged

CHICAGO (AP) — Five members of two maritime unions were charged Tuesday of waging a campaign of terror in a bitter labor dispute involving Canadian Great Lakes seamen. A federal grand jury charged the five with a series of violent acts, including the bombing of a Canadian freighter in Chicago and the bombing of railway facilities.

Heads SFU Students

VANCOUVER (CP) — Stan Wong, 19, was elected president of the Simon Fraser University student society. Wong, an economics student, formerly held the position of student ombudsman. David Yorke was elected first vice-president and Gillian Lindridge was elected second vice-president.

DEMONSTRATORS URGED TO GIVE HIM 'FAIR GO'

Ky Wins Sympathy in Australia

CANBERRA (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam encountered anti-war demonstrators again today but he also heard friendly shouts from the crowds on the second day of his five-day visit to Australia.

Although labor unions continued to organize opposition to the visit, the premier and his wife were greeted almost everywhere in the capital with the traditional Australian call on demonstrators to give Ky "a fair go, mate."

As Ky placed a wreath on a monument to Australia's war dead, one of the demonstrators present shouted: "What do we call it now? The butcher's block?"

Several hundred persons, including a few pro-Ky demonstrators, booed in disapproval, then applauded when Ky bowed his head in prayer.

Several hundred anti-war pickets were on hand when Ky arrived at a hotel to appear before the Australian National Press Club. There was prolonged and enthusiastic applause from more than 250 luncheon guests after his speech.

Ky questioned why there has been such criticism of the "accidental and regrettable deaths" from U.S. bombing of North Vietnam and comparatively little public notice of Viet Cong terrorism.

"Doctors, priests, monks, welfare workers and nurses are slaughtered in cold blood," Ky said. "Busloads of small children going to school and housewives going to market are blown up.

"Village elders are mutilated. Farmers knifed to death. . .

"What of the 7,277 civilians that have been murdered and the 35,218 persons that have been kidnapped by the Communist Viet Cong during the past five years?"

Incorporation Wins Approval

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons committee on finance, trade and economic affairs today approved federal incorporation of the North West Life Assurance Co., which has been operating since 1956 under a B.C. provincial charter.

P. G. Ropchan, company president, told the committee that North West wants federal incorporation in order to come under "the technical competence of federal inspection."

MARKET SUMMARIES

Profit-Taking Hits Wall Street Rally

Earlier the market rallied to post a gain in heavy trading.

Prices displayed fractional strength at Toronto in light afternoon trading. Banks, which ran into heavy selling pressure Wednesday, edged higher after a slow morning start. Golds displayed good strength to finish ahead 7.18.

AT NEW YORK Sperry Rand, up about a point, looked like the most active gainer. Texas Instruments fell about six points. Hilton rose more than three points on news of merger with TWA, which was unchanged.

In a delayed opening block, International Telephone eased ⅛ to 78⅞ on 3,500 shares. Its proposed merger with American Broadcasting has been challenged by the U.S. justice department.

AT TORONTO Levy moved up ⅝ to 15⅝ and Distillers and Trans-Canada Pipe Lines ½ each to 36¼ and 26¾. Imperial-Commerce gained 1 to 64, Montreal and Toronto-Dominion ¼ each to 59½ and 62½ and Nova Scotia ⅛ to 68.

Western Oils, which have been flying high for the last two months, ran into profit taking. Home A fell ⅞ to 25¼, Banff ¾ to 15¾ and Canadian Superior ⅜ to 33⅛. Scurry-Rainbow gained 1⅛ to 23⅛ and Banff non exempt ¾ to 13.

Canada Cement retreated 1¾ to 38 after the company said 1957 profits may be lower, reflecting the levelling off of the construction pace.

AT MONTREAL prices moved narrowly higher in late dealings after three hours of irregular trading.

Moore Corp. advanced ½ to 92½, Alcan ¼ to 34¼, Walker-Gooderham ½ to 32⅜ and International Nickel ¾ to 93½.

AT LONDON equities were uncertain on the stock market today, with investors showing caution following publication of a further fall in the United Kingdom industrial output index for November.

Dollar stocks were generally better but Canadian Pacific, International Nickel, Trans Canada Pipe and Massey-Ferguson gave ground, reflecting the irregular trends in Canadian markets. Other Canadian stocks were often firmer. Bank of Nova Scotia improved again but other Canadian banks eased.

AT VANCOUVER Western Pacific Products jumped .37 to $5.62 in pre-noon activity today.

Ocean Cement was also strong in the industrials and rose $2 to $20.

The mining section was active with gains outnumbering losses. Bata churned through 116,000 shares and gained 2½ cents to 48½. West Coast Resources rose .08 to .74 and Highmont kept up its recent advance with a three-cent gain to $2.13.

ABC-ITT Merger Meets Opposition

WASHINGTON (AP) — The justice department has asked the Federal Communications Commission to reconsider its approval of the merger of American Broadcasting Co. and International Telephone and Telegraph Co.

The department said the FCC had not given the merger adequate consideration and it strongly hinted that if its request is not granted the government may take the case to court.

Sophisticated "Casa Valencia" in the Spanish Manner

6 The romance of Moorish Spain. The timeless chic of the Mediterranean. A contemporary emphasis on function. All this adds up to sophistication in the distinctive home of today. Made by Kaufman, the illustrated bedroom suite features a mellow hickory finish, almost antique in appearance, so attractive you'll be glad that the soft glaze has a protective Armour Guard lacquer coating. Individual pieces are magnificent, handsome in proportions. Dressers, for instance, have framed plate mirror, 42"x28". Fully dustproofed.
